CARBOLIC HAS CREAMY FLAVOR IN COMPARISON

J. A. Shanks Gives Prince Rupert Some Notoriety on Return from Visit

J. A. Shanks, who was recently here for a short stay, and who was employed for a few days as barber at the Empress shop, has been spreading himself on Prince Rupert as he saw it, or perhaps it would be more appropriate to say as he tasted it. This is the yarn as published in one of the Victoria papers:

"Men once regarded as the north country's most substantial citizens have become dispensers of tobacco juice, whisky, rot-gut booze and other forms of bootleg liquor and they are dying hard, according to J. A. 'Five Points' Shanks, who returned to Victoria yesterday after an extended tour through the Bulkley Valley and a fairly lengthy visit to Prince Rupert.

Mr. Shanks, who some time ago announced himself as candidate for police commissioner here, says the wood alcohol fiends will be ruthlessly treated if he is ever elected.

Writing from Prince Rupert, Mr. Shanks said:

"I present this metropolis of the north is all agog on the subject of bootlegging. Large seizures of liquor have been made and a dozen or so erstwhile respected citizens are out on bail. That is as it should be. The law should be no respecter of persons when it comes to crime, and especially such a heinous offence as supplying rot-gut to a bunch of hard-working fools who are ready to drink it.

"I presume in Victoria one can secure a very fair grade of intoxicants through illegal channels, but up in this north country the stuff that these birds call whisky and sell for $20 a bottle is an outrage of the vilest kind.

Wood Alcohol for 'Pep'

"I have heard that it is a composition of chewing tobacco soaked in methylated spirits, to which is added a dash of wood alcohol to give it 'pep.' That as it may, my own impression, after taking a 'shot,' was that I want no more. It is the fiercest concoction I ever saw under a cork; carbolic acid has a creamy flavor compared to it.

"But one of the side lights on this condition here strikes me as peculiar, and that is the sympathy that many people express for some of the culprits. I have heard numerous solid business men lament the fact that so-and-so, naming some particular dispenser of rot-gut, has been pinched. Moreover, they would express the hope that a fine would cover his wrongdoing, though he was up for his second or third offence, which calls for a time sentence. For my part, I have more respect for a legitimate hold-up artist; he at least lets you go clear-brained and sensible if you'll hand over your roll."

Blind Pigs Everywhere.

"Prince Rupert, though, is by no means alone in the blind pig industry. All through this north country evidence of booze consumption is apparent. Drunks are noticeable in any town you visit, and the general salutation seems to be, 'Have you got anything on your hip?'

"I must say that the fellow who gives you a drink of good stuff for a rational price, even if he is breaking the law, should have more lenient consideration than the bird with the wood alcohol mixture, whose only object is to get the dough. One is really supplying a necessary evil, which has the legitimate claim of long-standing habit. The other, however, is creating an appetite for a new and worse evil, for I am told that those who acquire a liking for this awful concoction of chewing tobacco and its accessories go clean bug-house after a spell. They lose all interest in ordinary business pursuits, but search and crave only for more and more of this vile intoxicant."

Mining News

PREMIER SUMMER WORK

Operations at the Premier Mine, Stewart, during the summer are reported to have been highly satisfactory. The work has been of a development and construction nature, as it has been found to be more economical to ship ore in the winter when the snows may be used to advantage in getting the ore from the hills to tide-water. A great deal of diamond drilling has been done during the summer and the proving of the main ore body at 675 feet is very satisfactory, for many engineers had expressed doubts as to the depth. The bottom tunnel should hit the ore body in about another 30 feet and if the size and richness persists at this point all doubts as to the bigness of the mine will be removed. Some optimists say the concentrator will be operating at the Premier this winter, but many experts say this will be impossible so soon. If concentrator is not shipped out this winter there will, undoubtedly, be large quantities of high grade ore going to Tacoma for smelting.
