SHILOH 30 DROPS COUGHS FOX FARMING IN S. E. ALASKA

Islands Make Ideal Places for Industry and Are Being Stocked

Juneau, Sept. 27.—Renewed development in the fox farming industry in Southeastern Alaska is told by Lee Harpole, St. Elias lighthouse keeper, who arrived in town last week for a short stay. Two islands, Inian and Lemesurer, near Icy Straits already have received stock and at least one other island near Juneau is to be restocked, according to Mr. Harpole.

He made the trip from Cordova to Hoonah with Capt. J. P. Ibach, who has been raising foxes for several years on Middleton Island in the Prince William Sound district for export. From Middleton Island Capt. Ibach brought eight blue fox pups to Lemesurer Island adding them to 24 which he placed there last summer. He also brought 40 animals, also blues, to Inian Island for Jack Carson, that location having been secured by him for breeding and raising purposes. Capt. Ibach had planned to add 50 pair to his stock at Lemesurer Island this fall but owing to inclement weather was unable to do so. These will be brought down early next spring.

The islands in Southeastern Alaska are declared by Mr. Harpole to be ideal for the establishment of fox ranches and in his opinion it is but a question of time until most of them are utilized for this purpose. On all of them, he says, those who have investigated the matter have found plenty of feed and favorable climatic conditions.

Mr. Harpole will be in Juneau until the Alaska arrives and will return to Cordova on it.

ANYOX TAKES MORE BASEBALL HONORS

Defeated Prince Rupert in Second Match by score of 7 to 5.

Anyox was again victorious at baseball on Saturday afternoon when Prince Rupert was beaten by a score of 7 to 5. The game was not an exciting one and there was no spectacular playing. Anyox just had the edge on the home team and their playing was slightly more effective.

The batteries were Butler and Corkle for Prince Rupert and Ferguson and McDougall for Anyox, the latter being a very neat battery. The umpires were A. E. Donohue, of Prince Rupert, and Ole Olsen, of Anyox.

METHOD OF TAKING FINGER PRINTS BY USE OF THE X-RAY

Lecturing at the Royal Institution on "Recent advances in X-ray work," Major G. W. C. Kaye described the development of the which has a Coolidge tube, which has a highly rarefied vacuum and a tungsten spiral as cathode. This, he said, had revolutionized X-ray research, and would probably become the main instrument of the radiological work of the world. One of these tubes was shown, together with X-ray photographs taken by its means with one-hundredth of a second exposure. These were contrasted with the early examples of radio photography which in 1896 required an exposure of 20 minutes.

Some of Major Kaye's radiographs showed fractured skulls, bullets embedded in the skull and other parts of the body, and he also showed slides which had detected tuberculosis in joints and the travels of a needle which had penetrated a man's hand. Another interesting picture was that of the hand of an Egyptian Princess of the Second Dynasty (about 4500 B.C.) taken through the wrappings of her mummified remains, showing all the bones with great clearness and a ring on the third finger. Nearly every part of the body could now, he said, be radiographed readily and accurately.

A new method of taking fingerprints was also described. The hands are cleaned with alcohol and red lead rubbed over them. Radiographing them reveals with extraordinary accuracy the detail of the skin. The lecturer said he understood the method was before the attention of the Criminal investigation Department and he believed it would replace the old system.
