HAZELTON FOR TUBERCULOSIS

Hospital Board in Sending First Patient there Recommends Establishment of Government Sanitarium

Hazelton as the site of a sanitarium for tubercular patients is strongly recommended by the Prince Rupert General Hospital Board and the body is now making representations in this regard to the Provincial and Federal Governments. This week the board is sending to the Hazelton Hospital the first tubercular patient from this institution to that point and the fact that it will cost the local institution $60 cash every month to keep the patient there is a concrete demonstration of the faith that it has in the merits of the interior point as a tubercular resort. It is felt generally that a second Tranquille Sanitarium might be established at Hazelton both for natives and whites and be thus under the support of both provincial and federal governments.

"It is going to cost us $60 a month to keep this patient at Hazelton," said President D. G. Stewart to the News yesterday afternoon, "but we are sending him in the belief that there he will have a good chance for recovery, which he could not possibly have here."

For the North

"We are trying to bring to the attention of the authorities, both Provincial and Federal, the advantages of this place for the location of a government sustained sanitarium with a wing both for Indians and for whites."

"Several times we have tried to send this very patient to Kamloops, but that place has such a long waiting list that we found it impossible to do so. Hazelton, it seems, would be an ideal location for a similar establishment for the North, especially as we have no place to send such cases now."

Indian Standpoint

From the Indian standpoint alone the need of such an institution in the North is keenly felt. W. E. Collison, Indian Agent, in a letter recently written to President Stewart says that tuberculosis is the most serious menace to the existence of the Indians on this coast and fully 50 per cent of them are today affected with it in some way or other. "The establishment of a sanitarium for Indian patients," says Mr. Collison, "would answer the urgent question of 'What are we to do with those who have already contracted the disease?' The very education that such an institution would give along the lines of self-preservation would be invaluable and would also take the advanced cases away from the villages where they are now becoming centres of infection. The need of a sanitarium for the care of Indian patients is just as important as the need for whites, because tuberculosis must be fought as a whole."

"DR. JEKYLL AND MR. HYDE" WAS SENSATION

Burned by Author But Eventually
Re-written and Sold as a Shilling Shocker.

An interested spectator during the filming of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," the picture in which John Barrymore is giving one of the most remarkable performances of his career at the Westholme tonight, was Lloyd Osbourne, stepson of Robert Louis Stevenson, author of the story. Mr. Osbourne collaborated with Stevenson in several of his stories.

"Jekyll and Hyde" was written only a short time before my stepfather died," said Mr. Osbourne. "One night he had a dream and the next day he was writing feverishly. In three days the story evolved from his pen. He read it to my mother and myself. Then suddenly he decided it was no good and threw his manuscript into the fire."

"But, upon our persuasion, he rewrote the story and it was brought out in a cheap edition as a 'shilling shocker.' At first it attracted little attention, but it was soon taken up from the pulpit by the clergy and editorially in the newspapers. Soon it was a literary sensation."

"The film version of 'Jekyll and Hyde' is truly a work of genius. John Barrymore's performance surpasses even that of Richard Mansfield in the stage play made from the story. It is doubtful whether there will be another such portrayal as Mr. Barrymore's in this generation or the next. Mr. Mansfield depended solely upon theatrical devices for his effects; Mr. Barrymore's conception of the roles is more subtle and not only thrilling, but convincing as well."

GERMAN GOODS OUST BRITISH

Government of Great Britain is Asked to Enforce Making of Hosiery.

LONDON, Sept. 29.—Considerable unemployment and consequent distress exists in the Midland hosiery centres—such as Leicester, Nottingham, Hinckley, Loughborough and Derby—as a result of the importation into the country of large quantities of German-made goods. In addition to widespread unemployment, many workers have had to be placed on short time.

The president of the Leicester Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Frank Moore, has drawn the attention of the President of the Board of Trade to the serious situation and has asked him either to insist that German productions shall be clearly marked as such, or to restrict imported goods to such quantities as are absolutely necessary, and thus enable British manufacturers to keep their workpeople more fully employed.

Before the war, it was customary for these goods to be marked "Made Abroad," "Made in Germany," or "Made in Saxony," but today there appears to be no means of enforcing such markings, and the German goods are coming in without any indication of their origin whatever. The production of fine cotton hosiery and fabric gloves is practically a new industry in this country, and was developed during the war at the instigation of the government. Now that the war is over the manufacturers complain that all moral and practical support has been withdrawn, and every encouragement is given to Germany to nullify the efforts which British manufacturers have made.

It is pointed out that many of the German employees are working 12 hours a day, as against eight hours worked here, and that, moreover, they are working for considerably lower wages than those of the British workpeople. The German goods are coming in at a price with which British manufacturers cannot compete.

The Friendly Smoke

THERE is something mighty comforting and satisfying about "OLD CHUM" Tobacco; a sort of soothing restfulness that pipe smokers have come to associate with this friendly smoke.

"OLD CHUM" is an old, old chum with all pipe smokers.

It has the perfect tobacco taste—the mellow richness—and men know that they can be chummy with "OLD CHUM" all day long and that the "good night pipeful" will be as sweet and cool as the one enjoyed just after breakfast.

For years and years "OLD CHUM" has been Canada's favourite pipe tobacco and today is more popular than ever.
