Archbishop Du Vernet on The Universality of Law.

One of the chief reasons why there is so little conventional religion amongst us is because of the false conception which so largely prevails as to how God works.

The popular idea is that it is only as an external power occasionally breaking in upon us and interfering with the laws of Nature, like some mighty grappling-iron let down from the skies, that God can be recognized as working amongst us. As this so seldom happens in our experience, it is no wonder that God counts for so little in our lives. God is not the author of confusion. What we call the Laws of Nature, including the laws of the mind and the laws of the Spirit, are the discoveries we have made as to the way in which God works. There may be still higher laws, which we have not yet fully recognized, which will explain much which at present seems to us to be mysterious, but of one thing we may be certain; God will never contradict the laws which He has stamped upon the constitution of things, for He can never contradict Himself. The reign of law is universal. The variety in the universe is beyond human calculation, but the unity of the universe is supreme, because God reigns.

True Religion Has Unifying Influence.

God does not work upon us as an external mechanical force in some extraordinary manner. He works in us as a vital spiritual influence in accordance with the laws of the social life, the laws of the human mind, and the laws of the creative spirit.

It is far more honoring to God to believe that He is constantly working in us in a natural way, than to believe that He only occasionally works upon us in a miraculous manner.

True religion, as distinguished from conventional religion, is the life of God in the souls of men, women and children. The life of God in the soul of man has its fullest manifestation in the person of Christ, and we all know that the Spirit of Christ is the spirit of unselfish love. Since this life of God in the souls of men flows from one and the same source, it follows of necessity that wherever there is true religion it will tend to bind men of all classes, races and nations together as ministering members of the one great family of God. This is the infallible test of true religion.

Whenever we find a force which tends to estrange individuals, split up families, set class against class, or race against race, in selfish antagonism, whether this be a false nationalism or a one-sided unionism, or a sectarian denominationalism, or an ignorant Bibliolatry, or an ecclesiastical dogmatism—there we may be sure that the Spirit of Christ is lacking. It is an outrage on humanity to call anything like this religion.

If instead of relegating God to some distant star and making Him a far-off languid Spectator of our human affairs we would only enthrone Him in our hearts and give the influence of His Spirit of Love and Goodness full sway in our souls, to work in us and through us in accordance with the laws of the human mind and the laws of the social life, such as the power of the attention, the force of suggestion, the principle of associated ideas, the sympathetic radiation of feeling, the inspiration of fellowship, and the interpenetration of personality, religion would become to us all the greatest reality in the universe.

Granting Annuities Or Pensions.

Annuities or pensions to people in certain callings are sometimes proposed and certain servants of the public are granted pensions after reaching an advanced age. Women too get pensions under certain conditions.

The News favors pensions for everyone and cannot see why any one calling should be singled out for special privileges. Take for instance the police. If they are not paid well enough we would have them paid higher, but a policeman's widow and children do not get hungry any quicker than the widow and children of the man who digs sewers or does any other useful work, and the policeman does not usually become helpless at sixty or seventy years of age any more than other people. Anyone needing it should have a pension sufficient to keep him or her from want. There should be no distinction between men in one calling and those in another. A bar tender is just as much entitled to it as a policeman, and there does not seem to be any good reason why a newspaper editor should be exempt.

TORTURED BY TERRIBLE ECZEMA

Suffered Three Years Until She Tried "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

DAME PETER LAMARRE

Pointe St. Pierre, P. Q.

"I think it my duty to tell you how much your medicine has done for me. I suffered for three years with terrible Eczema. I consulted several doctors and they did not do me any good.

Then, I used one box of 'Sootha-Salva' and two boxes of 'Fruit-a-tives' and my hands are now clear. The pain is gone and there has been no return. I think it is a marvellous cure because no other medicine did me any good and I tried all the remedies I ever heard of, without benefit until I used 'Sootha-Salva' and 'Fruit-a-tives'.

'Fruit-a-tives' cooled the blood and removed the cause of the disease, and 'Sootha-Salva' completed the cure."

Dame PETER LAMARRE (81s).

PRINCE RUPERT TIDES

High, 11:28 a.m., 19.9 feet.

23:18 p.m., 19.7 feet.

Low, 5:18 a.m., 5 feet.

17:50 p.m., 5 feet.

Sunday, October 10.

High, 12:10 a.m., 20.9 feet.

Low, 6:16 a.m., 4.8 feet.

18:33 p.m., 3.8 feet.

The time used is Pacific Standard, for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight.

The table given is for Port Simpson but the time for Prince Rupert varies only a few minutes on some days and on others is the same. The range of the tide may be computed as 5 per cent greater at Prince Rupert than at Port Simpson both at springs and neaps. Therefore the rise in the Prince Rupert harbor is slightly greater than Port Simpson.

The height is in feet and tenths of feet above the average level of lower low water.

The Man in the Moon SAYS:-

THAT now that everything seems to be going down, what about stockings?

THAT in order to prevent any further drop in sugar, join the moderation league.

THAT—

The wind was high
The steam was low
The train was heavy
And hard to tow.
The coal was poor,
'Twas mostly slate
And that was why
The train was late.

THAT if a clock will go for thirty days without winding, how long will it go if wound?

THAT it seems easy enough for an aeroplane to hop off but difficult to hop on.

THAT the bone of contention is usually the jawbone of an ass.

THAT a moderation leaguer rises to remark that the meanest of mean men is the one who stocks up his cellar and then votes for prohibition.

THAT George Bell, M. P. P., felt so sure prohibition would carry here that he went off to help convert the heathen in Scotland.

THAT a converter might have been useful here just about now around the block not far from Fulton St. No friend, not across the road.

THAT a man dropped into the moderation rooms night before last thinking it was a Sunday School meeting. He came out.

ELKS' CONVENTION

W. E. Willisroft, C. O. Rowe and J. S. Strang who attended the convention of Elks at New Westminster are back in the city. Mr. Willisroft says there were 78 delegates present and they reported a membership of 2,500 has been added since the previous convention.

J. F. Morris, Grand Exalted Ruler, is about to give even more of his time and energy to organization than in the past. Extensions in the prairie provinces are proposed.

The delegates were splendidly entertained by Vancouver and New Westminster Elks. Calgary was decided on as the next place for a convention after invitations had been received by wire from the mayor, board of trade and the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs.

PITCHED BALL AGAINST CADORE IN HIGH SCHOOL DAYS IN CITY SPOKANE

M. S. Bryan, who is in town this week, as official stenographer at the Fall Assizes, and Cadore, the pitcher who played for Brooklyn, the victorious team in Thursday's World Series baseball game, were opposing pitchers on amateur teams in their high school days at Spokane. Cadore at that time was being mentioned as a professional ball player.
