CANON SCOTT TELLS STORY SECOND BATTLE OF YPRES

St. Lazaire his war experiences began. Finally after making his way up the lines he reached Ypres shortly before the world-famous Second Battle.

Place of Honor.

The Durham Light Infantry with which he had become attached was assigned by General Smith Dorrien to the place of honor in worrying the Germans outside of the city. Remaining in Ypres it was not long before shells began to rip through the city, laying low the ancient and dignified buildings and the bombardment, which resulted in the devastation of the beautiful old Belgian city, had commenced. Soon the artillery began to retreat and it looked like a rout but this was only for the time and the Sixteenth Canadian Scottish marched up as reinforcement to the delight of the padre who had not seen the unit since they had been encamped on Salisbury Plain.

Here at St. Julien, almost in sight of the field of Waterloo, the Canadians were sent in on the memorable April 22 when the Germans launched their first gas attack, thereby violating all recognized rules of warfare.

War's Horrors.

The story of the horrors, of the dying and wounded men with gaping and mortal wounds lying on the cold pavements on the night of the first day was told vividly. The moonlight falling softly on the great battlefield with the rifle fire going incessantly and the smell of gas in the air marked the night of the first great Canadian engagement when for three days and nights the Canadians hung on like grim death and foiled the German attempt at the channel ports and the probable gaining of the Hun object, world control. In the hour of horror he complimented the doctors, the nurses and the stretcher-bearers who had worked on the horrible wounds with their arms in many instances red with blood to the elbows.

At the end of the battle when the Germans had been repulsed congratulatory messages had come from the King, Lord French and the whole world.

Bought With Blood.

"If Canada has a grand place in the world it has been bought with the blood of these brave men and not by the millionaires who stayed at home. It is the men who risked and gave their lives who have saved Canada.

"Now we find ourselves at the turning point, the commencement of a new era. Canada is an independent nation with 8,000,000 people owning the greatest and richest country in the world. We must play the game like the boys did in France and show that same comradeship and sympathy they did out there. Let their deaths be an inspiration to bury our animosities and join with one great handshake from sea to sea, making love the dominant note in making a better people."

A vote of thanks was moved by Judge Young, seconded by Colonel McMorde and heartily voted unanimous with three cheers, a tiger, cougar and grizzly bear.

INDIAN GIRLS AND WHITE MEN APPEAR IN POLICE COURT

Peter Mysku, Minnie Johnson, Dan Jones and May Wilson were the principals in police court proceedings this morning, having been arrested last night at the Western and Dominion Hotels by the city police last night when acting in a disorderly manner.

Mysku was charged with vagrancy, supplying liquor to Indians and drunkenness. The first charge was withdrawn, he was found guilty of the second and fined $100 and pleaded guilty to the third, paying $10 fine.

Minnie Johnson was charged with vagrancy and drunkenness. The first charge was withdrawn and she was fined $10 on the second. Magistrate McMorde lectured her severely and warned her that there would be serious punishment awaiting if she was in police court again. Minnie is an old timer around the jail.

Dan Jones was found guilty of supplying liquor and was fined $100 and was also fined $10 for drunkenness.

May Wilson, a pal of Minnie's, was fined $10 for being drunk, she being in the same company. She was also censured by the magistrate.
