Register Now For City Vote.

Those who wish to vote in the municipal election in January must register now or they will find themselves disqualified. The local elections have nothing to do with provincial affairs. The lists are quite separate, the qualifications for each being on a different basis.

Those who own property in the municipality do not need to register, but all others should do so. The necessary forms can be filled out at the City Hall. Everyone should remember to do this at once. It is bad policy to leave it till the last minute.

Treatment of Prince Rupert.

It is the usual history of the struggle of a comparatively small place for recognition, that Prince Rupert is going through. She has to fight her way. We may be divided on matters of politics and also into wet and dry camps, but when it comes to standing by our city and her rights there is no reason for dissension and there is none.

The Canadian National Railways apparently have two time tables. One of these practically ignores Prince Rupert, putting her on a branch line. The other gives her prominence. Which of these has the large circulation and which the small, we do not know. It is certain, however, that those who get the yellow folder will find it difficult to realize that Prince Rupert is the terminus of a transcontinental railway.

Elections Bring Much Billingsgate.

The election will bring out a flood of Billingsgate or something very closely approaching it. Reckless charges will be flung by irresponsible persons whose former charges have been shown to be without foundation. There are people who must always be attacking someone. Those who have lived here a good many years are used to it and do not mind. They find it a subject for levity. Newcomers may wonder what it all means. For their benefit we may mention that it is the fruit of a disordered mind. No man in his senses would ever be guilty of such lingual lapses. Billingsgate is for old country fish wives. Do not mind it. It does not hurt anybody and only reacts on the one who uses it.

Liquor Fight Now in Scotland.

In view of the fight against the use of liquor in the Old Country, the following from the London Times is interesting: "The people of Scotland are to vote on the liquor question. The campaign foreshadows the sharper struggle that may follow in England, sharper because the law under which the poll is to be taken in Scotland is nine years old. The act was designed to 'promote temperance,' and it offers the choice to voters of having no change, of reducing the existing licences by 25 per cent., or of abolishing licences. But even if 'no licence' is adopted by an area, the licensing court is still to have the power of granting one or more certificates for an inn or hotel; and there is no provision against the private consumption of liquor, the possession of liquor, the sale of liquor for such consumption, or the transport and manufacture of liquor. Meanwhile opinion has hardened. The stringent conditions regulating the sale of drink, introduced during the war, were accompanied by a great reduction in drunkenness. But many other factors were involved, such as the absence of a large proportion of the adult male population. Since 1918, although the relaxation of the regulations has been slight, there has been a disquieting and apparently progressive increase in convictions for drunkenness. Finally, the drastic American experiment has inflamed the aspirations of those opposed to the consumption of alcohol and has heightened the anxiety of all others. On the one side prohibition is being openly advocated; on the other, reasonable freedom zealously defended. Whatever be the result of the present poll, it will be followed by a vigorous campaign for prohibition in the absolute sense, and if England comes to have the drink problem submitted to a popular vote, the issue presented will be more definite."

The time used is Pacific Standard, for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours from midnight to midnight.

The table given is for Port Simpson but the time for Prince Rupert varies only a few minutes on some days and on others is the same. The range of the tide may be computed as 5 per cent greater at Prince Rupert than at Port Simpson both at springs and neaps. Therefore the rise in the Prince Rupert harbor is slightly greater than Port Simpson.

The height is in feet and tenths of feet above the average level of lower low water.

PROHIBITIONISTS HOLD FINAL MEETING

Pay All Bills and Pass Votes of Thanks to Returning Officer and Others.

The final settling up meeting of the prohibition committee was held in the hut last night at which the bills were all ordered paid, a donation of $63 was sent to the central committee and those who took part in aiding the cause were formally thanked for their work. A letter is being sent to W. E. Mortimer, returning officer, mentioning the able and impartial manner in which his work was carried out and thanking him for courtesies extended. Others who received special mention were the Red Cross Society for use of the hut, the W. C. T. U. for aid in various ways, to C. O. Rowe and F. Scadden for work done in their particular lines of business and to T. H. Nutfall, the secretary, for the splendid manner in which he had worked day and night in the interests of the movement. VICTORIA, Oct. 25.—Architect Whittaker has returned from Prince Rupert and is busy on the specifications for the new Government buildings, the tenders for which will be called in a few days. The Man in the Moon SAYS:

THAT the history of the past few years, according to an agriculturist, has been that while the farmers raised the potatoes the restaurants raised the prices.

THAT the first lie the married woman told was when she promised to obey her husband.

THAT 'Twas a nut who once fooled with the joose in a high voltage line that was loose. He always was scoffin'. Now he's lining a coffin. If they must die to learn, what's the yoose?

THAT the fact that you know nothing about a subject should not keep you from explaining it.

THAT is the way of the embryo politician.

THAT at the present rate of progress there will be enough motor car owners and chauffeurs in town soon to insist on a drive way past Butzee Rapids to Port Edward.

THAT some of the words recommended for general use during the political campaign are "political fakirs," "the old blinch," "political hacks," "hypocritical excuses," "inglorious regime."

THAT judging by press dispatches, as whiskey goes down the price of bonds will go up.

THAT a correspondent wants the newspapers censored for using bad language. They have been using the word cofferdam very often of late.
