HOSPITAL BALL PRETTY AFFAIR

Opening Event of Dancing Season
Characterized by Many Lovely Costumes.

THREE HUNDRED ATTENDED AUDITORIUM LAST NIGHT

With the Hospital Ball which was held in the Auditorium last evening, the dancing season may be said to have properly commenced in the city. The big annual event was as much a success as ever and there were about 150 couples in attendance. The hall was decorated very daintily with the appropriate Hallowe'en hangings and the usual bareness of the place was completely relieved. The Ladies' Auxiliary of the hospital are indeed to be congratulated for the ball was a signal success and was thoroughly enjoyed by all who were present.

A feature of last night's affair was the number of new and charming gowns that were worn. Many had prepared for weeks for the event and the result was a delight to the eye. The gay decorations of the hall, the subdued lighting and the charmingly dressed women made a very pleasing effect.

Important Factors.
Mrs. Parsons was the general convenor of the ball and to her great praise is due for the excellent organization and the manner of despatch that characterized the conduct of the affair. Two important factors in the success of an event of this nature are the music and refreshments. Both, last night, were excellent. Gray's Orchestra played the regular program while Miss Mabel Adams played some numbers before their arrival.

The refreshments served to three sittings upstairs, were appetizing and dainty. Most were the donations secured by the soliciting committees and there was a plentiful supply.

Mrs. Parsons assisted by a decoration committee consisting of Mrs. D. Thomson, Mrs. Pringle and Mrs. Edmunds; a dance committee of Mrs. J. Carmichael and Mrs. Blance, together with a refreshment committee made up of Mrs. Thomas McClymont, Mrs. W. H. Kergin, Mrs. Pringle, Mrs. D. Thomson, Mrs. Edmunds and Mrs. Jarvis McLeod. Frank Moore was master of ceremonies, while R. Blance and J. Stewart were on the door. Assisting in the serving was a gentlemen's committee comprising E. C. Gibbons, Captain Groves, J. Carmichael, Dr. L. W. Kergin, H. F. Wearmouth, W. O. Fulton, E. H. Tabrum, P. Tinker and W. Wilson Murray. A novel colored spot light in the "moon-light" waltzes was provided by H. Pattinson. Parkin & Ward also assisted in the lighting scheme.

The patronesses were Mesdames D. G. Stewart, C. A. Eggert, Thos. McClymont and J. O. Reddie.

ALL THAT'S CORKED IS NOT WHISKEY

WINDSOR, Oct. 30.—License Inspector "Spracklin" "caught a Tartar" when he stopped a hearse owned by Albert Janisse, Windsor undertaker, and searched it for liquor. The inspector, in a dark corner, located a jar which, when shaken, gave forth a suspicious sound. When the cork was removed and the usual test applied the "liquor" was found to be embalming fluid.

WOMEN'S LUXURIES PROVE TO BE COSTLY

WASHINGTON, October 29.—Ready complexions, ruby lips and fragrant personalities cost the women of the United States $750,000,000 last year, according to luxury tax figures. This enormous sum was expended for rouge, face powder, cosmetics and perfumery. The year 1919 appears to have been the luxury year all right. The grand total, when added up, amounts to $22,700,000,000.

In the Letter Box PROSPERITY IN AIR.

Terrace, B. C.,
Editor Daily News.—
P. Chester passed through Terrace recently en route for Victoria. Mr. Chester is representing a Winnipeg firm and has been looking into a number of power sites for his company, for the purpose of a power plant and pulp mill. He was very much impressed with the advantages offered by Terrace and vicinity for such an enterprise.

With the development of Lakelse Hot Springs having commenced and with prospects good for a power plant in the near future and also Government control which will help some, we people of Terrace think we can see prosperity in the air for the next year.

EDISON AND HEREAFTER

Does Not Believe Personality
Exists After Death; Communicate with Spirits

Thomas A. Edison, inventor and scientist, does not believe that the human personality exists after death. He reasoned the problem out and came to this conclusion in the presence of an interviewer, Austin C. Lescarboura, editor of the Scientific American.

Yet after he had wound up his argument and stated the finding which apparently dooms hope for a hereafter, he added with a smile that notwithstanding his brief for nothingness beyond death, he still was working on his apparatus for communicating with the dead.

"I do hope that our personality survives," said Mr. Edison. "If it does, then my apparatus ought to be of some use. That is why I am now at work on the most sensitive apparatus I have ever undertaken to build, and I await the results with keenest interest."

Mr. Edison would not describe the apparatus, but he compared it to a valve which, turned by the comparatively puny human hand wielding only one-eighth horsepower, releases the energies of a mammoth turbine with 50,000 horse-power.

Unusually Delicate
The apparatus will be some unusually delicate instrument, capable of magnifying the most minute presence thousands of times.

"The slightest effort which it intercepts will be magnified many times so as to give us whatever form of record we desire for further investigation," explained Mr. Edison.

"But if this apparatus fails to reveal anything of exceptional interest, I am afraid that I shall have lost all faith in the survival of personality as we know it in this existence."

The inventor made light of the ouija board and table-tilting methods of communicating with the beyond and asserted that if there was any foundation for the belief that a life beyond existed, the methods for communication ought to be placed on a scientific basis. He said:

"Why should personalities in another sphere waste their time working a triangular piece of wood over a board with certain lettering on it? Why should certain personalities play pranks with tables? The whole business seems so childish to me that I frankly cannot give it serious consideration. If we are to make any real progress in the field of psychic investigation, we must do it with scientific apparatus and in a scientific manner."

Mr. Edison discussed the problem of life and death slowly, reasoning out every step leading toward the depressing conclusion with great care, turning frequently to the interviewer for corroboration.
