BRINGING UP FATHER

Colonel Peck on Docking of Rupert

Makes some caustic remarks regarding treatment of this place by Grand Trunk Pacific Coast Steamship Officials

Before leaving for the East yesterday morning, Col. Peck left the following letter for publication under the caption "Give the Old Town a Square Deal":

"On Friday evening the Daily News published the following, received, I suppose, in the ordinary course of newspaper-dispatches.

"Vancouver, Nov. 6.—The G.T.P. offices today deny the story that the Prince Rupert will be docked in the north. It was explained that the yard will be decided on by Capt. W. H. Logan, representative of the London Salvage Association, who is in charge of the salvage work, when the ship is floated."

"As I had stated that the Prince Rupert was to be docked here for repairs the editor of the Daily News called upon me with the above dispatch, and I showed him the telegrams I had received on the matter. As I did not think fit to publish them I think it worth while to quote them here, so that the public may know exactly what is happening and how our town is getting the harpoon at every turn.

Rush into Print
"Isn't it rather enlightening that the Grand Trunk Pacific offices in Vancouver should rush into print on this question? Does it not show where the heart of its high officials is?"

"From the telegrams, somebody is lying. Either the head officials of the Grand Trunk Pacific at Vancouver, or Mr. Hanna, president of the National Railways. I don't think anyone will believe it is Mr. Hanna."

"Now when Mr. Hanna was here a short time ago I interviewed him in his private car upon this very subject. Speaking of the wreck of the Prince Rupert I said it would be a big thing for this port if she could be repaired at our own drydock. He immediately said that he was anxious that this should be done, and that he had instructed Captain Nicholson to dock the Prince Rupert here."

Greatly Surprised
"I took this as final, but was greatly surprised a few days later to hear on good authority that Captain Logan had said she was to be docked in Victoria. I at once communicated with the Prince Rupert Board of Trade on the matter and then wired in their name to the secretary of Lloyds (who I personally know) and received this reply:

"Waiting Logan's report respecting docking Prince Rupert. Suggest you apply owners."

"This telegram certainly infers that the owners have some authority of influence in the matter. Upon its receipt I wired Mr. Hanna as follows:

The Telegram
"Since I saw you Captain Logan,

London Salvage Association, has stated that Prince Rupert will be docked in Victoria. This will entail towing her over four hundred miles and across Milbank and Queen Charlotte Sounds, instead of over a hundred miles here. Should the shipping company succeed in getting the contract after ship is docked in Victoria it will mean bringing her back here. Lloyds suggests that you owners will be able to influence plan of docking and I sincerely trust you will see that she is docked here."

"To this Mr. Hanna replied as follows:

"Your message Second. When I was in Vancouver I arranged with Nicholson to send steamer Prince Rupert to Prince Rupert and have message from him dated October thirtieth that he expected ship would be floated about end of November and will then be taken to Prince Rupert. Cannot understand any reason for change this arrangement. Have wired Nicholson again."

Very Definite
"The News said I had received a "reassuring" reply. Well, I'll say it was reassuring. Could anything be more definite? Just read Mr. Hanna's telegram and compare it with the News despatch from the G.T.P. offices. With both Mr. Hanna and the G. T. P. the wish is father to the thought."

"Now all this may seem a great ado about something that has happened very often before, but I think the time has come when we should come out in the open. It has always been an astounding thing to me that this town has received so little support from the G.T.P. This is the terminus of that railway—its seaport. This company has sold millions of dollars' worth of property to us and to the public of Canada. Our interests have been bound up together in every way; but I cannot remember a case that the company has spent any money in Prince Rupert if it could divert it anywhere else."

Greatest Offender
"The steamship company has been the greatest offender. It is not too much to say that their policy has been antagonistic to the town and some of their high officials have openly scoffed at us. And all this notwithstanding the fact that there would be no such institution as the G.T.P.C.S.S. Company if it was not for our poor old town of Prince Rupert. Where have they kept their head offices? Where have they bought their supplies? How many times have they had their boats' annual overhaul in our dock? How many times have they had their wrecks repaired here? Where do they propose to dock their ships this winter for the annual overhaul?"

Stand Together
"I would like to ask a great many more questions along this line. What I want to do is to stir up the people of this town to action—to enlighten them on the situation. I could and may tell some interesting stories, and, believe me, they would be interesting. What we want here more than anything else is a stand-together attitude; a spirit of loyalty and devotion. We need
