Stewart Comes Into Limelight.

Stewart comes into the limelight as a result of the published statement that a corporation has secured an option on Sir Donald Mann's short line of railway from Stewart up the Bear River and the charter allowing the building of the same through to the Peace River, connecting with the E. D. & B. C. Railway recently leased by the C. P. R. running from Edmonton to the Peace River.

The railway has to tunnel the mountain between the Bear River and the Naas River, but otherwise has a good grade and is not difficult to build, according to the reports of engineers received from time to time.

Should this line be built, even only to the Groundhog coal fields, it would mean an immense thing for the town of Stewart. That place would become an important shipping port and there would soon be an important city there. The place would not depend only on the railway but would also have the backing of the silver mines which have proved so rich and which at present keep it going. One thing seems certain, that the auriferous coal areas are very extensive and valuable and that the British Government and everybody else needs coal since the failure of the oil supply. The railway is under option and some definite action is likely to follow.

What About New Postmaster?

Now that the position of postmaster is vacant the wires will be pulled to secure the job for some politician who has served the Conservative party faithfully. The stumbling block, however, is the Civil Service Act which provides for promotions in the civil service.

The assistant to Mr. McIntosh was J. R. Morrison, who is at present in charge and who also had charge of the postoffice while Mr. McIntosh was away on a long holiday recently. He has been connected with the post office for ten years and is said to be in every respect a capable man. The position should naturally go to him. He is the next in line for it.

The position of postmaster is worth something slightly over $2,700 a year, including bonuses. It is not a very lucrative position, considering the responsibility involved, but there is a prevalent idea abroad that there is nothing to do in connection with it but to sit in an office and now and then see that the others are working. This is anything but the truth. A postmaster, to be efficient, has to work harder than any of the clerks. He should be a man who knows all about the work and who is able to put his fingers on any of the weak spots in a moment. It is to be hoped that the postmaster-general will see that the regular course of promotion is carried out in order to secure the efficiency of the institution.

PRINCE RUPERT TIDES

High, 11:46 a.m., 22.4 feet. 5:37 a.m., 7.3 feet. 18:29 p.m., 3.1 feet.

The time used is Pacific Standard, for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours from midnight to midnight.

The table given is for Port Simpson but the time for Prince Rupert varies only a few minutes on some days and on others is the same. The range of the tide may be computed as 5 per cent greater at Prince Rupert than at Port Simpson both at springs and neaps. Therefore the rise in the Prince Rupert harbor is slightly greater than Port Simpson.

The height is in feet and tenths of feet above the average level of lower low water.

CHURCH CONGRESS ON THEATRE AND ORIGIN OF HUMAN SPECIES

At the Church Congress, which met this year at Southend, Miss Sybil Thorndike, an actress, said that the theatre seemed to disturb the conscience of the Church, and continued:

The material which the drama uses to arouse our emotion is human life itself in action. Here we reach the essential point of contact and conflict between the Church and the drama. So far as the Church stands for sympathy and understanding of the joys and sorrows of life we are on common ground, but beyond this comes the split and the necessary and vital antagonism. The Church claims the right to say, "This is right, this is wrong; this is truth, this is error." The dramatist and the actor look at life and throw down the challenge, "This is life as I see it. What do you make of it?" They claim that by their art they throw upon each small concentrated section of life the bright light of humor, imagination, pity, terror and laughter. Should not the Church welcome such a means of presenting life? If the theatre is really and faithfully reflecting life it should be a valuable means of communication between us. Those who fear the theatre fear life itself. All we ask is sincerity.

Canon Barnes, in the course of his address, which was delivered at a morning devotional meeting of the Congress, said:

Systematic observation had made it practically certain that man was not specially created by God, as until two generations ago all Christians believed on the authority of primitive Jewish speculation. Man was the end of a vast evolutionary process of Divine design by which during at least a hundred million years life had become even more complex. The record of man's history was not that of physical evolution, for man's structure in his long period of some million years had altered but little. His history was the record of mental growth and of the concurrent emergence of moral loyalties and spiritual perception. Gradually the new complex of human personality had appeared. All the factors in human nature on which religion is built belonged to this complex. Because it seemed to have emerged out of nothing we could not deny its reality. In creating human personality God had made, or rather was making, something new which was apparently the final product of His purpose, the supreme object of His care.
