BE SURE TO VOTE.

Election is reminded that if they do not vote tomorrow their names are automatically removed from the lists. This is for the purpose of keeping the lists clean. Application can be made to get on the list, but the names will not be officially admitted until the sitting of the court of revision in the spring. This is a time when everyone should make the most of his opportunities as a citizen of Canada. There are great issues at stake. The future progress of the north and indeed of all British Columbia may depend on the votes of a few people. While we believe there is only one way in which intelligent people can exercise the franchise just now, it is better to exercise it foolishly than not at all. The vote is the one thing which indicates more than any other that you are free men and free women. If you are content to leave the Government of the country to others you deserve to be what the Socialists call you.

DOUGHTY GIVES VICTORY BONDS UP TO POLICE

Nothing Yet Discovered to Indicate what Happened to Ambrose Small

TORONTO, Nov. 30.—John Doughty, who was chased across the continent and arrested at Regina City in connection with the mysterious disappearance of Ambrose Small, the theatrical manager, today visited the home of his sister, Mrs. Lovatt here, and revealed there to the police the hiding place of the $100,000 worth of Canadian victory bonds, which have been now recovered intact.

Later it was discovered that Doughty had returned $5,000 more victory bonds than he was charged with stealing.

There are a flood of theories in regard to the disappearance of Small and the opinion of Mrs. Small is that he is still alive.

Pattullo Drove Home Many Political Truths and Had Meeting with him last night

Followers of Burrough interrupted constantly but were silenced by quick retorts of Liberal Candidate; No Other Candidate Spoke

Hon. T. D. Pattullo came out with flying colors from the big meeting last night in the Westholme Theatre, in which he explained the issues of the day and effectually dealt with all criticism. No other candidate addressed the gathering. S. M. Newton was represented by B. O. Oughton who spoke very briefly, and J. H. Burrough who took a place on the platform gave his time to Jack Kavanagh. There was a goodly smattering of Reds present, some of whom constantly interrupted, but were silenced by the speaker who showed wonderfully quick wit and bright repartee.

In summing up at the close of the meeting, Mr. Pattullo combatted the idea that a wave of independent thought was sweeping the country. He asked what happened in New Brunswick, in Nova Scotia in Manitoba recently.

Liberal Governments were elected in each of those provinces and even in Ontario, Drury, the leader of the Farmer Government, was a Liberal.

If Mr. Burrough was elected to the Legislature, Kavanagh could not sit for him. He would have to take the seat himself.

Not Ideal Conditions.

No one claimed that conditions were ideal now. No one knew this better than the speaker. The difficulty with Burrough and Kavanagh was that they showed no remedy. What about the millions starving in Russia today he asked, and there was no answer.

Liberalism represented no one class alone but all classes and all conditions. They believed in applying the experience gained during 6,000 years for the benefit of the human race. He ridiculed the socialistic idea of conducting affairs and asked who would be the bosses, who the scavengers and who the cooks? This work as necessary and had to be done, he recognized that even now no one really owned anything. They simply controlled it.

In Russia everything was owned by the state and they had a rule of blood and iron.

Probably Jack Kavanagh was getting money from the workingmen but he was not finding fault with that. "No Jack," he said, "I am not finding fault with that. You call yourself Jack instead of John in order to be one of the boys."

Chairman.

Dr. W. T. Kergin, who presided, said he had known Premier Oliver for 14 years and he thoroughly admired and esteemed him. They were quite right in calling him "Honest John." As to the appeal in "Farmer John," if they meant that he had plenty of good horse sense, that was correct too. The present government had taken hold of affairs when they were in bad shape and had re-established British Columbia and had enacted a lot of commonsense and useful legislation. Mr. Pattullo he had known since the birth of the town and he knew him for one who had given his time without stint to anything which was in the interests of the city. He had never known him to lie down when attacked.

Pattullo Speaks.

Hon. T. D. Pattullo explained that the Government had tried to deal constructively with the affairs of the province. They did not claim to have a panacea for all ills. All they claimed to have was common business sense. They were just an aggregation of commonsense mortals conducting the business of the country on business lines. On taking office they took stock and found that the finances of the country were in a parlous condition. The province was in debt and the former administration had not only spent much more than they received but they had been carrying on by selling the resources of the country.

The Government had put its house in order and had doubled the revenue. As a result they had been able to sell their bonds at a premium whereas they had formerly been offered a very low price, so low that they had to refuse it.

Power Question.

Mr. Pattullo said he did not believe that everything could be done governmentally. They must develop the natural resources of the country but success or failure was (continued on Page Four.)

MUCH MONEY UP AT PRINCE, GEORGE ON THE LIBERAL

PRINCE GEORGE, Nov. 30.—Betting on the election results in this constituency is very general. Until today the money in sight was fairly even, but today there is a decided change. There is lots of money offering on the Liberal candidate but the Conservatives want two to one and then there are scarcely any ready to take the Liberal money.

There is another $10,000 to bet that Perry, the Liberal candidate, will be elected by the largest majority ever given a candidate in this district.

Liberals Sure of Winning Says Vancouver Despatch

Oliver Confounds His Traitor amid Much Applause; Says Political Corpses should Not Return to Corrupt the Earth

VANCOUVER, November 30.—On the eve of election the people are realizing that the Oliver Government is going to be returned with a substantial majority.

Last night Oliver evoked a whirlwind of applause at a meeting here when he threw out the challenge that he would give $4,500 to the Vancouver General Hospital if Dr. Machan, the Conservative candidate, could prove that he had been paid $4,500 for the Western Cordage Company site at New Westminster before the company was given a government loan. He said the Western Cordage Co. never paid a dollar for the site.

Turning from defence to attack, the premier spoke of the remark of Bowser who said "Let the dead bury its dead." "I say let the dead not return to walk the earth a their grave clothes and offend the living with their corruption, corruption caused by unsavory ally deals."

Mr. Oliver said the statement had been made that he had been opposed to the military service act. This was false.

Both Liberals and Conservatives had crowded meetings.

PRUDHOMME MET QUIETUS

Said He Will Not Receive More Than Ten Votes in His Home Town.

HAZELTON, Nov. 30.—The final meeting in this riding in connection with the present political campaign is called by Alex. Manson for tonight at Smithers.

At the biggest meeting in the history of the place at Telkwa on Saturday night, Prudhomme met his quietus, the meeting being plainly with Manson. It is said now that Prudhomme will not get more than ten votes in his home town of Telkwa and that the total vote for both independents will not be more than 25.

Murray will receive a percentage of the old line Tory votes but there is every indication that Manson will have the big bulk of the farmer and Liberal vote. The returned soldiers are voting as civilians and are well pleased with the treatment they have received from the Provincial Government.
