Life Insurance Is In Certain Respects Unique

Other kinds of insurance provide for losses that MAY be sustained. Life Insurance provides for an inevitable loss.

The premiums on other kinds of insurance are an expense. The premiums on a life policy are payments on account of an asset; for at some time the policy must mature and be paid. Other kinds of insurance are expedient; Life Insurance is essential.

A building may never burn, a ship may never sink, but ALL men must die.

ERNEST LAPOINTE IS COMING MAN SAYS J. K. MUNRO

"As your gaze rests on the opposition, you notice that one man is missing—probably the only man you would really miss in the whole talented outfit," says J. K. Munro in McLean's Magazine.

"That man is Ernest Lapointe, the big Kamouraska lawyer. That is, he was from Kamouraska when he last sat in the House. When he comes again his address will be Quebec East. He has succeeded to the seat of the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Furthermore, he is fast taking the Laurier place in the habitant hearts. When Ernest Lapointe came to Parliament in 1904, he was a big country lawyer who could scarce speak a word of English and who promised to cut as much figure in his country's history as the average member who blossoms for a Parliament or two and then vanishes from the political horizon or becomes a decoration of the Red Chamber. Lapointe was young, the picture of smiling good nature, and so generally a pleasant part of the landscape that he grew popular. But his knowledge of the English language grew even faster than his popularity and he plodded along, gaining ground session by session. But it was only recently that it began to dawn on the House that a successor to Laurier was in its midst. By this time Lapointe had not only learned but mastered the English language. Moreover, he was eloquent, with a sound common sense behind his eloquence, and a knowledge of constitutional government such as is possessed by few men in Canadian public life."
