SHIPBUILDING AND REPAIRS AT DRY DOCK

New Vessels Will be Taking Definite Shape Soon—More Men to be Employed.

BOARDING HOUSE AND FIRST AID STATION

Even if litigation is now on between moneyed interests that affects the entire ownership of the Prince Rupert Dry Dock and Shipbuilding Co. control, this condition would never be betrayed by a visit to the plant where 300 men now have steady employment. At the yards the rattle of riveting and drilling machines, the red glare of the iron casting and the ring of hammers on machine work tells the story that operations both in repair work and actual shipbuilding are going on steadily despite the circumstances.

The most interesting part of the yards, of course, is that devoted to shipbuilding. Here the work is going on with more despatch than has been the case since the keels have been laid. One hundred men are devoting their time to the different departments necessary to the work. To the ordinary eye this seems slow but when one actually goes to the yard and sees the detail that must be followed in punching every hole in the plates, the bending of the steel beams and the fitting of each part this seeming slowness of a large hull taking shape can easily be understood. In April the crew of men on shipbuilding is to be doubled.

Frames up Soon.

At present the only evidence of hulls are the keels and the bottom plates but in the course of a week or so the contractor in charge says that the frames will be going up and then the structures will begin to take on the actual appearance of ships. Many machines are in operation getting the plates ready for fitting and iron workers are busy in the foundry casting the different fittings for the upper parts of the hulls. Manager Pillsbury and Superintendent McHaffie are now personally superintending the work.

Repair Work.

Repair work is also taking the time of a large number of men. The Prince Rupert has completed her underwater repairs and was recently inspected by a representative of Lloyds. The upper work is being completed and she is nearly ready for commission. It is thought that she will resume her coast run on February 26, when the Prince George will enter the local dock.

The car barge for the Whalen Mills was completed this week. There has been a lot of truss work in the interior of the barge that has been done with heavy beams and timbers and is not visible from the outside.

Smaller Jobs.

There are a number of smaller jobs as well. The fishing boat Dorreen is having her hull replaced and C. P. Riel's boat, the Imperieuse, which was recently sold to J. P. Hawkinson, of Alice Arm, is receiving a complete overhauling. The Washington Towing and Barge Company's barge 35 is receiving hull repairs, the barge having struck the beach at Graham Island while loaded with lumber from the Island mills. The Tilamook is spending the winter, tied up at the dock and will be overhauled before being commissioned for the Ketchikan run this spring.

Comfort and Safety.

Arrangements for the accommodation and convenience of the employees are also worthy of mention. The big boarding and rooming house accommodating 200 men, at the yards, under the management of L. D. Burr, an experienced commissary man, is running very smoothly and the fare offered the workers is of a high quality and there is no scarcity of it. The big dining room is a picture of cleanliness and neatness. Later it is proposed to instal a complete commissary and lounging rooms. Upstairs, over the dining room, are the sleeping quarters which are also commodious and well conducted.

First Aid.

Another notable feature at the yards is the first class first-aid station which is supervised by D. McAloney, an experienced first aid man and trained nurse as well. The station is located conveniently at the gate of the yards and is equipped with all the appliances required by the Workmen's Compensation Act. It is a very clean and sanitary station and is equipped with an operating table, sterilizing outfit, medical appliances and emergency kits. Here anyone meeting with an accident, minor or major, can receive efficient first aid treatment.

Three million dollars for a phonograph!

That's what it cost to perfect the only instrument that RE-CREATES music so faithfully that no one can tell whether it is the living artist he hears or the phonograph—when one is heard in direct comparison with the other. Add to that three million dollars, Thomas A. Edison's genius, his vast knowledge and his indomitable will and you realize how much was required to make

The NEW EDISON

"The Phonograph with a Soul"

"Now go ahead and build replicas," said Mr. Edison to his staff when he had finally achieved an instrument which would meet the tone test. "Call it the Official Laboratory Model and uphold the standards I have set to the last detail."

This three million dollar Phonograph is on display here—come in and hear it.

Ask for a copy of the beautiful book "Edison and Music" and the booklet "What the Critics Say" which proves Edison superiority.
