The Old vs. the New Revelation.

Editor of News,—
Your editorial on spiritualism, and your invitation for correspondence in reference to it stirred up sufficient interest to cause me to look up information on the subject. From your reference to Conan Doyle and his books and from other press notices I was led to believe that he would be one of the most reliable and informing authorities on spiritualism that I could procure. Through your kindness I have had the privilege of reading his book "The New Revelation." This I have read and reread, and along some lines have carefully analyzed.

As the whole subject hinges on the messages that come from the departed spirits, I gave close attention to all the author said about the spirits from whom the messages came, the mediums through whom they came, and the way the validity of these messages was tested.

Mistakes of Spirits.

After speaking on pages 90 and 91 of the mistakes the spirits make in their attempts to foretell events, he makes the following statement regarding a certain class of spirits, which to me is very significant, and speaks volumes. The author says: "But apart from these limitations we have unhappily, to deal with absolute cold-blooded lying on the part of wicked or mischievous intelligences. Everyone who has investigated the matter has, I suppose, met with examples of wilful deception, which occasionally are mixed up with good and true communications. It was of such messages, no doubt, that the Apostle wrote when he said: "Beloved believe not every spirit but try the spirits whether they be of God. These words can only mean that the early Christians not only practiced spiritualism as we understand it, but also that they were faced with the same difficulties." Everything in the above quotation finds its analogy in the teachings of the bible, with one exception. That is the assertion that "these words can only mean that the early Christians not only practiced spiritualism as we understand it, but also that they were faced with the same difficulties. The early Christians were faced with the difficulty of dealing with wicked lying spirits, whom the Apostle John calls the spirit of anti-Christ in the context of the passage quoted above by Conan Doyle. A comparison of this quotation and context with modern spiritualism as taught in "The New Revelation," has convinced the writer that it is identical with the anti-Christ spirit with which the Apostles had to contend. I see by comparing the teaching of the Apostles with modern spiritualism that the method of testing the messages of the lying, wicked spirits was entirely different. I have also found that the practice of spiritualism by the early Christians and modern Spiritualists are as far apart as the east is from the west. (See 1st John 3:22 4-6.)

Anti-Christ.

A comparison of the following statements will show that modern Spiritualism as set forth by Conan Doyle is identical with the anti-Christ spirit as set forth in the Bible. On page 55 of "The New Revelation" the author says: "One can see no justice in a vicarious sacrifice, nor in the God who could be placated by such means. Above all, many cannot understand such expressions as the 'redemption from sin,' cleansed by the blood of the Lamb,' and so forth. Compare these statements with the following scriptures: "For I delivered unto you first of all that which I also received, how that Christ died for our sins according to the scriptures." (1st Cor. 15: 3.) "Ye know that ye were not redeemed with corruptible things . . . But with the precious blood of Christ as of a lamb without blemish and without spot." 1st Peter 1-18-19. "The blood of Jesus Christ, His son, cleanseth us from all sin." 1st John 1-7.

Christ Spirit.

On page 57 our author in speaking of the spirits in the beyond says: "Opinion is not absolutely uniform yonder, any more than it is here, but reading a number of messages upon this subject, they amount to this: There are many higher spirits with our departed; they vary in degree; call them "angels" and you are in touch with old religious thought. High above all these is the greatest spirit of whom they have cognizance—not God, since God is so infinite that he is not within their ken—but one who is nearer God and to that extent represents God. This is the Christ spirit." Here we have direct denial of the deity of Christ. I am just wondering if these may not be the spirits of some of the wicked Jews we read of in John 10-30—39, who were going to stone Christ, and when he asked them for which of his good works they were stoning Him they said: "For a good work we stone thee not but for blasphemy and because that thou, being a man, makest thyself God." Christ did not deny the charge that he was making himself God, but contended for the truthfulness of the claim. Again I ask, may not the spirits who denied the deity of Christ to the mediums of the spiritualists have been the spirits of these wicked Jews who were going to stone him for making himself God, when he was on earth? Or perhaps it was the spirit of their father the Devil, whose works they did. John 8-44.

Lying Spirits.

The admission that modern Spiritualists had "to deal with cold-blooded lying on the part of wicked or mischievous intelligences" came to me as a shock, for it accurately corresponded with a case, the record of which is 2817 years old. The author of "The New Revelation" admits that modern spirit messages have failed when tried by the test that proved the validity of this message. A comparison of page 90 of "The New Revelation" with 1st Kings, chapter 22, will verify this statement. This passage in the first book of the records of the kings of Israel and Judah, tells of a visit Jehoshaphat, king of Judah, made to Ahab king of Israel. Ahab proposed that they should seek to regain Ramoth
