"THAT RASCAL PAT"

To the Editor.—I have read with considerable interest, not unmixed with amusement, the correspondence that has been precipitated by Irishman's letter protesting against the performance of "That Rascal Pat."

Several of your correspondents whose acquaintance with Ireland or the Irish seems to be limited to the comic paper Irishman, depicted as a rule with an upper lip that would suggest a very recent simian extraction, resent Irishman's protest. Is it possible that Irishmen do not invariably and without provocation, wave sheelagh's challenge the world to "tread on the tail of their coats" while splitting the air with "Whurroos," "Be jabbers," "Be Gorras?" Of all the cruelties inflicted by England on our suffering country the creation of the "Stage Irishman" was undoubtedly the most damnable.

The Caricature.

Born on the London stage in the old Burlesque opera days, he appeared in Robert Martin's sons of the type of "Ennisworthy," "Killaloe" and "Ballyhooley." Stage types are peculiarly persistent and an Irishman on the English stage who did not appear with a "caubeen" a "dhudan" and a "sheelagh," would be hooted as an imposter.

The unfortunate thing is that the stage Irishman has so impressed himself on the English consciousness that in attempting to legislate for that country Englishmen invariably adapt their measures to their conception of MOTHERS!

Watch your children's skins. As soon as you see the slightest trace of a rash or sore, apply Zam-Buk. This antiseptic balm will protect the sore place from infection, prevent it from spreading and healing soon follows.

Careful mothers always keep Zam-Buk on hand for their children's injuries—it ends pain so quickly and prevents any possibility of festering. Best for cuts, burns, scalds, bruises, ringworm, scalp sores, eczema and teething rash. All dealers 50c box.

the people. Hence the long succession of comic opera acts of parliament which have finally driven the Irish people to seek self-expression in the Sinn Fein movement.

The Better Way.

Could English statesmen once realize that the spirit of Ireland is better expressed in the verse of B. Yeats or the dramas of J. M. Synge, than in the "Don't care what they ate, if they get their whiskey nate" doggerel of Robert Martin, they would have made a big advance towards settling the troubles of our unhappy land. I join with Irishman in asking the Shamrock Dramatic Club not to help to perpetuate these gross, foreign born caricatures of our countrymen.

There is a wealth of good folk plays at their disposal, written and played by the members of the Abbey Players, Dublin, and the Ulster Literary Theatre, Belfast. Maunsell & Coy., Dublin, are publishers of the majority of these plays. In them will be found the glamour of the mist on the bog, the glen in the moonlight, the pleased heart of the girl, and, generally, an intimate knowledge of the true character of that people who, public opinion to the contrary notwithstanding, are still "kindly Irish of the Irish."

Yours faithfully,
"EIRE."

THE FRATERNAL BRAY.

To the Editor.—After exhausting the menagerie, the heaven above and the hell below for a fitting character for the writer "An Irishman" on reflection—in a mirror—has decided that yours humbled is an ass.

As an insult an adjective might improve it but as a fraternal bray from a brother it is a high compliment. As an example of "chivalry and warmheartedness," so typical of Irishmen, he is a shining light.

But strictly between us two, if poor old St. Patrick—who was a Scotsman—had only lived till today he would have kept the snakes and banished the Irishmen like my fond admirer and his fellow "patriots" of Erin.

NOT AN IRISHMAN.

(No good purpose can be gained by continuing this correspondence further, therefore we would ask that the matter be allowed to drop.—EDITOR.)

RED HERRING OF DOUBT

To the Editor.—The Rev. Mr. Van Sickle had an able letter in your paper Wednesday evening re Spiritualism. A quotation from his article reads "Here we have direct denial of the divinity of Christ." That is the vital point of the whole controversy. Spiritualism is the drawing of a red herring of doubt by Satan across the trail of Christian belief. Spiritualists do deny the divinity of Christ.

Some few years ago in Brighton, England, the Spiritualist society there compiled a new hymn book (I knew one of the leaders). In compiling the hymn book every hymn that had the word Jesus or Christ in it was thrown on one side, rejected.

At the door of their hall on Sunday evenings pamphlets were distributed at the door, the heading of which was "To convert the Christian."

Let us have patience. The veil will be lifted to us all in God's own time and we shall pass to the knowledge of His plan. In the meantime "by faith we stand."

BELIEVING THOMAS.

The Camp Cooking Revealed This

On Saturday we had a letter from a lady in New Westminster who asks that her name be omitted.
She said they discovered Pacific Milk while she was on her husband in a camp in summer, where no fresh milk was to be had.
It made such delicious fine grained cakes and breads and at less cost than kept on using it when it came back to town.
She says "Always reduce at least half with cold water"
