Prince Rupert in
The Public Eye.

Prince Rupert is more and more coming before the public as a centre of activity, brought about largely by its natural position and its many physical advantages. Mining and shipping journals tell of the prospects here and others are following suit. As an example take Toronto Saturday Night. In a recent number that excellent weekly says:—

"Hon. Wm. Sloan, Minister of Mines for British Columbia, in a recent review of new developments in Northern and Central British Columbia, stated that in the next few years Prince Rupert is bound to become the centre of one of the richest mining fields in the world. Latest developments in the vicinity of Alice Arm, Stewart, Hazelton, and numerous other points indicate very rich properties. A well known mining engineer, Mr. Alfred C. Garde, of Vancouver and Prince Rupert, is responsible for the statement that 'The wealth to be obtained from the mineral riches of British Columbia would be more than enough to pay the whole of Canada's national debt and leave plenty more to carry on with.' In speaking of the importance of establishing an iron smelter and iron works, where ore, coal, water and transportation facilities are to be found, he says: 'I have spent ten years in the north and the new fields along the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, which is popularly known as the Copper River District, and it is very rich in all the necessary ores for the establishment of a smelter and iron works. The ore is of superior quality.' In a statement given to the Vancouver press, Major George Hull, district engineer of the Dominion Department of Public Works at Prince Rupert, says: 'This coming summer, Northern British Columbia is coming into its own. You are going to see a boom in mining, particularly in the Stewart and Alice Arm districts, that will eclipse anything previously seen in this country. The coming activities in mining is going to have as big an effect on the future of Prince Rupert as the rush to Dawson had on Vancouver and Seattle.'"

Exclude Horses
From the Streets.

Some years ago the editor of this paper in an editorial article in another paper expressed the opinion that the time would come in the not far distant future when horses would not be allowed to be driven on the streets, and suggested that from a sanitary point of view this was something very much to be desired. A news despatch to the Vancouver papers a few days ago tells that Denver, Colorado, is preparing to put a regulation of this kind into force. That city has given the horse until January 1, 1925, to get out, after which no horses, cattle, sheep or swine may be kept within the city limits or driven on the streets.

Will Be Shock
To Many People.

It will be a shock to many people to find their old favorites disappearing. They like a live horse better than the dead machine. If these same people will consider, however, how much cruelty has been practised on the horse in the name of civilization they will at once admit that it is good for the horses to be kept from the peddler's cart, and from the wagon of the man who habitually overloads his team.

The horse in the field is a splendid creature, and ridden by a kind master he is often a personality, a friend rather than a slave. The horse in the city, however, tends to become a debased creature, insanitary and sometimes dangerous. He has to go before the rapid advance of modern civilization.
