BILL TO REGULATE RENTS IN ENGLAND

Restrictions on Advance to Last for Three Years

LONDON, May 7—The Government will introduce in the next few weeks a Bill to extend the operation of the Rent Restriction Acts. The Bill will be based on the recommendations of the Salisbury Committee.

This Committe recommend three matters of first importance. The first is that the Rent Restriction Acts shall be continued for three years—until March 25, 1924. The second is that the houses to be included in the scope of the Acts shalls be extended to rentals of three times the figure laid down in the 1915 Act—$525 in London, $450 in Scotland, and $390 in England and Wales outside London. The Acts as amended last year, apply to houses then rented at $350 in London, $300 in Scotland, and $260 in England and Wales outside London.

Thirdly, it is proposed that there shall be a graduated increase in net pre-war rents not exceeding 40 per cent while the Acts are in operation.

The Committee make three other recommendations. They are of opinion that evictions shall not be allowed except in cases in which reasonable alternative accommodation is provided. They insist that the execution of necessary repairs within a reasonable time shall be a sine qua non of increases of rent. They find that no case has been made out for the extension of the Acts to shops and other business premises.

It is unlikely that these proposals will meet with opposition from any considerable section of other House of Parliament. It may, therefore, be accepted that a Bill on thes lines will be passed into law before July 1.

PROPOSED PLAN OF DIPLOMACY

Standing of Canadian Vice-Ambassador at Washington Under New Arrangement.

WASHINGTON, May 7.— The proposed "independent" Canadian diplomatic representation soon to be established in Washington will mark an epoch-making innovation in the inter-Imperial relations existing between Great Britain and her overseas Dominions. The outstanding feature of the projected arrangement is the fact that henceforward whoever is British Ambassador to the United States will be one who is fully agreeable to Canada. He will substantially be selected and appointed by the British Foreign Office in co-operation with the Government of Canada. It is presumed that Sir Auckland Geddes was sent to Washington as the first embodiment of the principle that in future is to govern British-Canadian diplomatic affairs in this country.

Vice-Ambassador.

The corrollary feature of the scheme is that Canada will send a staff of Canadian diplomatic officials to Washington to be attached to the British Embassy. They will be headed by a man who will have the full rank of a Minister Plenipotentiary, and be second in command of the entire Embassy. He will, in fact, be Vice-Ambassador. In the absence of the Ambassador from Washington or from the United States the Canadian Minister Plenipotentiary will function as Acting Ambassador. While the Ambassador is at the Embassy the Canadian Minister and the Canadian staff will be part and parcel of the British Embassy, though of course forming a separate Canadian division thereof.

Handled by Canadians.

Thus Canadian affairs, as far as the United States Government is concerned, will continue to be transacted in Washington through the British Embassy. But the actual effect of the new plan will be that they will be handled and conducted, as has not been the case hitherto, by Canadians directly, deriving their authority and instructions directly from the Dominion Government at Ottawa.

The arrangement as outlined is entirely satisfactory to both the British and Canadian Governments. While it has not yet fully and formally received the sanction of the United States Government, no reasons are conceived by the parties at interest why it should not eventually do so.

Minister at Ottawa.

The State Department is less clear on another phase of the project, namely, to what extent, if any, United States representation in Canada will require to be revised. At present the United States maintains there only Consuls-General and Consuls. It has not yet been determined whether the United States will have to station a Minister at Ottawa, or perhaps only raise its more important Canadian Consular officers to the rank of diplomatic agents, such as have long been maintained, for example, in Egypt.
