He declared that four million dollars, is to be spent on the completion of the Pacific Great Eastern Railroad to Fort George.

All the progress made on the road in 1920 will be government work.

J. S. Cowper, who also addressed the meeting, was much heckled by returned soldiers. He said that the accomplishments of the Public Utilities Commission did not warrant its continuation and he believed Major Retallack had no real claim for compensation. Disorder followed a comment on Retallack's insinuation that wire use of the commission was intended for bludgeoning corporations. Mr. Cowper stated that it reflected on the operations of Retallack's mind.
