Dr. Tolmie on Farming in Canada.

Hon. Dr. Tolmie of Victoria, Minister of Agriculture in the Dominion Parliament, gave a review of the farming industry a few days ago which proved very interesting. It is not often that farming is a topic of discussion in the House. Labor matters and commercial matters are before the members very frequently, but the work of the farmer is something in which members are not supposed to interest themselves.

Dr. Tolmie urged that there be a continuous and vigorous campaign of agricultural education. There has been such a campaign carried on by the provincial governments for many years past and the Dominion has aided a good deal, but, according to * Dr. Tolmie there is much yet to be done. Anyone who has travelled through a farming community will heartily agree with Mr. Tolmie when they see a comparison of the records of the different farmers.

Small Improvement Gets Big Results.

In his speech the minister of agriculture drew attention to the fact that in grain growing the securing of an increase of three bushels to the acre from improved methods was not much. Yet if every farmer in the country raised three bushels to the acre more than he was doing today the value of the increase would amount to nearly four million dollars. Similarly in dairying and stock raising. Improved methods resulted in greater wealth for the farmers and consequent greater wealth to the whole community.

The Minister of Agriculture, being himself a practical farmer, was able to give facts and figures and to speak from first hand knowledge. He quoted many cases of large production by individuals who used modern methods. He urged the more general use of ensilage in feeding, and his advice would particularly apply to the farms in northern British Columbia where the conditions for having may not always be as good as in other parts of the province. dard, for the 120th Me

Marketing is Also Important.

Dealing with the question of marketing, Dr. Tolmie spoke incidentally of the value of the market across the Pacific. He said that members would be surprised to hear that China was on some days and o one of the largest consumers of condensed milk and that Japan the same. The range also took some as well as many other food products.

The minister promised the greatest co-operation of his de- greater at Prince Rup partment to improve the status of farming and to provide markets. Port Simpson both at neaps. Therefore the He concluded his very excellent address in part as follows:-Prince Rupert harbor
