DAILY EDITION. Thursday, June 10, 1920.

Lloyd George Again Big Man of World.

Lloyd George has again shown himself to be the world's greatest man. He has taken the lead in bringing Russia and the rest of the world together again. It was a big task, for the prejudices against the Bolsheviks of Russia are very strong, but not much stronger than were the prejudices of a certain class of British people against Lloyd George not many years ago. The overcoming of prejudices, the breaking down of class distinctions and the courage to do rather than to drift, are some of the characteristics of the "Little Welshman" who rules Great Britain.

Russians No Longer Really Bolsheviks.

The Russian people seem to be settling down and evolving a new condition of things. They set out with certain ideals, which have been sadly shattered. They had ideals which were somewhat communal, but they have to a large extent become individualists. They have found by experience that their ideals were unworkable. While it is difficult to get reliable information in regard to actual conditions, the Socialists on one side giving out one-sided propaganda literature and the other side with equally untrue propaganda, there is no doubt but that the leaders have come to a realization that it is impossible to secure ideal conditions with an ignorant populace. They have found that workmen are just as human as any other kind of men, if there are any, and that selfishness pervades the race. Until this is eradicated no ideal democratic government can be formed. Russia has formed a militaristic bureaucracy based on a desire for better government and more equal conditions. The leaders have found that conditions that have developed there have prevented the spread of Bolshevism into many other countries. The failure of Bolshevism came with the success of the Bolsheviks.

Condition Recognized By British Premier.

The British Premier recognizes the fact that the only way to keep the populace informed of the conditions in Russia is by way of trade. Trade is the great civilizer. It is the old story repeated. He has courageously opposed the will of many of his supporters and made a trade pact with Lenin through his representative in London. He has made a treaty with the former Bolsheviks but not with Bolshevism. In a few years we shall see the wisdom of the action of the big little man. Lloyd George is cursed alternately by the capitalists and by the workers. He is big enough to be unduly influenced by either. There have been times when he has been forced to compromise, when he has failed, through stress of circumstances to carry out promises, when he has shifted his ground. There was where he showed his wisdom. He recognized a new condition when it arose and adjusted himself to meet it. At the same time no one can ever say he lacks courage. He passed the lie to any such suggestion as much when he went contrary to a large body of public opinion yesterday in treating with the Russians as when he had to jump out of a window to escape from an angry crowd at the time of the Boer trouble.

We may not like everything Lloyd George does, but we must admit he is the one man in the Empire who has really done things that count, and who has had the courage and ability to carry through his policies.

I heard about "Fruit-a-tives" so decided to try it. The first box gave great relief; and I continued the treatment. Now my health is excellent—I am free of pain—and I give "Fruit-a-tives" my warmest thanks."

The time used is Pacific Standard, for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight.

The table given is for Port Simpson but the time for Prince Rupert varies only a few minutes on some days and on others is the same. The range of the tide may be computed as 5 per cent greater at Prince Rupert than at Port Simpson both at springs and neaps. Therefore the rise in the Prince-Rupert harbor is slightly greater than Port Simpson. The height is in feet and tenths of feet above the average level of lower low water.

GEO. R. NADEN, Deputy Minister of Lands, Department of Lands, Victoria, B. C., Oct. May 5th, 1920.

The Man in the Moon SAYS--

THAT some people are always in trouble. If it rains they can't go out and if it's fine they get hay fever.

Luke McLuke suggests that skinny girls should be compelled to wear leather caps on their elbows. But why not compel the skinny girls to get plump. That would be more effective.

Prince Rupert people are all right but what's the use of passing compliments?

THAT the only fault with the local theatres is that there are no big mirrors in the entry way where the girls can primp themselves.

THAT accounts for so many hats being on different.

THAT in the opinion of a lady, the principal thing about her is the hat she wears.

THAT "Ratepayer" wants to know what all the Man in the Moon knows about the girls. The reply is that poor old Ratepayer doesn't stay out as late as the M. I. M. or he would know too.

THAT I have often wondered why so many people were Bolsheviks.

THAT now we know it is because Lenin had three hundred million dollars in gold in the chest and his followers thought they would get some of it.

THAT now Great Britain gets the three hundred million, perhaps there will be fewer Bolsheviks.

THAT it looks as if David the Welshman had stolen a march on the rest of the Allies.

THAT it seems as if the U. S. Congress should do something about it and Senator Borah should make a spit-fire speech.

THAT while the U. S. is deciding not to make peace because of the fear of signing away her liberties L. G. is signing a little peace pact of his own by which the Bank of England gets that three hundred million gold spondulicks.

THAT in Dakota two trains were blown from the tracks. In Prince Rupert we have seen a gentle zephyr gently float our doors, and windows down the street, but this time I fear we are beaten. We are out of the running in this contest.

THAT Herbert Guthbert says he has met none but boosters in Prince Rupert. That is the spirit that wins out. Grit your teeth and look smiling boys. Everything is coming the right way sooner or later.

THAT the week before last everybody was going to wear overalls to church. Now, even in Victoria, the crazy ones are again clothed and in their right minds.

THAT Prince Rupert people showed their sense by never being carried away by such a vagary.

THAT somebody wants to know how the Man in the Moon thinks of such silly things.

THAT the silly things are stolen from contemptible contemporaries, but the really clever things, don't you know, are evolved in the arid areas of the moon and carried to the Daily News on a moon-beam.

THAT it is said that tailors talk of banishing some of our garments in order to reduce the cost of living. What part of the two-piece suit will they take?

MUCH DAMAGE TO SHIPPING AT KOBE

Gasoline Explosion Has Disastrous Effect on Junks

KOBE, JAPAN, June 9.—Scores of blazing junks drifted helplessly out to sea; fifty people were killed and much damage was done to shipping, following a gasoline explosion on the steamer Kiraku Maru. The harbor was crowded with junks and boats of various descriptions.
