Archbishop and Psychic World.

A great discovery is being made in the Psychic World. Something very old is being seen in a new light.

Our physical bodies have so long separated us, one from another, that we are only beginning to realize that our psychic spirits are not confined by material barriers to one limited space. Our minds can interpenetrate other minds, whether they be near at hand or far away. Our spirits can intermingle with other spirits, whether they be "in the body or out of the body," and so hold communion together. This is the fellowship of the spirit.

Let us take, first, the case of a pupil and his teacher. The one may be at his desk on the platform, and the other in his seat in the school-room. Their bodies are completely separated by an intervening space, but their minds meet. The teacher's mind glows with the knowledge he wishes to impart. The pupil's mind responds to this glow. It is not simply that the thought of the one mind passes into the other mind, but the spirit of the one intermingles with the spirit of the other. This is the fellowship of the spirit. Applying to this experience the test of moral value, we find that not only has knowledge been imparted, but the one person has received an inspiration from the other person. There has been an inter-penetration of personality.

Fellowship of Spirit.

Let us take, next, the case of a disciple and Christ. We need not go back to the time when Christ was upon earth "in the days of His flesh," for exactly the same kind of fellowship which St. John had with his Master when he leaned upon His bosom can be held today between a Christian in the flesh and Christ in the Spirit. The modern disciple, taught by psychology, focuses his attention upon Christ in all the goodness of His character, and all the power of His Spirit. Through the Perfect Man he enters into communion with the Infinite God. It is the fellowship of the spirit.

Applying to this experience the test of moral value, we find that all that is highest and best in the disciple has been quickened by the touch of the Spirit of Christ. There is not only inspiration, but newness of life. There has been an inter-penetration of personality.

Let us take, yet again, the case of a grown-up son and his departed mother. In a quiet, restful moment, without the intrusion of strangers, the son recalls to his mind the devotion and love of his mother. Her familiar face comes vividly before him. He thinks of all she wanted him to be while she was with him in the flesh. He holds communion with her in the spirit. This is something very different from going to a strange medium, or listening to table-rappings. No words may be spoken, but he is inwardly conscious of his mother's presence. This is to him a living reality. It is the fellowship of the spirit.

Applying to this experience the test of moral value, we find that his mind is not in any degree unhelped, or his energy in any way paralyzed, as by some semi-physical apparition of a startling character. On the contrary, he goes forth to his daily work determined to be worthy of his mother's love, and to come up to her expectation of him. There has been an interpenetration of personality.

Unifying Spirit Pervading All.

Reviewing these three cases, there is borne in upon us the conviction that there is something which unifies them all. It is the fellowship of the spirit.

Each human mind, while it is in a limited sense an individual mind, is at the same time a part of the Universal Mind. This explains the nature of the communal mind, which is something far more than a collection of isolated minds. This explains the possibility of thought exchange, because mind is linked with mind in a vast mental system. Each human spirit, while it has characteristics of its own, is at the same time a part of the Universal Spirit. No greater popular error could be made than to think of some human spirit, whether embodied or disembodied, as a separate unit all alone by itself. This would, indeed, be hell, for a human spirit is a social being.

The individual personality of man springs from the Universal Personality of God. We live in God: "In Him we live and move and have our being," but at the same time God lives in us: "It is God who works in you." This explains how there can be an interpenetration of personality. Every particle of our material body which we possessed ten years ago is now buried in the dust, but our same personality can still hold fellowship with the same Eternal Father. As St. Paul so clearly puts it "Though our outward man is decaying, yet our inward man is renewed day by day."

In the Commonwealth of the Spiritual the only thing which can separate us is not the distance in space, but the disharmony of selfishness.

In the Society of all who truly love, and are loved, is to be found the Unity of the Spirit, for God is Love and Love is God.
F. H. DU VERNET,
Archbishop of Caledonia.

Before I had used half a box I saw improvement; the pain was easier and the swelling started to go down. I continued taking this fruit medicine, improving all the time, and now I can walk about two miles and do light chores about the place."

The table given is for Port Simpson but the time for Prince Rupert varies only a few minutes on some days and on others is the same. The range of the tide may be computed as 5 per cent greater at Prince Rupert than at Port Simpson both at springs and neaps. Therefore the rise in the Prince Rupert harbor is slightly greater than Port Simpson.

MARTIN O'REALLY PUTS ON BIG SALE

Started this Morning Selling Suits and Other Furnishings at Great Reduction.

A big reduction sale started this morning at Martin O'Really's men's furnishings store. Everything is marked down to a point where it is a great temptation to buy and is somewhat of a reminder of pre-war days. There is a large stock from which to select and anyone in need of outfitting can make no mistake in taking a look in at the store.

The Man in the Moon SAYS:

THAT it has been discovered that automobiles were in use in Bible days.

THAT in the Bible expression "the quick and the dead" the quick are those who get out of the way of the autos and the dead are the others.

THAT the children in France are much quicker than those in this country. They can speak French, even before they go to school.

THAT it may be true that the good die young, but the woman on the shady side of fifty does not believe it.

THAT judging by the yarns you hear, it is pretty sure there is an Ananias born every minute.

THAT success is a matter of luck, according to the failures, but it takes nerve to dig up the luck.

THAT some people envy a doctor when he holds the hand of a sweet young girl, but who would wish to have to drop her hand after one minute.

Ten Years Ago in Prince Rupert

The G. T. P. steamer Prince Rupert made her first trip to Stewart last night. She made the trip in record time although she was delayed somewhat in starting owing to the dance given by the Publicity Club. Among those making the trip were Messrs. S. Harrison, Gamble, Eviit, McRae, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Sawle, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Manson and daughter Grace, Mr. Fitzmaurice and Mr. Casey. Hon. Mr. Taylor and Mr. Manson, M.P., were kept busy in the morning in Stewart in connection with citizens' meetings.

The money invested in Prince Rupert real estate is safer than bank stock and it is doubling in value all the time. Mining stock is good as a speculation, but for real value and a sure money maker, Prince Rupert real estate leads the world.

The Prince Rupert brought up a new electric conveyor for unloading freight from the ships' holds right into the company's warehouse. The power current is supplied by the motors on the steamers.

A large shipment of new stock arrived yesterday for the new Wallace store on Third Ave. and Fulton Street. Although the building has not yet been completed excellent progress is being made by the contractor, so that very soon everything will be ship shape behind the counters.
