TRADES AND LABOR COUNCIL MEETING

The usual fortnightly meeting of the Trades and Labor Council was held last night in the Carpenters' Hall.

President S. D. McDonald presided over a large turnout of delegates. Representatives were present for the first time from the Bartenders' and Laundryworkers' unions and were welcomed by the president to the ranks of organized labor.

Officers were elected as follows:
S. D. McDonald, president; D. Mc-Lean, vice-president; W. E.
Thompson, secretary; J. Morrison treasurer. Legislative committee:
W. E. Thompson, (chairman) L.
W. Riley and D. McLean. Finance committee: J. W. Campbell (chairman) W. Sullivan and J. Stebbings. Press committee: W. E.
Denning and J. Nicol.

A committee was appointed for the purpose of arranging a Labor Day celebration in Prince Rupert and to report at next meeting.

Upon the suggestion of Delegate Sutherland, a committee was appointed to interview Superintendent Meehan, of the G. T. P., with a view to get a harvester excursion arranged from Prince Rupert to prairie points.

A satisfactory report of the finances of the Council was made by the treasurer, and the meeting adjourned at 10:30 p. m.

TRADE LICENCES

NOTICE

Pursuant to Bylaw 255 governing above, also resolution of Council dated July 12th, All licences are due and payable on July 15th, 1915, and must be paid forthwith.
Section 33 of this Bylaw provides the following:

"Any person guilty of a breach of this bylaw, or who carries on any profession, trade, occupation or calling, for which a licence or tax is provided for in this by-law, without having first taken out such licence and having paid the licence fee or tax herein provided, shall be liable, on summary conviction, to a penalty of twenty five dollars ($25.00) together with the amount of the licence fee or tax, which should have been paid, and in default of payment, to imprisonment for sixty (60) days."

The Bylaw also declares:
"It shall be the duty of every person or company holding a licence under this bylaw to exhibit such licence at all times in a conspicuous place in his office or place of business, so that the same may be seen by the officials of the city and any person doing business with them."

I respectfully ask all persons coming under these regulations to pay licences at once.

Yours truly,
E. D. JOHNSON,
Treasurer and Collector.

INTERESTING LETTER FROM MRS. E. A. WOODS

The following is an extract from a very interesting letter received from Mrs. Ernest A. Woods who left New York for Liverpool on the S. S. Adriatic on the 27th of last May:

"There wasn't anything very exciting happened on the way.
The second day out the captain ordered everyone to be moved into the staterooms on the upper decks, so there was no one on the level with the dining room. Having an outside room is of no benefit now for all the port holes are covered with black paper like building paper and at night are covered with dark blanket; we were not allowed to open them at all. There were no lights in the corridors at night excepting dim red lights to enable you to find your way about, and the decks were all screened off so that the lights from the library and smoke room could not be seen, or lights from men smoking. The stewards had to instruct everyone how to put on their life-belts, and they brought a small one for Doreen.
They were all laid out ready. It was really surprising to see everyone so calm and no one seemed the least bit worried. I could never have believed I could have felt so easy in my mind as I did once I was on the boat, and everyone said the same thing.
Everyone was a little anxious, of course, when we neared the Irish coast. All the lifeboats were lowered to the lower deck and we had orders to assemble in the library if anything happened to the boat. We got in the Channel about 7 p. m.

There was a concert on board that night, but Mrs. Hardy and I went to bed at 9 o'clock and slept till 12 p. m. We didn't take off our clothes or Doreen's. After that we never slept a wink for everyone was running about all night. The crew were not allowed to go to bed. McLean told me that a destroyer met the boat at 12 o'clock and signalled to her to change her course and that they got word from the Admiralty that there were six submarines waiting for us, so the captain changed his course sixty miles further south, and talk about travelling, we did go. In the morning the decks were about a quarter of an inch thick with soot and grit. It was very foggy also, so I think that was a help to us as the "subs." are of no use in a fog.

We all felt relieved when we got to the Mersey and the pilot came on board. We had beautiful weather all the way and not the least bit rough, except when we were off the Welsh coast, when it was so bitterly cold that no one could stay on deck. We docked at Liverpool at 4 p. m., but didn't get off till 6:30. We were in the dining room all that time passing the inspector. It was so tiring, he was so strict. Everyone with cameras had to unload them and hand over the films, etc, which will be returned to the owners after being developed, if they are all right. The Adriatic brought a record cargo; she was loaded down; they wouldn't allow a bit more on in New York, and it was all war material. We had 250 transport wagons alone. Her cargo was valued at $20,000,000, so no wonder the Germans wanted to get her."

- FACT HUNGER -

As children, our first demand is for nourishment; our second for facts.

All through life we go about searching for information.

We make a new acquaintance; but before we will accept him as a friend or invite him to our home we ask for facts about him.

We visit a foreign land; and from the moment we step across its border we are asking questions—searching for facts.

We are asked to try a new food product; isn't it instinctive with us to ask at once:

"Who makes this new article?"

"How is it made? what goes into it?"

"Is it worth the price charged for it?"

Facts—we are simply hungry for them.

Strange, isn't it, that we should so often have to search for them? Odd, that some manufacturers still withhold the facts about their product. Not always because they are facts to be ashamed of—for there are many worthy articles yet unadvertised.

But it will not be so much longer. The fact-hunger of the human race is becoming keener and keener. The more facts we get, the keener our relish for more of them.

Soon it will be impossible to sell a man or a woman anything until everything has been told about the goods that can be told through Advertising.

The public has discovered that Advertising tells much-needed facts—that, in fact, Advertising satisfies fact-hunger.

If you are doing a local business talk over your advertising problems with the Advertising Department of this newspaper.

If you are doing a provincial or national business it would be well for you to have the counsel and assistance of a good advertising agency. A list of these will be furnished, without cost or obligation, by the Secretary of Canadian Press Association, Room 503, Lumsden Building, Toronto.
