HELPING THE BOYS

The little mining town of Hedley has presented three machine guns for the use of the Canadian soldiers at the front. Prince Rupert may not be able to provide for three, but it is expected that by August 4th this city will have added at least one of those useful weapons to the equipment of the 62nd Battalion. This city has done its share in assisting the Red Cross Society in its noble work, and will continue to do so, but every additional machine gun will help to keep down the amount of work falling to this department.

The Germans are using machine guns wherever possible, as they are effectively handled by a very few men, thus releasing large numbers for other work. Whether in defence or attack, these deadly little guns are able to do the work of several hundreds of men. It is well known that the earlier Canadian contingents were not fully equipped in this respect, and patriotic citizens throughout the Dominion are giving what they can in order that our boys may stand a fighting chance when faced by the Hun hordes. The Canadian courage will be many times more effective if combined with machine gun batteries. These batteries will save lives and wounds, and will help materially in shortening the war. Call in at the Bank of Commerce and put down your name for as much as you can afford.

WHY CANADA IS AT WAR

"The contention that Canada is in the war for the sake of democracy and because we could not endure to see a small nation trampled on is fine, and partly true. But why should we persist in ignoring the fact that, as part of the British Empire, it was our duty to assist the mother land to the full extent of our power?" —Toronto News.

The side of the case which the News refers to is not ignored. On the contrary, it is probably the reason why Canada is in the war, while the United States are neutral. That is to say, it is not the only motive which governs us, but it may be the determining motive.

After all, what is the real reason and meaning of the British connection and of Canada's sympathy with Britain? To a certain extent it is a family feeling. That is good and it is natural. The young man who stands up for his father and mother, right or wrong, is made of the right stuff. His heart is right, even if his head is wrong. But surely the young man is in a still better position if he knows his father and mother are right, and can prove it.

That is how Canada stands today. It takes a certain stand because that stand is British and because it is right. A well-known Canadian politician said that he preferred those friends who would stand by him when he was wrong. In our humorous moods we want to see our friends and relatives on the right side. We recognize that the word "Right" is superior to our national and family preferences.

Let us always remember that this war is not a mere rivalry between the British Empire and the German Empire. If it were, we should be on the British side because of our family sentiment. But there is a great deal more than that. We believe that we are right. We cannot expect neutral nations to sympathize with our family sentiments. But we can expect neutral nations to sympathize with us if we are right and can show them that we are right.

Why is Canada British? What is the value of the British Empire? Does its value lie in its size, or its wealth, or its population, or its physical power? Surely not. It is to be valued because, on the whole, it has advanced freedom and justice, because it has been a good influence in the world.

Canada's influence in the British Empire and in the world is bound to grow. Canada is about as large as Europe, and upon the most moderate estimate is sure to contain a population larger than that of Germany. Canada cannot escape the responsibility of judging between right and wrong by pleading parental influence or family friendship.

Canada is today engaged not in a conflict for the defence of Canada alone, but in a world conflict between right and wrong, between anarchy and order, between tyranny and freedom, between decency and the kind of conduct of which German soldiers have been found guilty in Belgium. Surely the Canadian case is strengthened by putting it on the broadest grounds. Surely that is the right way to enlist all humanity against the insane and monstrous German delusion. —Toronto Globe.

Coughing scatters germs —Stop it

Coughing increases the irritation of the already inflamed mucous membranes and is moreover apt to carry disease to others.

Mathieu's Syrup of Tar and Cod Liver Oil promptly stops coughing, and soon, thanks to its tonic properties, effects a permanent cure.

The wonderful popularity of Mathieu's Syrup of Tar and Cod Liver Oil is specially due to its great value as a permanent lung and bronchial healer.

Sold everywhere, 35c large bottles.

J. L. MATHIEU CO., Prop., Sherbrooke, P.Q.

For headaches use Mathieu's Sterile Powders—these are useful also to clean the face and throat which often accompany colds. Use a box of 10 powders.

FORCEFUL ADVERTISING

When the opposing lines of trenches are near enough together, bombs of all kinds are being used both by ourselves and by the Germans. Some of these bombs are made out of old jam tins; and it is related how, when one Pure Plum and Apple, bearing the maker's name, had succeeded in reaching its destination, the following plaintive remark was heard from the German trenches: "Ach, Himmel! These English, these shopkeepers, how they advertise!" —Tit Bits.

HARVESTERS' EXCURSION

At the close of the council meeting last night, Ald. Dybbavn, seconded by Ald. Nicoll, moved that the G. T. P. be approached by the council regarding the running of a harvesters' excursion to the prairies. The motion carried.
