BRITAIN'S GOLD

Striking evidence of Britain's supreme command of the seas is given in the recent shipment of $53,000,000 in gold and securities across the Atlantic. The incident illustrates the fact that Britain is free to bring or send whatever she pleases and whenever she pleases. Germany must depend for food, raw material for munitions, and all the necessities of warfare, entirely on her own resources. It is true that, thoroughly prepared as she was, her resources are still large, but they are gradually diminishing, while the Allies, so long as their credit is good, can obtain everything necessary. In the long run, the struggle must become a financial duel, or rather a duel of resources. At present, Germany has command of a large part of industrial Europe and for a time she may be able to replenish her stock of war material, but Britain's command of the seas, coupled with her vast financial resources, will enable the Allies to get control of all the material necessary to bring about the Prussian downfall.

GERMAN FAILURES

Germany hoped, by one great coup, to bring Russia to her knees, but in this she utterly failed. The Teuton jaws which closed on Warsaw, enveloped simply an empty shell. The attempt to encircle the Russian army failed absolutely, and the extended German line in Russia is now a liability instead of an asset. The Russian army is intact and ready to strike when the opportune moment arrives. In offering Russia a separate peace Germany misjudged Russia just as she misjudged Britain at the outset of the war. German diplomacy seems unable to grasp the fact that any nation can have a higher motive than mere expediency. The affirmed determination of Russia to stay with her sworn compact with France and Britain must have caused Berlin to do some tall thinking.

If Bulgaria enters the arena, from whatever motive, it will hasten the downfall of Constantinople and will cut some months off the duration of the war, but it cannot alter the final outcome. The Allies, without any assistance, are strong enough to cope with the situation. Every day sees the Dardanelles defence weakening, and the recent change in German leadership in that quarter is ample proof that all is not well with the Central powers there.

SNAP-SHOTS

The British Columbia Conservative machine is ready to join its Manitoba brother on the scrap heap.

Sir Richard is wondering why he ever came back from London.

When Sir J. A. M. Aikins' platform, all fixed up with watertight compartments and guaranteed to be unsinkable, failed to float, what are the McBride bunch going to do?

Insomnia has been rife in the Conservative ranks since the result of the Manitoba elections was published.

McBride looking for an effective party cry is like a blind man, in a dark room, looking for a black cat that isn't there.

OFFICERS' CASUALTIES

London, August 11.—Officers' casualty lists from July 19 to July 20 show that the British army lost 115 killed, 236 wounded and 14 missing; a total of 365. This brings the aggregate officer loss since the beginning of the war to 13,656, of whom 4,176 are recorded dead, 8,305 wounded and 1,175 missing.

During the ten days covered by the lists regiments operating in the Dardanelles have again been the greatest sufferers.

TRAIN RUNS TEN MILES WITH LIFELESS PILOT

Columbus, Ohio, August 10.—When a Big Four passenger train speeded through Georgesville, a village near here, today without stopping as usual, the fireman pulled the coat of Engineer William W. Quinlan to attract his attention and found the engineer was dead, though he sat erect with his hand on the throttle. Passengers became excited when they learned after reaching Columbus their train had run at least ten miles with the pilot lifeless. Heart disease caused his death.

BIG GERMAN GUN TO BE SHOWN AT TORONTO

Toronto, August 11.—A Krupp gun, the largest and most complete captured by the British from the Germans, has been received in Toronto and will be the main war trophy feature of the Toronto exhibition. It weighs 13 tons without tender or mounting.

Coughing scatters germs—Stop It

Coughing increases the irritation of the already inflamed mucous membranes and is moreover apt to carry disease to others.

Mathieu's Syrup of Tar and Cod Liver Oil promptly stops coughing, and soon, thanks to its tonic properties, effects a permanent cure.

The wonderful popularity of Mathieu's Syrup of Tar and Cod Liver Oil is specially due to its great value as a permanent lung and bronchial healer.

Sold everywhere, 25c large bottles.

RED CROSS DANCE WAS BIG SUCCESS

At the dance recently given by Mrs. J. Fred Ritchie the sum of $112 was realized and has been handed in to the local branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society by Mrs. Ritchie.

The affair was an unqualified success and many prominent people were in attendance. Besides dancing, bridge and billiards were much enjoyed. A delicious supper was served.
