REVELATIONS

Roblin's troubles are not yet over, in fact they have only just begun. The Norris government has set out to conduct a thorough enquiry into purchases and building work carried out by the Manitoba bosses and there are liable to be more interesting disclosures. The Roblin-Rogers gang controlled that province for a number of years, and there is no doubt that they did not worry about the price paid for that control. It is reported that over-payments on buildings alone will amount to over $4,000,000. It is clear that the Roblin government had a long lease of a life, not because it held the trust of the people, but because it held the purse of the province.

British Columbia is the one remaining stronghold of boss rule and the chief boast of the heelers of the McBride-Bowser gang is that their bosses have been able to hold office for so many years. In due course a thorough investigation will be made in this province and many interesting facts will be brought to light. The full details of the Canadian Northern Railroad compact will probably take some digging up, but they will be laid bare, as will the history of the $45,000 which Matson has not yet accounted for in the Songhees Reserve deal, and numerous other little items.

Since Sir Dick is not wanted in Ottawa, and his room is preferred to his company in London Canadian circles, and British Columbia will very soon conduct its affairs without his assistance, he might devote himself to a political literary career. A "Guide to Beginners in Politics" from his pen would be sure to prove useful to real estate sharks and company promoters, who find their occupation gone since the bubble of alleged prosperity burst. A work showing what can be done in railroad construction without capital and without risk, if the proper premier and province are selected, with an introduction by MacKenzie and Mann, would be almost certain to become a classic, while a volume on "Pockets and Politics," written in collaboration with Sir Rodmond Roblin, would be certain to run to many editions. As a crowning effort in his literary career he might be permitted to write a history of the military career of Sir Sam Hughes, but we are afraid that Sam would much prefer to do this himself.

NEWSPAPER CHANGES IN LONDON, ENGLAND

London, Sept. 10.—The Observer announces that Mr. J. L. Garvin has arranged to retire very shortly from the Pall Mall Gazette.

Reynolds' newspaper states that the Pall Mall Gazette has been purchased by a syndicate, of which Davison Dalziel, M. P., is the moving spirit. J. L. Garvin's successor, it is understood, will be D. M. Sutherland, late editor of the Evening Standard. A syndicate, with which Sir Alexander Henderson is connected has purchased the Standard. W. A. Woodward will be the new editor.

THE DELHI

The steamer Delhi is gradually being brought into position for docking. She rests now almost on an even keel. The vessel is resting in slings attached to scows on either side of her, fore and aft, and very shortly it is expected she will be in shape to float into the dock.

FAIR NOTES

The Fair Bulletin for September is a newsy sheet and gives full particulars of the various features of the Prince Rupert Fair. It is of interest to all exhibitors and is a novel method of advertising the Prince Rupert Fair.

The Baby Show.

All arrangements have been made for the 1915 baby show. Quite a few newcomers will enter the field judging from the birth notices of the papers this year. A few may have left the city, but the younger stock is coming along fast.

Illustrated Lectures.

Illustrated lectures on farming poultry raising and care of stock will be a feature of the Fair this year. Mr. Upton, the government expert on poultry, will deliver an important address on poultry raising, etc. An effort will also be made to form a poultry breeders association for the north.

How Will You Protect Your Wife and the children should you fall ill or lose your employment? Have you money in the Bank to tide the family over until you are "on your feet" again?

Every married man should open an account in our Savings Department and put by a part of his earnings every week or month.

Such a sum, earning interest, will be a welcome protection for the family. A Savings Account may be opened with one dollar.

Coughing scatters germs

—Stop it

Coughing increases the irritation of the already inflamed mucous membranes and is moreover apt to carry disease to others.

Mathieu's Syrup of Tar and Cod Liver Oil promptly stops coughing, and soon, thanks to its tonic properties, effects a permanent cure.

The wonderful popularity of Mathieu's Syrup of Tar and Cod Liver Oil is specially due to its great value as a permanent lung and bronchial healer.

Sold everywhere, 35c large bottles.
