(Special to The Daily News.)
London, Sept. 16.—The massing of Austrian and German armies on the Roumanian frontier has resulted in Roumania preparing for eventualities. The army is mobilized and all reservists have been called home. The steadfast refusal by Roumania to allow the transportation of German military supplies through that country to Turkey has caused bitter animosity.

GAMBLING

Complaints have been made to the police about the amount of gambling going on in the city, and, at the police commission meeting yesterday, Chief Vickers was instructed to notify all cigar stores that dice-shaking must be stopped.

The city solicitor pointed out that gambling is only illegal when carried on for gain. The wording of the act is "a house, room or place kept by any person for gain, to which persons resort for the purpose of playing any game of chance."

WESTHOLME THEATRE

"The Country Boy," a four-reel Paramount feature, is the star item of the Westholme program for tonight. Florence Dagmar and Marshal Nielan, as the country boy and girl, are splendid. The story is of a country boy who goes to make his way in New York and falls a victim to the attractions of a chorus girl, and is ultimately left down and out. The staging of the piece is very fine, the scenes of New York life being vivid and realistic. How he returns home and climbs back into favor is beautifully depicted. The Pathe Gazette shows a very impressive picture of Australian troops holding worship in the desert, amongst other army views. "His Taking Ways" is a very funny Keystone comedy.

Mrs. McClymont returned last night from an extended visit in the east.

LAUNCH PARTY ARE SHIPWRECKED

Word has just reached the city that the 42-foot launch Nonade, bound from Blaine, Wash., to Hardy, Alaska, put into Banks Island on Tuesday disabled. The captain and one of the men set out in a canoe to get supplies, leaving at the island a man and his son, and a lady and her three daughters.

The party left behind was picked up by a passing boat and taken to Larsen Harbor, Lewis Island, where they were taken care of by John Wanner at his ranch. The Northern Cross, which put in there on Monday, furnished a party to search for the captain and man, and in company with Mr. Wanner covered about 220 miles, but, so far, no trace of the men or their canoe has been found.

MAJESTIC THEATRE

The Pathe program at the Majestic Theatre was greatly appreciated by a large audience last night. "Rods of Wrath," a three-reel drama, is the story of a dream, in which a sea captain who has been in the habit of treating his little son cruelly, is warned of the possible consequences. It is a story of great human interest, while it also provides several thrilling scenes. "Wifles Wins the Winsome" is a Parisian comedy full of refined humor, while "Amateur Night" is laughter provoking, without being of the rough and tumble type. The Pathe Gazette is up-to-date and interesting.

H. Molson Macpherson, J. E. Dalrymple and Captain C. H. Nicholson left for Vancouver this morning.

Follow the crowd to Self's Cafe. There is a reason. Next Majestic Theatre. 102th.

Exhibitors are requested to send in all entries for the Fair to the secretary, box 1657, Prince Rupert, before the 19th inst.

SPEECHES BY TRADES UNION DELEGATES TO LABOR CONGRESS

A. M. RIGG, M. P. P., OF WINNIPEG, AND E. W. A. O'DELL, OF HAMILTON, ONT., ADDRESSED MEETING IN EMPRESS THEATRE LAST NIGHT—LOCAL LABOR MEN ARE CONGRATULATED

The Trades and Labor Council of Prince Rupert held a very successful meeting in the Empress Theatre last night, when addresses were delivered by E. W. A. O'Dell, representing the Boot and Shoe Workers Union, and A. M. Rigg, M. P. P., of Winnipeg. S. D. Macdonald, who presided, intimated that Mr. Rigg had contracted a severe cold on the train, and Mr. O'Dell had kindly consented to assist.

Mr. O'Dell, after expressing great pleasure in being privileged to address a Prince Rupert audience, dealt with the importance of the Trades and Labor Congress, which meets shortly in Vancouver, describing it as "Labor's Parliament." After showing what labor had been able to perform in the way of bringing about legislation favorable to the working classes, such as a workman's Compensation Act, he went on to point out that many seemed to believe that labor organizers are out to create trouble between employer and employee. In his wide experience of the labor movement, he was satisfied that organized labor had proved in the long run beneficial to both parties. He showed how the badge of labor on Union-made goods had been an assistance in the selling of these goods, as it was proof that the goods had been made under proper working conditions. In conclusion he congratulated the labor men of Prince Rupert on the strength of their organization, which would prove a benefit to the community and to the Dominion at large.

Mr. Rigg congratulated the Trades and Labor Council of Prince Rupert on having organized for business at this early stage of the city's development. He pointed out that, by delaying organization in Winnipeg until the forces of capital had become strong, they had found the struggle for recognition a hard one. He had fought for a municipal, provincial and Dominion seat for years and had been regularly defeated until recently.

In dealing with the industrial aspect of the labor question, he said that the start of the introduction of machinery had completely done away with the individual as a force. Over a century ago, in Britain, men had been imprisoned, lashed and transported as criminals because they advocated the cause of labor. Today, men were beginning to realize that, in order to do efficient work, they must be banded together. In the world of finance, the death of such an individual as J. Pierpont Morgan did not upset things in the least, simply because in the financial world the individual had given place to a machine. Organization in every line is now a necessity.

In speaking to the non-union men, he pointed out that organized labor had not only done a great deal for itself, but had also accomplished much for the men outside, but who ought to be inside. "In the contract for the Manitoba parliament buildings, one of the most interesting buildings in the world today, on account of its history, though he had been told that if the searchlight were turned on British Columbia, that history would begin to look a little more respectable, a wage clause was inserted providing that carpenters be paid 55 cents an hour, and non-union and union men alike received that wage. Yet in Winnipeg you will find carpenters ready to work for 25 cents an hour, who will also be ready to ask for union wages just so soon as things pick up again," he said. He went on to show that the wage earner who is not a member of a union, but who accepts what the union procures for him is a parasite and an ex-
