ANOTHER SEATTLE FIRM COMING HERE

Mr. O. Bernhoff, representing the National Independent Fishing Company, of Seattle, is in the city sizing up the fishing situation here for his firm. He is being shown around the city by Alderman Dybhavn, and expresses the opinion that Prince Rupert has the best natural location on the coast for the handling of the Pacific fish traffic, and is thoroughly satisfied that, with increased facilities, there should be no limit to the growth of the trade.

Mr. Bernhoff will, in all probability remain in the city to handle the buying end of the business for the National Independent. The regular appearance of representatives of large fish handling concerns in the south is clear proof of the growing importance of this port as a fishing centre.

MATANUSKA HAD WILD FEATURES

Harry E. Nolan, of Forks, Wn., veteran of two months' service last fall in the French army, has added a little far-northern venture to his experience. Mr. Nolan returned to Seattle after having spent several months in business in the new town of Matanuska, Alaska. He says there was pretty near as much excitement in Matanuska as there was in the war trenches in France. Of Matanuska he said: "I am glad that I lived in Matanuska, as I saw a town that I did not believe could exist in these days. We had a real frontier town—open gambling, blind pigs, with their eyes open—wide open and looking for customers—and I even had the pleasure of attending an old-fashioned miners' meeting, which gave notice to an undesirable individual to get out of town within a few minutes. One other person who was located in the business district was declared a menace to the prosperity and business life of the city. A miners' meeting was held on this case and the offender was ordered to move to the outskirts. The order was not complied with, and the miners picked up the house and moved the whole concern bodily."—Seattle P. I.

Have you signed the Motor Boat Petition? Petitions are at Frizzell's Meat Market, Cole's Sagar Store, Noble's Poolroom, P. R. Boathouse, Launch Dixie, Launch Narbethong, Launch Alice B. Akerberg, Thompson's Machine shop, and Leuty's Machine Shop.
