LIBERALS HAVE CROWDED AND ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING

T. D. PATTULLO DELIVERS ABLE AND STATESMANLIKE SPEECH OUTLINING LIBERAL PLATFORM--ROUSING SPEECHES

BY A. M. MANSON, H. L. HARRIS, F. H. MOBLEY AND FRED STORK

The Liberals of Prince Rupert have every reason to feel proud of the success which attended the opening of their new headquarters on Second Avenue last night. In spite of the fact that there were several other gatherings at the same time, and that sleet came down in torrents, the hall was crowded.

A. M. Manson, who presided, referred to the last Liberal meeting, which was just as crowded and full of enthusiasm as this one, when they looked for an early election on the word of the Premier that he had advised the Lieutenant-Governor that he intended to come to the people on important issues. The election was delayed to allow of the preparation of the voters' lists, but months have passed and nothing further has been said. The legislature is in a peculiar situation, and it is just a question whether, after declaring the legislature dissolved, McBride can call another session. Mr. Manson declared that McBride is afraid to come to the people since the socialists, the ministers and thinking men, such as Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper and C. M. Woodworth, are against them. In spite of the fact that the Empire is at war, he did not think it amiss that thinking men should get together and discuss the conditions under which they lived. In spite of the machine, there was grave head shaking these days at the corner of McBride and First Avenue, and every thinking man was satisfied that T. D. Pattullo would be the next representative of Prince Rupert at Victoria. He was a clean, honest business man, who allied himself with such men.

On rising to address the meeting, Mr. Pattullo received a tremendous ovation.

Mr. Pattullo in opening his speech referred to the particular duties devolving upon the Dominion and Provincial governments at this time, also the necessity of each and every individual doing his part in whatever capacity. While the supreme duty of the Dominion government was the prosecution of the war, coincident therewith careful thought must be given to economic conditions in order to safeguard both the immediate and the distant future. In this regard, upon the provincial governments as well as the Dominion, rests heavy responsibility.

While placing responsibility upon the governments, individual responsibility must not be forgotten. The man who knowingly votes for incompetence and crookedness is hardly less guilty than the men he votes for. Every man by exercising the best moral qualities within him could do much towards improving not only moral but material conditions. There is no morality that does not observe the good old golden rule, namely, "do unto others as you would have them do unto you." The power to do certain things did not necessarily make right or wise the doing of them. In fact to do them might be grossly immoral.

The legislature at Victoria passed a vote of $80,000 to two favorites of the government for no adequate services rendered. The fact that the legislature possessed the power of giving that vote the validity of law, did not give it the validity either of right or of morality. No doubt the Prime Minister of the Province would tell us that he was strictly conforming to the Golden Rule in making this grant, namely that he was doing unto others as he would have them do to him, but the speaker had a different viewpoint. He would call it legalized stealing. How many of the forty members supporting that transaction stopped to think of the moral obliquity involved in it? Because the power of making the laws is in your own hands, does not make right iniquities that you may carry out under this power.

The government at Victoria had lost even a semblance of a proper perspective of the fitness of things. So long had it been engaged in debauching the electorate through public works and jobs, and promises of public works and jobs, that it had itself become callous just as criminals in long practice become callous.

Speaking of every individual doing his part at this critical time, that part was valuable however humble it might be. It was not necessary that everyone should be performing some especially heroic act in the open of the public eye in order to be doing a worthy service. He had no sympathy for or commendation of the spectacular action of the prime minister of the province in buying submarines at highly fictitious values for the protection of our coasts. While it was a direct implication that the Ottawa government was derelict in its duty and a slap, too, at the British Admiralty, it was in line with the whole career of the first minister of this province whose chief concern was to appear in the limelight of popularity, to attain which end the first minister did not hesitate to desecrate the flag that has braved a thousand years the battle and the breeze. The speaker had no respect for a man who would wrap himself up in the old flag with loud acclamations of patriotic sentiment while at that very moment he was despoiling the people both of their money and the natural resources of the province.

WHIST TOURNAMENT

The first of a series of whist tournaments between the Sons of England and St. Andrew's Society was held last night, when the Scotch boys ran out winners by 832 points to 747. Music was rendered by Messrs. A. C. Clapperton, R. Arthur, W. Murray, R. Dowther, H. Atkins and A. Silver-sides, and a most enjoyable evening was spent.

"I believe," said Mr. Pattullo, "that all grafters in war time ought to be shot, but I am not sure that they are deserving of a better fate in time of peace."

If the government instead of buying submarines and dealing with matters outside its jurisdiction, had done well the things within the sphere of its legitimate activity, we would not today have to witness the departure from this province of thousands of good men and their families because of the impossibility of making a living, nor would we have to suffer the knowledge that of those remaining in the province an all too large percentage are just hanging on to the ragged edge in the earnest hope that conditions may change and that in some manner more affluent circumstances may be the lot of all.

Proceeding, Mr. Pattullo said that a number of people had said to him that while they believed that what he had stated of the provincial government was true, they wanted to know what the Liberals proposed to do and what guarantee there was that the Liberals would do any better than the Conservative government. "One guarantee" said Mr. Pattullo, that they will do better is that they could not possibly be worse. Another is that the time is opportune. The public is in the mood for it and a new government will be free from entangling alliances which would prevent the present government from making any reforms even if it so desired.

"However," added Mr. Pattullo, "I shall tell you a few of the things that a new administration

RED CROSS SALE

The sale of home cooking for the Red Cross Society yesterday was, as usual, a decided success. The sale was under the charge of Mrs. Peter Black and Mrs. W. Millar. Assisting these ladies were Mrs. Birnie, Mrs. Wm. Keith and Miss James. The sale was held in the store of Miss James on 2nd Avenue. The proceeds were $40. The amount might have been increased to a considerable extent had there been a greater supply of cooking for the sale. The cake donated by Mrs. Black was won by Mrs. Keith. It brought $7.95 in tickets. The cake offered by Miss James brought in $1.00. Birnie, who did splendid work, sold 75 recipes as advertised for the benefit of the society.

WHERE A MAN FAILS

A man can't do two things at a time. A woman will broil a steak and see that the coffee does not boil over, and watch that the cat does not steal the remnant of the meat on the kitchen table, and dress the youngest boy, and set the table, and see to the toast and stir the oatmeal, and give the orders to the butcher, and she can do it all at once, and not half try. Man has done wonders since he came before the public. He has navigated the ocean, he has penetrated the mysteries of the starry heavens, he has harnessed the lightning, and made it light the great cities of the world.

But he can't find a reel of thread in his wife's work-basket; he can't discover her pocket in a dress hanging in the closet; he can't hang out the clothes and get them on the line the right end up. He can't hold clothes-pegs in his mouth while he is doing it either. He can't be polite to somebody he hates. He can't sew on a button. In short, he cannot do a hundred things that women do almost instinctively.—Tit Bits.
