BISHOP DU VERNET HEARS FROM MAJOR PECK

In a letter to Bishop Du Vernet Major Peck writes:—"We are still having a quiet time on our front although on other fronts very severe fighting is taking place. It is hard to say when we shall be in a more active sphere, but it is not likely we will escape the fall movement as our troops are now such veterans and are so steady and reliable in action that all the British generals admire them and have the greatest confidence in them. We have without doubt the finest, bravest, most intelligent and most enthusiastic troops in the world in our Canadian divisions, and one never gets done admiring their manliness and self sacrifice and being enthusiastic about them.

We have with our division Rev. Canon Scott who says he knows you. He is a splendid man and never spares himself, but comes out in the dark, rainy nights to bury those who get killed and does not heed the weather nor stray bullets. I was walking down overland from the trenches one night recently with him when the enemy opened fire with a machine gun on the parapets and the bullets were coming over them and thick about us and we had to lie flat on the ground for a spell. However, one gets very accustomed to that sort of thing. Major Gibson has now got a commission and is well and hearty. Mr. Godenrath is well, but I hear his wife is not very well. All the other boys are well. Arthur Collison is still with our regiment. He is a fine soldier."

"THE BROKEN COIN" AT THE MAJESTIC THEATRE

In addition to the 18th episode of "The Broken Coin," there will be three good comedies at the Majestic tonight, and a splendid Animated Weekly besides. "The Broken Coin," as it nears completion, is becoming more enthralling than ever, and there is not a dull moment throughout the two reels.

King Baggott, the star movie comedian in "The Story the Silk Hats Told" is a regular circus, while "The Dude Raffles" and "Right off the Reel" are funny in the extreme. This big six-reel program should please everyone. Wednesday brings along another great Pathe masterpiece, entitled "The Dawn of Freedom."

SERBS SCORE BIG VICTORY OVER BULGARS

Bulgarians Driven Back With Heavy Losses—Kitchener Had Satisfactory Interview With The Greek King.

(Special to The Daily News.)

Paris, Nov. 22.—The Serbians have won an important victory over the Bulgarians near Leskovitz on the Nish-Saloniki railroad, twenty-five miles south of Nish.

This news corresponds with an official Serbian despatch which states that the victory definitely secures this part of the railroad line from further attack by the enemy.

The battle lasted for several days and the Bulgarian losses were enormous.

Lord Kitchener, British secretary of war, and his staff had a conference at Athens with King Constantine, the Greek premier, Skouloudais, and General Donsma. It is stated that the conference was successful from an Allied standpoint.

THREE HALIBUT SCHOONERS ASHORE

Fishermen have brought a report to the port that the schooners Constance and Yakatat are ashore in Icy Bay, about eighty miles north of Yakatat Bay, where the Yakatat lost two men recently. It seems that the boats were sheltering there when the wind changed and, rising to a gale, drove them ashore.

One report, which we publish elsewhere, states that the Progress had been towed into shelter with her steering gear gone, but a later report affirms that she is also ashore near the Constance and Yakatat.

There is still no word of the schooner Idaho, which has been gone for over a month. It is feared that she is lost.

SEVEN REELS AT THE WESTHOLME THEATRE

The Westholme has a big seven reel program for tonight and tomorrow, the big feature being, of course, "The Diamond from the Sky." This famous serial has got a firm hold on the interest of the people. There are two good dramas, "On the King's Service" and "The Shadow of Fear," and a rollicking comedy, entitled "The Fable of the People." The Gaumont British Gazette shows pictures of King George at Leeds, one of the main roads at the front, a scene of the Italian troops in action and several other interesting and up-to-date items.

The management announces a great five-reel feature for Wednesday and Thursday.

TIME TAKING ITS REVENGE ON THE BORDEN GOVERNMENT

CONSERVATIVE LEADERS REMAIN SILENT REGARDING THE DISLOYALTY OF NATIONALISTS — THE QUEBEC CAMPAIGN AGAINST ARMY RECRUITING

Ottawa, November 20.—Time is taking its revenge on the Borden government. The sins of its youth are coming home to roost. Pontius Pilate, it will be remembered, could wash his hands of his troubles, but the Borden government finds it not so easy to be free of its early indiscretions.

For instance, there are the Nationalists with whom the Conservative party formed a league in 1909 to divide Quebec and defeat Laurier. The gospel of the Nationalists in 1911 was that the Naval Service Act was a thinly veiled plan of England's to drag Canadians from their homes and send them as cannon meat to the seven seas. Of course one of the objects of that act was to enable us to defend our shores and make it largely unnecessary to send Canadian armies to Europe to defend our shores from that distance, as we are doing now in Flanders, and elsewhere. But the Nationalists did not see it in that light and closed their eyes to the truth. The eyes of many are sealed to this day, in which respect their eyes resemble the mouths of their leaders at Ottawa who ceased shouting as soon as they took office.

However, there is no doubt that then as now, a few of the Nationalist leaders and most of the Nationalist followers believed what they preached. At least, one leader was sincere enough to imagine that the Conservative party would keep its promises and that the Nationalist doctrine would be represented by something more than four cabinet ministers, three of whom could be trusted to put the soft pedal on, when a cabinet portfolio was the inducement. He was in hopes that Nationalism would be an article of the party creed. When this did not turn out as Mr. Monk wished and expected, he remitted his office, resigned all honors and titles, and withdrew from public life. Thus did Mr. Monk show himself, the one faithful, true man in that rollicking band of place hunters who called themselves the Nationalist leaders.

The party arrangements in the House of Commons made room for Mr. Blondin, he who would have shot holes in the Union Jack, and as Deputy Speaker he voted with as much joyousness for three dreadnoughts to be furnished by Canada to England, as he had spoken previously on the hustings against a navy for Canada furnished by herself. It is hard to see just where the nationalism is in that vote of Mr. Blondin's, but he seemed able to reconcile it with reason and his expressed opinions, as did also Messrs. Pelletier, Nantel and Coderre who were ministers of the Crown and felt their positions keenly, even more keenly than they did their previous convictions.

As a matter of fact the government could at all times depend on the vote of the Nationalist leaders in the cabinet. If the government had asked them to vote for a conscript army to be sent overseas to conquer China in a Canadian navy handled by pressed men they would have done so quite cheerfully. Moreover, they would have made a virtue of it by explaining that they did it from a sense of duty to their high office. Come what might the Nationalist leaders would stick to the ship of state as long as there was a dollar in the hold.

As it was with the Nationalist leaders in the House of Commons, so it came to be with the Nation—
