FREE SPEECH IS DEMANDED BY BERLIN PRESS

Tageblatt Says Peace Should be Freely Discussed—Signs of Dissension in the Reichstag.

(Special to The Daily News.)

London, Dec. 2.—The Berliner Tageblatt, the German equivalent to the London Times when that paper was at the height of its power, is demanding that the German press be given the right to discuss the question of peace.

The Tageblatt points out that there are no restrictions placed upon the British press in this connection, as the British care little as to what construction may be placed upon the discussion by people outside of the Empire.

Warns Americans.

It also issues a warning to the American people not to believe the reports published of riots by the German populace because of the shortage and high prices of food.

Internal Dissension.

The Reichstag, which opened yesterday, showed signs of internal dissension, the radicals and socialists showing an inclination to freely criticize the conduct of the war.

JUST MISSED HUSBAND FOR THE THIRD TIME

Montreal, Nov. 30.—After visiting the British front in Flanders in search of her husband, a soldier, Mrs. Walker is now in Canada, having located him in London, Ont., after just missing him several times. She enjoyed the record of being one of the few women who have been near the firing line. Her husband was a reservist of a Yorkshire regiment, and was in Canada when the war broke out. He joined his regiment and was wounded at Ypres. His wife learned of his injury and got permission to go to the front to look for him. When she arrived in Flanders Walker had been shipped to England. By the time Mrs. Walker had learned that he was at Shorncliffe he had been moved to Canada. Mrs. Walker followed and learned here that her husband had left Montreal for London, Ont.

M'BRIDE GIVES FINAL REPLY ON PROHIBITION

(Special to The Daily News.)

Vancouver, Dec. 2.—Premier McBride issued his final reply to the prohibitionists today. He refuses to take a referendum on the question on a day apart from the provincial election, but offers to take a plebiscite on election day with additional questions asked.

He favors bringing a bill before the legislature enforcing early closing of licensed houses during the war.

The prohibition executive will report to the convention tonight. The reply is considered unsatisfactory.

AMERICA KEEPS SECRET DEAL WITH GERMANY

Washington, Nov. 30.—Secretary of State Lansing and Ambassador Bernstorff, of German, have agreed not to make public any information relating to their conversations over repatriation to be made by Germany for the American lives lost on the Lusitania. Secretary Lansing let this be known recently in declining to comment on reports that Germany, through the ambassador, had proposed to pay an indemnity of $5,000 each for the lost Americans, and that the offer had been declined.

ARCHDEACON COLLISON'S BOOK IS PUBLISHED

To the editor—For the last five or six years I have been urging the Venerable Archdeacon Collison, of Kinloch, B. C., to put into book form an account of his long and successful ministry on this coast among the Tsimshian, Haida, and Nishga Indians. I felt that not only would this book with its simple statement of facts set right many erroneous tales regarding the early work of the Anglican Church on this coast, but it would also have enshrined in its story many historic incidents which otherwise would never be recorded. There is no other living man so familiar with the early history of this coast, both through personal experience and also through close questioning of an older generation of Indians who have long since passed away.

His book which has just been published entitled "In the Wake of the War Canoe" is well written and beautifully illustrated. There is not a dull page in it from beginning to end. Bear stories and canoe adventures abound, but to me the most striking feature of the book in comparison with some others bearing upon the same subject is the eminent fairness and kindly appreciation with which the Archdeacon refers to the work of other missionaries. MR. FRED STORK

Who will handle the subject of Prince Rupert in its relation to the Dominion Government.

Both of these speakers are thoroughly conversant with their subject, having lived in the city since before incorporation and their addresses should be of very especial interest to many who have since come to the city and who may be unaware of many matters of deep public concern with which the speakers will deal.

SUBMARINE IS SENT BELOW BY A BRITISH SHIP

(Special to The Daily News.)

Newport News, Dec. 2.—The British steamer Inverkip, which arrived here yesterday, is damaged below the waterline.

Captain Classen reports that his vessel rammed a submarine about twenty miles outside the straits of Gibraltar. He was not aware of the presence of the undersea boat until he noticed a large quantity of oil floating on the sea after the impact.

No Passports.

Washington, Dec. 2.—Secretary of State Lansing announces that there will be no passports issued to Henry Ford's peace party to belligerent countries. They will only be permitted to enter neutral states.

A REMINISCENCE

(By Capt. J. McGee, M.M.S.A.)

Do I remember? Shall I ever forget? Tell you the particulars? Well, they might be particulars to you, but I've passed through so many particulars belonging to the sea that this one is but one of many, though, as I've said I'll never forget it.

We left St. John, N. B., in the month of June, 1880, in the N. B. barque "Glad Tidings." My Uncle Samuel Dick was the master. I remember the sailors used to call him "Hungry Sam." I was an O. S. We arrived in Liverpool in July and, through circumstances over which I had no control, (my uncle's sea name gives them) I deserted the "Glad Tidings" on the night of August 12th, and left Liverpool on the 13th, on the good ship "Kinross," Captain Hancock, bound for San Francisco. We were 49 days to the 50th parallel of latitude, south, and east of Cape Horn, and to the same latitude and longitude west of Cape Horn we were 42 days, after which 51 days more landed us in Frisco.

One hundred and forty two days from Liverpool. This was my first of some fifty odd voyages round the Horn.

Before our anchor was down, we were boarded by boarding-house crimps, with which Frisco in those days was crowded, and as soon as the anchor was down every A. B. was on his way ashore leaving the youngsters to furl sail and make taut. As youngsters, we were pleased to hear the next day that our deserters had, one and all been shanghaied back to New York, Liverpool and elsewhere, a common experience at that time, a sailor being lucky if he got one night ashore after a voyage of 100 to 200 days.

I stayed in the "Kinross" until (Continued on Page Two)

The minister said that the Italian flag will soon wave on the opposite side of the Adriatic as the Italians will send a strong force to help the Serbians. It is believed that an Italian expedition to Albania is under preparation.
