TWENTY-THREE ALDERMANIC CANDIDATES

CABINET MINISTERS TO RESPECTIVE ROLES

Ottawa, January 7.—The new year sees the cabinet ministers definitely assigned to their respective roles. Premier Borden is the heavy father, Finance Minister White is the leading juvenile, Sir Sam is the Man on Horseback, Sir George Foster is wise old Ulysses with a touch of Nestor and a dash of Cassandra, while the Honorable Bob has what they call a thinking part, which means that he is supposed to say little but to think deeply over what occurred in Manitoba. This is a part that suits his mood and he needs little prompting. Arthur Meighen is understudy to the whole company.

The Premier seems to do his share when he emits a distant rumble in the presence of the Canadian Club of New York or Boston on his way to and from the hot springs in Virginia where he goes to warm his feet. Meanwhile the important announcement falls to Finance Minister White who distributes the sunshine in his heart among the electors. In a cabinet of elderly gentlemen Mr. White passes as young and he gets a young man's work to do. He speaks not only for himself but for all his colleagues who remain silent and act as a background.

The finance minister's role is invincible cheerfulness. Keep 'em smiling—that's his cue, and he does it very well indeed. In the seventeen months the Empire has been at war not one doleful word has escaped his lips. According to the finance minister this country is getting along as well as could be expected and a good deal better. His message is that Canada has had an unprecedented wheat crop, that the foreign trade conditions are prodigious, the customs returns buoyant, the special war taxes fruitful, borrowings not too difficult, and general prosperity on the upgrade. All of which is a consummation devoutly to be wished and most encouraging if the statements are taken at their face value. The finance minister has never been downhearted at any stage of the game, being convinced that the financial precautions which he took at the outbreak of the war, and which were based on the wisdom of the ages sifted through the business intellect of Tom White were all that could be desired. It is true that he set aside the advice of a number of bankers and money kings—but who is running this show anyway, the

McCAFFERY'S ATTITUDE

Perhaps the most remarkable feature of the mayoralty campaign is M. P. McCaffery's attitude of calm, complacent confidence in the people. Without any unnecessary fuss, or hollering as to what he will do if elected, or threats as to what he will do if not elected, he smilingly awaits the verdict of the ratepayers. He is satisfied that his qualifications for the position are well known and apparent to all. He seems to say, "though as a matter of fact he actually says very little about it, 'the people know me thoroughly, and they also know my opponent. Let them make their choice.'"

To meet him, one would think that he was to be elected by acclamation, so little attention does he pay to the fact that he has an opponent. He has never made an effort to attack Mayor Newton, so evidently satisfied is he with the knowledge that every ratepayer is aware of the situation. His quietness is the quietness of great strength coupled with the knowledge of the weakness of his opponent.

As a man of sound judgment, he knows too well the difficulties confronting the city this year to venture on a campaign of promises for the future. He knows that his chief work will be in cleaning up what has been badly done, or left undone, in the past. His one promise is that he will devote all his energy and foresight to the affairs of Prince Rupert. His ability to handle these affairs is thoroughly known to all, and little more need be said. He is not out clamoring to be appointed to a job, but has come forward at the request of many wholehearted citizens, to do his duty as a citizen. Everyone knows that that duty will be well and faithfully done.

bankers or Tom White, the man chosen of the people? Meanwhile it is a safe guess that the finance minister does nothing that will cost the Canadian Bankers' Association a minute's sleep.

The gold standard being for the moment suspended, Canada need never lack money so long as the printing presses are in good running order. What's more the United States, overlooking those cruel words about no truck or trade with the Yankees, is more than willing to lend and the people of Canada themselves are always ready to help the finance minister out of the hole at five per cent. or better. Wherefore if the Borden government hopes to stave off domestic loans until the

OUTBREAK OF FIRE AT DYER APARTMENT

About seven o'clock on Saturday evening the fire brigade had a rush call to the Dyer Apartment, and arrived just in time to quell what looked like being an ugly blaze. The outbreak resulted from an overheated stove in Suite No. 13 and quickly gained a firm hold. Had there been the slightest hitch in the operations of the brigade, there might have been a very serious conflagration.

Mr. and Mrs. Porter, the tenants of suite 13 lost nearly all of their belongings. The extent of the damage to the building has not yet been estimated, but it must be considerable.

PROTECTION

You cannot protect yourself against fire occurring, but you can protect yourself against loss by fire if you insure with us. Our companies are old and tried and besides, we guarantee you a lower rate than you can secure in any other office. See us before your turn comes. ELECTION POINTS

For the love of "Mike" let us have McCaffery for mayor.

After having tried Sam Newton as mayor for three years, Prince Rupert is not of a mind to say that it will use no other.

How to elect McCaffery without jarring Sam unnecessarily is the problem of the electors.

A candid survey of the field leads to the opinion that McCaffery will romp home an easy winner. To date, the Newton movement for re-election for a fourth term has failed.

As the date of the municipal election approaches, it becomes more and more apparent to the man on the street that McCaffery will be the next mayor of Prince Rupert.

The reason for placing a man like McCaffery in the Mayor's chair is simple enough. Something has to be done to put an end to the slipshod methods of carrying on public business which prevails in this city. GET THAT?

It has not taken McCaffery long to gather round himself sufficient public sentiment and confidence to ensure his election as mayor of Prince Rupert by a crushing majority.

Why should Mayor Newton ask the ratepayers to do him so great a favor as to re-elect him for a fourth term? He has done nothing to merit such a distinction.

THE MAYORALTY

To the Electors of the City of Prince Rupert,
Ladies and Gentlemen:—In response to the wishes of a large number of ratepayers, I have consented to again become a candidate for the office of mayor for 1916.

In the past I have made it a point of always being on the job in carefully guarding the affairs of the city along the lines of impartiality, practicability, economy based upon efficiency, and the preservation and success of our public utilities.

If these efforts have met with your approval, might I again solicit your support as a means of the continuation of such a policy for the next year?
Yours truly
S. M. NEWTON.
