CONSTANTINE COMPLAINS

King Constantine seems to figure that the Allied occupation of Greece is similar to the German treatment of Belgium. Nothing could be further from the truth. Germany had signed a treaty with the other European powers which expressly prohibited the entering of Belgian territory, while the Allies made no such agreement regarding Greece. As a matter of fact, the only treaty broken in the Near East was that between Greece and Serbia, which called for Greek assistance against a Bulgarian invasion of Serbia.

Not only did Germany violate a treaty in entering Belgium, but she violated every law of humanity during that invasion. The German armies are living off the country which they wrongfully invaded, whilst the inhabitants of that country are dependent upon subscriptions from every corner of the globe in order that they may keep body and soul together. Because Germany set at naught her treaty, and the common law of humanity, the people of Prince Rupert are today called upon to subscribe to the funds of the Belgian Relief Committee, in order that the starved Belgian women and children may be fed. If any fault can be found with the Allies' treatment of King Constantine and his satellites it is that Britain and France have been too patient. That patience must now be well-nigh exhausted, and King Constantine will have plenty of opportunity for comparing German and British methods.

SAFETY FIRST

For once, a German leader has come right out and expressed the true German idea of warfare. General Somar, in command in a section of Russia, says that humanitarian considerations have no value in an enemy country and that there is more safety in taking than in giving. The Belgians were thoroughly conversant with this phase of "kultur" months ago, without it being necessary to have verbal confirmation. It has long been apparent, both on sea and land that Germany knows no law but the triumph of Prussianism.

In this war Germany has reverted to type, and even their Hun forefathers would be ashamed to do what is being done at the command of German officers every day. The much vaunted German science has given place to Prussian savagery. No mercy is shown by the German officers to their men, and the men in turn mete out the same treatment to civilians. The men who place no value upon humanitarian considerations are the men who holler loudest for mercy when the blow threatens.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

Our smaller friend up the street is still showing signs of an extremely sore head. Time will work its usual cure.

Yesterday, Prince Rupert had a taste of the kind of weather they have to tolerate on the prairies. We need something now and again just to show us how well off we are.

Holland evidently thinks that her neighbors have enough to do financing their own little affairs without being asked to help out needy Dutch folks.

If the recent report from Italy is true, Montenegro has resumed the most colossal game of bluff played in Europe for centuries. It is to be hoped that the Italian press only made a poor guess.

Have You a Boy Problem?

It cannot be solved by arithmetic. Solve it by feeding him Shredded Wheat—a natural food that makes his body buoyant with the energy and enthusiasm of youth. A muscle and brain-builder. Contains the life of the wheat in a digestible form. Builds sturdy, robust boys and girls. Serve it for breakfast with hot milk. Made in Canada.
