DANCER TOURS CAFES FOR BLINDED SOLDIER

Paris, Jan. 18.—Leading a blinded soldier tenderly by the hand, Mlle. Polaire, the noted dancer, startled the dining boulevardiers here last night by appearing in half a dozen of the smartest restaurants and giving impromptu performances of her favorite stage pieces.

Following each turn she passed around the soldier's battered cap, which was forthwith heaped with silver for the benefit of the wounded soldiers. One most famous boulevardier even came across with a shining gold piece, which had been overlooked by the Bank of France.

"Of all the tours I ever made, my tour of the boulevards was the most successful," Mlle. Polaire said this morning. "The cafes went wild. Men and women showered us with money, which has already been turned over to charity."
