THE LAST GASP

The shipbuilding announcement made by the Hon. A. C. Flumerfelt at Victoria yesterday is the last gasp declaration of a man who sees defeat and disaster staring him in the face. If Flumerfelt was doomed to defeat before, he is now doomed and damned by his own act. The announcement that legislation will be introduced within ten days to provide two millions for the building of ten ships, five to be built in Victoria and five elsewhere, is the most transparent attempt ever made, even by a Bowser government, to purchase support. Individual support has been purchased freely in the past with the people's money, but here we have a flagrantly crude effort to buy all the people at one fell swoop. When will such men realize that there are some things which cannot be bought?

It is an insult to the intelligence of the people of Victoria to flaunt such a bait before them, when, at a mass meeting in Vancouver only last Thursday, Mr. Flumerfelt heard Mr. Tisdall intimate that the shipbuilding plans of the government were still incomplete. It is simply an intimation that these plans were completed, not for the benefit of the province but as a hastily improvised measure to try and redeem the support which was lost in Vancouver on Saturday. Over the weekend, the Tory shipbuilding scheme was completed, or in other words, Bowser decided on a last great attempt to buy support.

Nothing would please the people of British Columbia better than to have shipbuilding go ahead, and the people of Prince Rupert would welcome such a measure, but the politicians who will try to make a deal of the kind outlined by Mr. Flumerfelt are doomed. Flumerfelt simply made public the fact that he believed the people of Victoria could be bought and that the price was five ships with a promise of more to come. Flumerfelt is pretty much in the position of the Turks and Bulgarians and he will receive his just reward, as they will.

It is funny to contemplate what this gentleman would have offered had he been running say in Prince George. It would not have been ships, of course, and it would certainly have included the immediate completion of the Pacific Great Eastern and the beginning of the construction work into the Peace River country. Failing everything else, he might just as sensibly have promised every man in the constituency a job for the life of the administration at a wage of $30 per week. Ever since last April, the Bowser bunch have been paving the way for defeat, and this last ludicrous effort will turn defeat into rout. The great game of buying the support of the people with the people's money is at an end, and the exponents of it have completed their course with the most ridiculous example which could ever have been devised by the distorted brain of a political boss. The Bowser administration, after the overwhelming defeat in Vancouver, no longer represents the majority of the people of this province and the sooner they realize the fact and declare a general election, the better for all concerned.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

Lorne Campbell seems now to be intensely interested in shipbuilding as well as in mines, but why did he not suggest the laying down of fifty ships instead of twenty-five. It would have looked bigger and have served the same purpose.

It is too bad that C. E. Tisdall did not know that this big shipbuilding scheme was to be put through in ten days. Had he been able to announce the fact he might have been elected.

Flumerfelt is to have a fleet of ships to support him in the defence of the Tory citadel in Victoria, while poor Tisdall had only infantry.

The Turks and Bulgarians are evidently becoming very chilly in their pedal extremities.

The Journal will now realize why Tisdall was so badly beaten in Vancouver. He had no fleet to support him.

Flumerfelt's great shipbuilding announcement was simply a case of supplying the enemy with a battery of big guns to be used against himself.

All together, boost for that Prince Rupert company.

Blanche Sweet in "The Case of Becky" at the Westholme tonight.

BLANCHE SWEET AT WESTHOLME THEATRE

"The Case of Becky," which is presented at the Westholme tonight and tomorrow, is one of the greatest dramatic successes ever produced by David Belasco, and, with Blanche Sweet in the stellar role, should prove one of the biggest attractions this popular house has yet screened.

In "The Case of Becky" Miss Sweet assumes a dual personality, that of a young woman stamped by pre-natal influence with two characters, one pleasing and happy, the other mean and vicious. These two personalities, in the one person, struggle against each other for mastery. Throughout the play is a theme of mysticism and hypnotism, subjects which are handled with rare skill and discretion by the Lasky producing force. In the end, through a combination of science and love's power, the hated personality is conquered. It is a remarkable drama which gives this great actress ample scope for her powers.

The Eclair Gazette shows H. M. S. Natal, which recently went down in harbor; Russian transports snowbound in Galicia, etc. "Susie's New Shoes" produce no end of trouble and merriment.

"While the enemy talks of peace, we only think of war and victory," says General Joffre.
