MINING ACTIVITY

With the war driving the price of minerals up to phenomenal heights, the eyes of the investing public are naturally turned upon mining districts and northern British Columbia is not being neglected. The mineral resources of this large district have scarcely been tapped, but what work has been done has only gone to show that this part of the continent is well worthy of the attention of mining men. Much of the ore to be found in this part of the Dominion is low grade and of course the high prices prevailing make it possible to handle properties which in normal times would not tempt the capitalist. However, with the methods of handling low grade ores steadily improving, it is to be supposed that schemes will be devised for the handling of low grade ores at a profit even in normal times. In the early times of mining, the miner and the capitalist only touched what was highly profitable and easily handled. In recent years, however, mining has undergone a great change and operating costs have been brought down so low that properties which the capitalist would not look at formerly are eagerly sought for today. In South Africa, where so much of the Empire's gold has been mined, companies are today working over the tailings formerly discarded as of no value, and find that they produce dividends. Mines which had been shut down as worked out have produced millions on being reopened and up-to-date methods employed.

In a mining boom, and there is every sign that a boom in this line will set in here before long, there is always "wild-cattling." Every mining country in entering an era of prosperity comes to a certain extent under the sway of the 'get-rich-quick' fraternity, and it is not to be expected that northern British Columbia will escape. Fortunately, this part of the province has already proven that it has the goods, and the real properties will be able to offset effectively the bad results accruing from the boosting of imaginary mines.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

Premier Bowser has now acceded to the demands of the prohibitionists in order to try and save the situation. The effect of the Vancouver scare is becoming more apparent every day.

The supply of election bait in Victoria seems to be equal to the supposed demand. It is no use, Bill. Something has started which even the Liberals themselves could not stop if they tried.

"Bob" Rogers is trying to show how black the Saskatchewan Liberals are, in order that the Tories in Manitoba and British Columbia may look white in comparison. Hon. Walter Scott will do everything possible to root out any evil-doers whether they happen to be Liberal or Conservative.

"Give it a name, and it's all yours" is the new policy of the Bowser government.

In a farming community they say that "a pound of March dust is worth its weight in gold." There was a good deal of this valuable commodity flying around yesterday.

The Bowser bunch will be kept extremely busy for the next few weeks answering awkward questions put by H. C. Brewster and M. A. Macdonald.

"THE CASE OF BECKY" AT WESTHOLME THEATRE

Blanche Sweet, supported by a cast of exceptional ability, appears at the Westholme tonight in "The Case of Becky." It is a remarkable story in which Becky is a young lady burdened with a dual personality, the two being of opposite extremes. The play gives this talented actress the opportunity to score the triumph of her career. It is artistically produced and from every point of view is one of the greatest attractions ever brought here. Love in the long run conquers the objectionable phase of her character and the real Becky blossoms forth.

The Eclair Gazette is interesting and up-to-date as usual, while "Susie's New Shoes" is a comedy which is simply side-splitting. This is a show well worth seeing.

MAX LINDER AT THE MAJESTIC THEATRE

Max Linder provides two reels of rollicking comedy at the Majestic tonight, in the role of a young man who cannot muster up courage to propose to a wealthy young lady. His uncle, who is anxious to have him marry this young lady, takes him out to see life in order to strengthen his nerves. Max recovers his nerve and then some. It is one of Linder's funniest efforts.

"Council for the Defense" is a three-act drama which is intensely dramatic, particularly in the last act when the house-breaker and the thieving lawyer meet after many years have passed and the lawyer has become famous, and the theft of his early days has been covered up. A most interesting Pathe Gazette completes a real good show.

GERMAN STORIES OF STARVATION DOUBTED

We advise people to receive with extreme caution the stories sent from Copenhagen and Rotterdam to this country, and printed innocently, we doubt not, in some papers here, representing the gradual starvation of the German nation. We believe, says the Saturday Review, that a considerable percentage of these stories are craftily concocted in Germany itself, and sent through neutrals to Great Britain. Most of the trash printed in this country about Germans eating dog, fighting for vegetable soup tickets and so on, is very artful trash; the idea is to send the British public asleep, and so to cause it to slacken its efforts. It would not be at all a bad plan to make a collection of these stories, starting from the copper kettle and door-handle myths of a year ago almost, reprint them, and distribute them under the heading of "Made in Germany." Let the public beware.

The Royal Standard Test

Here's where we test the choicest samples of Canada's six million acre wheat crop. We grind them into flour in the little mill you see on the left of the picture. Then comes the supreme test—bread-baking. If the bread is perfect in every way we pronounce the wheat A1 and the flour—ROYAL STANDARD.
