POLICE FORCE IS FURTHER REDUCED

At the police commission meeting on Saturday afternoon, Chief Vickers reported that in February the sum of $49 was collected in fines and in March $85.50. In February there were ten cases and nine convictions, and in March 20 cases and 8 convictions. On the motion of O. H. Nelson, it was decided to reduce the police force by one constable, the change taking place a month hence. Mr. Nelson said that at present the reduced force would be quite able to cope with the situation. Commissioner Moxley was opposed to the reduction, as he feared that circumstances might arise at any time when the reduced force would be inadequate.

Coughing scatters germs — Stop it

Coughing increases the irritation of the already inflamed mucous membranes and is moreover apt to carry disease to others. Mathieu's Syrup of Tar and Cod Liver Oil promptly stops coughing, and soon, thanks to its tonic properties, effects a permanent cure. The wonderful popularity of Mathieu's Syrup of Tar and Cod Liver Oil is specially due to its great value as a permanent lung and bronchial healer. Sold everywhere, 35c large bottles. J. L. MATHIEU CO., Prop., Sherbrooke, P.Q.

ADVERTISE IN THE DAILY NEWS

no business man would dream of paying more than $30 per month!

Whether M. M. Stephens is a greater drawing card than Joe is a question which can scarcely be decided off-hand, but he does pretty well with $157.50 out of a few rooms in the Stephens Block, as well as a share in the $500 odds which the Federal Block brings in. In this rental J. G. Scott also shares, but, with what he gets in other various ways, detailed and otherwise, he will reckon it very small potatoes. It is a merry game while it lasts, and it lasts longer and is much more steady than the Colonel Allison-Lignanti method, although, in its way, just as effective, but what has the public to say about it?

NOTES AND COMMENTS

Just as sure as you compliment the weather clerk on his efforts he sends along old Jupiter P. with his watering can.

The crude methods of Jesse James are long since out of date and much more delicate but equally effective methods of robbing the public have been devised. Still one had some slight admiration for the old-time highwayman, but there can be nothing but contempt for the present day specimen who plays the hold-up game through the public accounts.

Villa is now only two days ahead of the American troops, but the elusive Mexican is still in the lead and is liable to give General Pershing and his men a run for their money yet.

Had Villa lived in British Columbia he would probably have been busy selling or buying Indian reserves or renting premises to the people through the government. Allee samee gamee.

Prince Rupert will never have anything more in the way of a post office than that $95,000 site so long as the present bunch own the Federal Block.

Since heavy charging is Joe's long suite, he should surely be in the trenches where his charges would give the Germans fits.

PRICE OF MEALS AT ALICE ARM

Editor, Daily News, Prince Rupert. Dear Sir:—In a recent issue of The Empire there appeared a "local" stating that the people of Alice Arm could not get meals for less than "six bits," which is an error that reflects sadly on the business people of Alice Arm. The maximum rate for meals at present is 50 cents or $8.00 per week. We do not need, nor want, that kind of free advertising, but prefer the truth or nothing published.

Thanking you kindly for space in your valuable paper, I remain, Yours truly,

J. P. HAWKINSON, Proprietor, Kitsault Restaurant, Alice Arm, B. C.

RENT ARTISTS

Hard times do not worry some of our citizens in the very least. When business gets slack, they simply recline gracefully upon a long-suffering public. By this we do not mean that they become public charges, but that they charge the public with their living expenses and then some, though, in effect, they really amount to the same thing. The art of living at the public expense has been discovered by several of these gentlemen. The procedure is simplicity itself. The first requisite is a building. If it is a good building, so much the better, though that is not an essential, but merely an accident. The next essential is to let part of the building to the government. If you can let a very small part for more than the legitimate rental of the whole building so much the better. This is probably what Euclid meant when he spoke of the part being greater than the whole.

Now you must have thought that the premises occupied by the various governmental departments in this city are scattered around indiscriminately, but this is not the case, that is, they are not scattered indiscriminately, but are scattered with the most careful discrimination. The convenience of the location is not considered, the one consideration being that the right party draws the rent. That party may not necessarily own the building, but it is a most important part of the game that he draws the rent. These rent-drawers have a greater drawing power in this business than they would have as movie artists, our friend Joe Merryfield being able to draw unaided $175 per month for what
