BOWSER AND ROBLIN

The resemblance between political happenings in British Columbia and in Manitoba becomes more marked every day. In the prairie province, where the ex-premier and several of his friends are awaiting trial on criminal charges, things reached such a pitch of debauchery that at last things began to leak through, in spite of all the efforts of a slavish, subsidised press. When the matter of the Parliament buildings scandal was broached, the Roblin bunch offered the most plausible story imaginable and it was not until matters reached a climax, and a commission of judges was appointed, that the followers of Bob Rogers crawled into their holes.

Taking thought, in their own low criminal fashion, they devised the plan of trying to throw some of their own mud over the Liberal party by claiming in the most brazen manner possible that the Liberal leader, Mr. Norris, now the respected premier of the province and the leader of a really progressive government, had been a party to the diabolical Tory Schemes. What happened? When the commission was through with its searching investigation, an investigation in which it was hard to get all the evidence because of the destruction of much of the correspondence, it was found that, not only were the Liberals perfectly clean, in spite of the assertions of one of the most prominent lawyers in Winnipeg, but that Roblin and Company must stand trial.

The Tories of British Columbia stand convicted, on the evidence of their own witnesses, of having squandered the public funds amongst their party friends in the most profligate manner. They stand convicted of setting aside the laws of the province in order that their friends might make or save money. The McKenzie & Mann registration fees case is just one little instance of their methods, while the handing out of $75,000 to Joe Matson was another. In the face of their record of misgovernment and worse, in every corner of the province, a record which A. C. Flumerfelt, in the Victoria by-election, took particular pains to stand from under, the only plan which appealed to the Tory mind was the Roblin scheme of trying to throw some of the Tory mud over their opponents.

In the choice of a target, they displayed their usual diabolical cunning. They did not attempt to attack H. C. Brewster. They knew that the reputation of H. C. Brewster was made throughout the province years ago and that they could not assail his good name. The only alternative was to attack, by the lowest possible means, the political character of M. A. Macdonald, a young man, who, though held in the very highest esteem by all who know him, was, comparatively speaking, an unknown man to the general public throughout the province.

In spite of the dastardly attack upon the brilliant young member for Vancouver, in the form of veiled insinuation in the Matsonised press, it is very significant that, not one member of the Tory majority on the committee, in bringing down the report in the Legislature, dared to make a single charge against the character of this sterling man, nor did the attorney-general dare indulge in anything like a direct charge, preferring to take refuge behind the impending court proceedings.

Mr. Macdonald will come through this shower of mud with his colors flying and he will be one of the foremost legislators in this province when his traducers of today have sunk to the earth from which they sprung.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

The details of yesterday's naval battle were meagre but the mere fact that the German navy had at last shown some real fight was good enough news for anyone of British blood.

The Tories are much more interested in a blackened Liberal party than in a clean British Columbia. The recent enquiries simply served to show more clearly the type of men who have been ruling in this province.

The Tories tell us that the plugging operations were to be extended to Prince Rupert. Well, we must take their word for it, as they seem to be the only people who know anything about it.

Fortunately, T. D. Pattullo is known throughout the north as a man of the highest honor, so that the Tory insinuations in regard to Prince Rupert simply fall back upon the Tories.

The first McBride government owed its existence to ballot box trickery and it is simply in keeping with the reputation of the party that it should try to retain power by the same means.

This picture shows a British grenadier in the war zone. Instead of carrying the cartridge belt, he wears a contrivance which looks rather like a life preserver, with little pockets for hand grenades and bombs.
