THE "CHATEAU LYALL" AND SCENES ON PARLIAMENT HILL, OTTAWA.—This elaborate office building is erected on the site of Canada's two million dollar scrap heap at Ottawa. The contractor for the Parliament Buildings will not only get the benefit of it while the work is on but will collect 8 per cent. profit on it from the country. The upper picture gives a skyline view from the east to west, showing the Chateau Lyall. Just to the right of the clump of trees formerly stood the undamaged and new west wing which had to be levelled by dynamite. The barbed wire fence prevents a view of the site as it now is. At a recent meeting of the Parliamentary Committee the Conservative members blamed the architects for the destruction of the two million dollars' worth of sound walls.

Not only is the contractor to get 8 per cent on the whole cost of the work, but he is to be allowed 20 per cent per annum depreciation on his plant.

WASHINGTON DELIVERS BODY BLOW TO PRINCE RUPERT TRADE

CONGRESS PASSED REVENUE BILL YESTERDAY PROHIBITING PRINCE RUPERT PACKED FISH FROM ENTERING THE UNITED STATES—WILL BE EFFECTIVE IN NINETY DAYS

Word reached town this morning from Washington that the United States Revenue Bill, including the new fishing legislation, was passed by Congress yesterday, but has not yet been signed by President Wilson. The legislation becomes effective in ninety days after the signing of the bill by the president.

The clause which puts the American halibut industry out of business so far as Prince Rupert is concerned, reads as follows: "On and after ninety days from the passage of this Act, no fresh or frozen halibut or salmon from the North Pacific and its tributary waters shall be admitted into the United States through a foreign country, except the same shall be in bond from an American port."

It will be remembered that this legislation was presented to Congress as a separate bill, but Sir Cecil Spring Rice, the British Ambassador to Washington, notified the president that Great Britain would consider the passage of the bill as an "unfriendly act," and the matter was promptly dropped.

The Seattle fishing interests then set to work and had the measure attached to a revenue bill, so that the legislation could not be killed without killing the whole revenue measure. The passage of this legislation puts Prince Rupert entirely out of the United States fishing business and is a severe blow to this port.

INTERESTING CASE IN THE SUPREME COURT

The case of the Westholme Lumber Company vs. the G. T. P. Railway Company was resumed before Judge Murphy in the Supreme Court yesterday.

The first witness called was J. Y. Rochester who testified that he had leased lots on Cameron Cove. At the time of the sale of the lease it was promised that the cove would remain open to the sea.

Sol Cameron, president of the Westholme Lumber Co., described the organization of the company and how he came here in 1908 and picked out Cameron Cove as the most suitable place to land material for his contracting work. He took steps to see that access from the cove to the sea would not be cut off.

Just before the auction of the leases, C. D. Rand was asked as to this point and gave assurance that there would certainly be access to the cove from the sea. On this assurance, witness purchased lots 11, 12 and 14 and started to work.

Mitchell Albert, manager of the Westholme Lumber Co., was next called. He said that he took

BISHOP'S CHARGE TO ANGLICAN SYNOD

Bishop Du Vernet delivered his charge to the Synod of the Diocese of Caledonia in St. Andrew's Church on Wednesday morning.

After stating that the Annual Synod of 1914 and 1915 had been postponed on account of the war, the Bishop said it would have been false economy not to have met this year to attend to the business of the Church.

In dealing with the war, he said that one result was indifference to higher things had in some measure passed away and that a regenerating force had been evoked in our national life. He said that if the organized Church fails at such a crisis it may be left behind in the onward march. He said that, from the rank and file of non-church going people may emerge a new type of Christianity, true to the Spirit of Christ but discarding much that the Churches have over-emphasized.

The Bishop made reference to the revised Prayer Book and also dwelt upon the difficult work which would fall upon the clergymen of this Diocese after the war. He made feeling reference to the removal by death of Rev. Wm. Hogan and Rev. R. W. Gurd, two faithful laborers for many years.

Three new churches have been opened since the war began and land has been obtained for a building in the Pouce Coupe country and a clergyman has been secured.

In referring to the impending election, he said that he believed that the people would make the legislation against the bar effective and that, if the women were given the vote, it would lead to a better order of things.

In view of the awful waste of wealth and men from the war, he urged upon the people the necessity for economy and production. He said that there is not enough

RUMANIANS AND RUSSIANS ARE STILL GAINING Russians Capture Strong Positions and Many Prisoners—Rumanians Driving Enemy Before Them.

(Special to The Daily News.)

London, Sept. 7.—The Russians have captured strongly fortified Austrian positions and have captured forty-five hundred prisoners between the Zlota Lipa and Dniester rivers.

Rumanians Gaining.

Geneva, Sept. 7.—The Austrians and Hungarians are continuing to retire along the Moldavia river before the Rumanian forces.

German Loan Fails.

London, Sept. 7.—Reports from Berlin indicate that the last German loan is a failure and that the time limit will probably be extended until October 15th in order to secure enough subscriptions.

Zeppelin Crew Buried.

The crew of the Zeppelin which was destroyed in the last raid on London were interred yesterday at Potters Bar with military honors. The London papers declare that the nation's moral sense has been outraged by the conferring of this honor upon men who dropped bombs on a defenceless city and the Express asks if the authorities would give a military funeral to the person who sank the Lusitania.

STRIKES DECLARED IN NEW YORK INDUSTRIES

New York, Sept. 7.—A strike has been declared by the Union employees on the Subway, Elevated and Interborough Rapid Transit Company lines. The company hopes that, with adequate police protection, they will be able to guarantee a service over their routes.

Three thousand grocery clerks have gone on strike, demanding shorter hours, increased wages and a percentage of the receipts of the stores in which they work.
