R. J. VENABLES WRITES FROM MEXICAN BORDER

Private R. J. Venables, a brother of Jack Venables of this city, is stationed at Calexico with a company of United States volunteers. Before enlisting for service on the Mexican frontier, Mr. Venables was practicing law. He says the heat is terrific and all the boys are afflicted with a "desert thirst" which it takes them all day to keep under. They are free from 9 a. m. until 5 p. m. and spend most of that time in the shade of the canteen drinking iced beer, milk and pop, the canteen doing a flourishing business in soft drinks.

He says Calexico is a prosperous town of 5,000 people and that "there are no saloons or gambling halls of any kind," the town being strongly prohibitionist. The boys are camping in a field of alfalfa, for which they are truly grateful, as it is much cooler than the adobe flats. Mr. Venables says that the country is rich in agriculture and that watermelons and canteloupes are grown with great success. The flood system of irrigation is used. The farm houses are large and have an air of prosperity about them. Though they are right close to the Mexican boundary, none of the United States soldiers ever venture across as the penalty is severe enough to prevent any exploration. The thermometer keeps steadily around 105 to 110 in the shade. All business in Calexico is transacted in the early morning or in the evening, everybody remaining in the shade during the day.

2,000,000 Belgians Depend on us for Bread!

Since shortly after the German invasion, the Belgians have depended for food entirely on the "Commission for Relief in Belgium". Their own store of food, even if not destroyed or pillaged, would last only three weeks—they have had no chance to raise more—and the ruthless Germans refuse to supply them!

Backed by the Belgian Relief Fund

so generously contributed in the British Empire and the United States, the neutral Belgian Relief Commission has imported enough wheat, flour and other foods to feed the whole nation so far. The great majority of the 7,000,000 Belgians left in the country have been able to pay for their daily allowance of bread—but a steadily growing number have no money left.

Unless we are willing to let these hundreds of thousands of women, children and old men starve, they must be fed at the expense of the Belgian Relief Fund. To make this possible someone must contribute nearly $3,000,000 a month—every month—all this winter!

No people under the Allied Flags are as well able to contribute generously as we Canadians! No cause has ever been more deserving of help! In the name of Justice and Humanity—for the sake of our own self-respect—let us give all we can to help our martyred Allies!
