SPLENDID DOUBLE ATTRACTION AT MAJESTIC

There is a great double attraction at the Majestic Theatre tonight, one being Helen Holmes in "A Life in Peril," the third episode of "The Girl and the Game," and the other "Lonesome Heart," with Margarita Fischer in the lead. Miss Holmes is more daring than ever in the great railroad serial, swinging across the track on a rope and rescuing her lover from the top of a burning train of dynamite. Ed. Stillwell, in this great train scene, produces most realistic engine effects. In "Lonesome Heart," Margarita Fischer plays the part of a changeling who has been kidnapped and exchanged for an infant boy who inherits her wealth. Later, this same boy falls in love with her and poetic justice is met in a happy wedding of the couple. A splendid Mutual Weekly completes a show which is drawing huge audiences.

FINE WESTERN DRAMA AT WESTHOLME THEATRE

"Autumn," the five-act feature at the Westholme tonight, is a most beautiful production. It is the story of the birth of a little girl in a miner's cabin. Her father has gone for a doctor but is shot in a saloon scrap on the way. Losing his memory, he never returns and the little girl, whose mother has died, is left to the tender mercies of the miners, who call her "Autumn." A Chinaman who has worked for the child's father, informs the mounted police and Trooper Leslie sets out to put things right. He brings the father and daughter together and incidentally finds a wife and all ends happily. There is also a Nestor comedy and a Universal Weekly showing news from the Mexican border and other points.
