ROGERS LOSES HIS TEMPER AND HOLLERS GRAFT

Hon. Bob Rogers in Awkward Corner in Manitoba Enquiry—Turns on Judge Galt and Makes Scene.

(Special to The Daily News.)

Winnipeg, Sept. 25.—The journalists, who were arrested for contempt of court in connection with their reports of the proceedings in the enquiry into the letting of the contracts for the construction of the Manitoba Agricultural College, have been released under the Habeas Corpus Act.

Bob's Apology.

Prior to making a hurried departure for Ottawa, Hon. Robert Rogers announced to the Telegram that he desired to apologise to the people of Manitoba for interesting himself in the appointment of Judge Galt, a person who apparently was incapable of grasping or appreciating the responsibilities and dignities of his office. He said "Judge Galt appears to enjoy a peculiar standard of honor, permitting him to barter the honor and dignity of the King's court for a monetary consideration."

This tirade follows a dramatic incident in the court of enquiry after Hon. Robert Rogers had admitted his advising the contractors to revise their tender which he thought was much too low. The tender was increased by $8,700 and Mr. Rogers said that he had a meeting with the architect, Sam Hooper, since deceased, when the latter showed him that the tender was away below a fair price.

A sensation was caused by Mr. Hooper's son producing his father's diary which showed that, at the time of the meeting mentioned by Rogers, his father was seriously ill and was not at his office, while old files and telegraph records showed that the minister was in the east at the time specified.

Hon. Robert Rogers then turned upon Judge Galt and accused him of accepting "graft," as it was contrary to the Judges' Act that he should accept a monetary consideration besides his salary.

Commissioner Galt made a defence of his action and that of other judges who had served on similar commissions, after which Hugh Phillips, K. C., counsel for the government, expressed regret that Mr. Rogers had made such an attack upon Judge Galt, stating that the charges were "entirely unjustified and without foundation."

WHERE THE ISLANDS EXHIBITS WERE GROWN

There seems to be an impression that the products shown at the Exhibition from Queen Charlotte Islands were grown around Massett and Massett Inlet, and, as the growers in the various districts are naturally jealous of the reputation of their respective districts, J. L. Barge, of Queen Charlotte City, seeks to correct this impression. He gives most of the credit for the success of the Graham Island exhibit to Austin Richardson, of Lawn Hill, whose zeal and untiring energy have done much towards the success of the Islands. Neil Walsh, another capable producer, is located at Tl Ell River, while Mrs. Turney, the double prize-winner in the butter competition, is from the same district.

Though he says little about it, Mr. Barge is there when it comes to growing fruits, particularly cherries, at Queen Charlotte City. J. Kitson, of Sandspit, Moreby Island, with R. H. Cole and John Mathers, of the same district, are very capable ranchers who raise the best of fodder and root crops. W. J. Leary, of Miller Creek, and W. J. Smith, of Queen Charlotte City, are both extensive growers of fruits and vegetables. Ivor Matlock, of Lena Island and Mr. Delahay, of Lawn Hill, are also in the first rank of exhibitors.

The ladies of the Islands contributed not a little to the success of their districts in preserved fruits, jelly, poultry and butter. Mrs. E. M. Sandilands, Queen Charlotte City; Mrs. Kitson, Sandspit; Mrs. J. L. Barge, Queen Charlotte City, and Mrs. Stephens and Mrs. Gordon, of Skidegate, were to the fore in those departments.

Though the men on the south end of the Island concede great credit to Charles Harrison, of Massett, for his splendid marine exhibit and regret that he was unable to raise a pumpkin this Prisoners and Positions Taken in the Balkans—Russians Score in Galicia—Italians Interrupted.

London, Sept. 25.—The British have attacked the Bulgarians in Greek Macedonia while the Serbians on the left flank have advanced to Kaimakealan, capturing prisoners.

The British have occupied Jenmita and drove the enemy as far as Kara Izkobala, where a strenuous opposition halted their advance. East of Nempore the British naval and field artillery bombarded the enemy trenches successfully.

Russian Success.

Petrograd, Sept. 25.—The Russians are fiercely engaging the Austro-Germans on the Galician front and have captured fifteen hundred prisoners.

Berlin Report.

Italians Retire.

Rome, Sept. 25.—The Italians yesterday withdrew from the summit of Monte Cimone after the explosion of an Austrian mine. They are, however, protecting their abandoned position with a heavy curtain of fire, thus preventing the enemy from taking advantage of their mining work.

terity would never forgive the Eye Witnesses if they overlooked these unconscious displays of wisdom. Consequently the Eye Witnesses must work while the rest of us sleep. Canada cannot afford to miss any of Sam's woodnotes, however wild. Somebody has to sit up with the machine. This is the long end of Major Bassett's job. It's some job—the night shift with Sir Sam. Every word a gem, every movement a picture. Major Bassett has already collected twenty-five thousand miles of film and a stack of phonograph records as high as the Eiffel Tower—and all Sam.

The general election will find Sir Sam armed and ready to the last victrola needle, the ultimate reel. He will multiply himself a hundred thousand times for the little red schoolhouses. All Canada will see and hear him—at picnics, sociables, tea meetings, concerts, oyster suppers—everywhere. You may take the wings of the morning, but you won't be able to get away from Sam—at least not in Canada. He will be there to meet you in speech or moving picture. You can't lose Sam any more than the Borden government can. There has been rumors from time to time that Sam was to be canned. The rumors are true. Sam has done the

GERMANY SAYS TANK METHODS NOT CIVILIZED

Berlin will Register Complaint with Red Cross Against Latest British Machine on the Western Front.

(Special to The Daily News.)

Geneve, Sept. 25.—It is understood that Germany intends to register a complaint with the International Red Cross Society against the British use of "tanks" on the western front. The Germans claim that this method of fighting is contrary to the recognized methods of civilized warfare.

The "tank" or "travelling land fort" is playing havoc with the German defences. For instance, at one point a British advance was held up by heavy German barbed wire defences which our guns had failed to reach. A call was made for one of the "tanks" which came rolling up behind. It rolled forward, walking over the shell craters as if they were level ground, and smashed the whole front of barbed wire, firing rapidly upon the German bombers in the trenches and putting them out of action. The Germans were utterly demoralized by the attack of the motor monster, which appeared before them as a bad dream. This new contrivance has done much towards saving the lives of the British infantry in attack and is proving tremendously effective.
