AMBULANCE WORK

Shortly after the outbreak of war a branch of St. John Ambulance Association was formed in the city and many ladies and gentlemen took advantage of the classes and graduated in first aid work. Now that the first rush of war excitement is over, there is lessening of interest in this splendid work, which is regrettable. Ambulance work is not necessarily connected with warfare, though its greatest use at the present is in that sphere. A knowledge of how to render first aid to anyone who has sustained injury is something of the greatest value and well worth acquiring, and has on many occasions been the means of saving life.

DARING HELEN HOLMES AT MAJESTIC THEATRE

The Majestic Theatre was packl last night when a fine variety of pictures was screened. Helen Holmes brings off another of those daring feats which have other thrilling moment is when Seagrue, the villain, leaps from his horse on to the cab of an en-1 gine while it spins along. "Almost a Widow" is an extremely amusing comedy in which a mouse plays an important part. . The Mutual Weekly is newsy and interesting. In the railroad feature Ed Stillwell is wonderfully successful in producing "effects," even to the tick-tick of the telegraph instrument.
