Greece Given Forty-eight Hours to Hand Over Fleet and Give up Railway—Minister Will Comply.

(Special to The Daily News.)

London, Oct. 12.—A Reuter's despatch from Athens states that Vice-Admiral Du Fournet, the French officer who is commanding the Anglo-French battle fleet in the Mediterranean, has presented an ultimatum to Greece demanding that she hand over her entire fleet to the Allies, excepting the cruiser Averoff and the battleships Lemnos and Kilkis, which are ordered to be disarmed. The ultimatum also calls for the surrender of the Piraeus-Larissa railway, which forms the backbone of all communication lines through the centre of Greece from the Aegean Sea to the Bulgarian frontier, and the dismantling of all sea coast forts within forty-eight hours.

The Minister of Marine in the Lambros cabinet has announced his intention of complying with the demand within the prescribed period.

ASQUITH SAYS NO PATCHED UP PEACE WANTED

Britain Passes Huge New War Loan—German Losses Over Three Millions—Old Men Are Called Up.

(Special to The Daily News.)

London, October 12.—Premier Asquith, in moving the thirteenth British war vote of three hundred million pounds in the House of Commons yesterday, said that he has estimated Great Britain's daily war expenditure at five million pounds.

Speaking to the motion, he concluded an able and lucid speech on the financial side of the war as follows: "Great Britain and her allies cannot allow this war to end in a patched-up, precarious, dishonoring compromise, masquerading under the name of peace."

German Losses.

An official British compilation of German casualties up to the end of September gives a total of killed and wounded of 3,556,018.

Old Men Called Up.

A Reuter's despatch from Berlin announces that Germany has ordered all men between the ages of 58 and 63, who have been previously declared unfit, to report for examination and to be ready to serve.

INTERESTING PHOTO

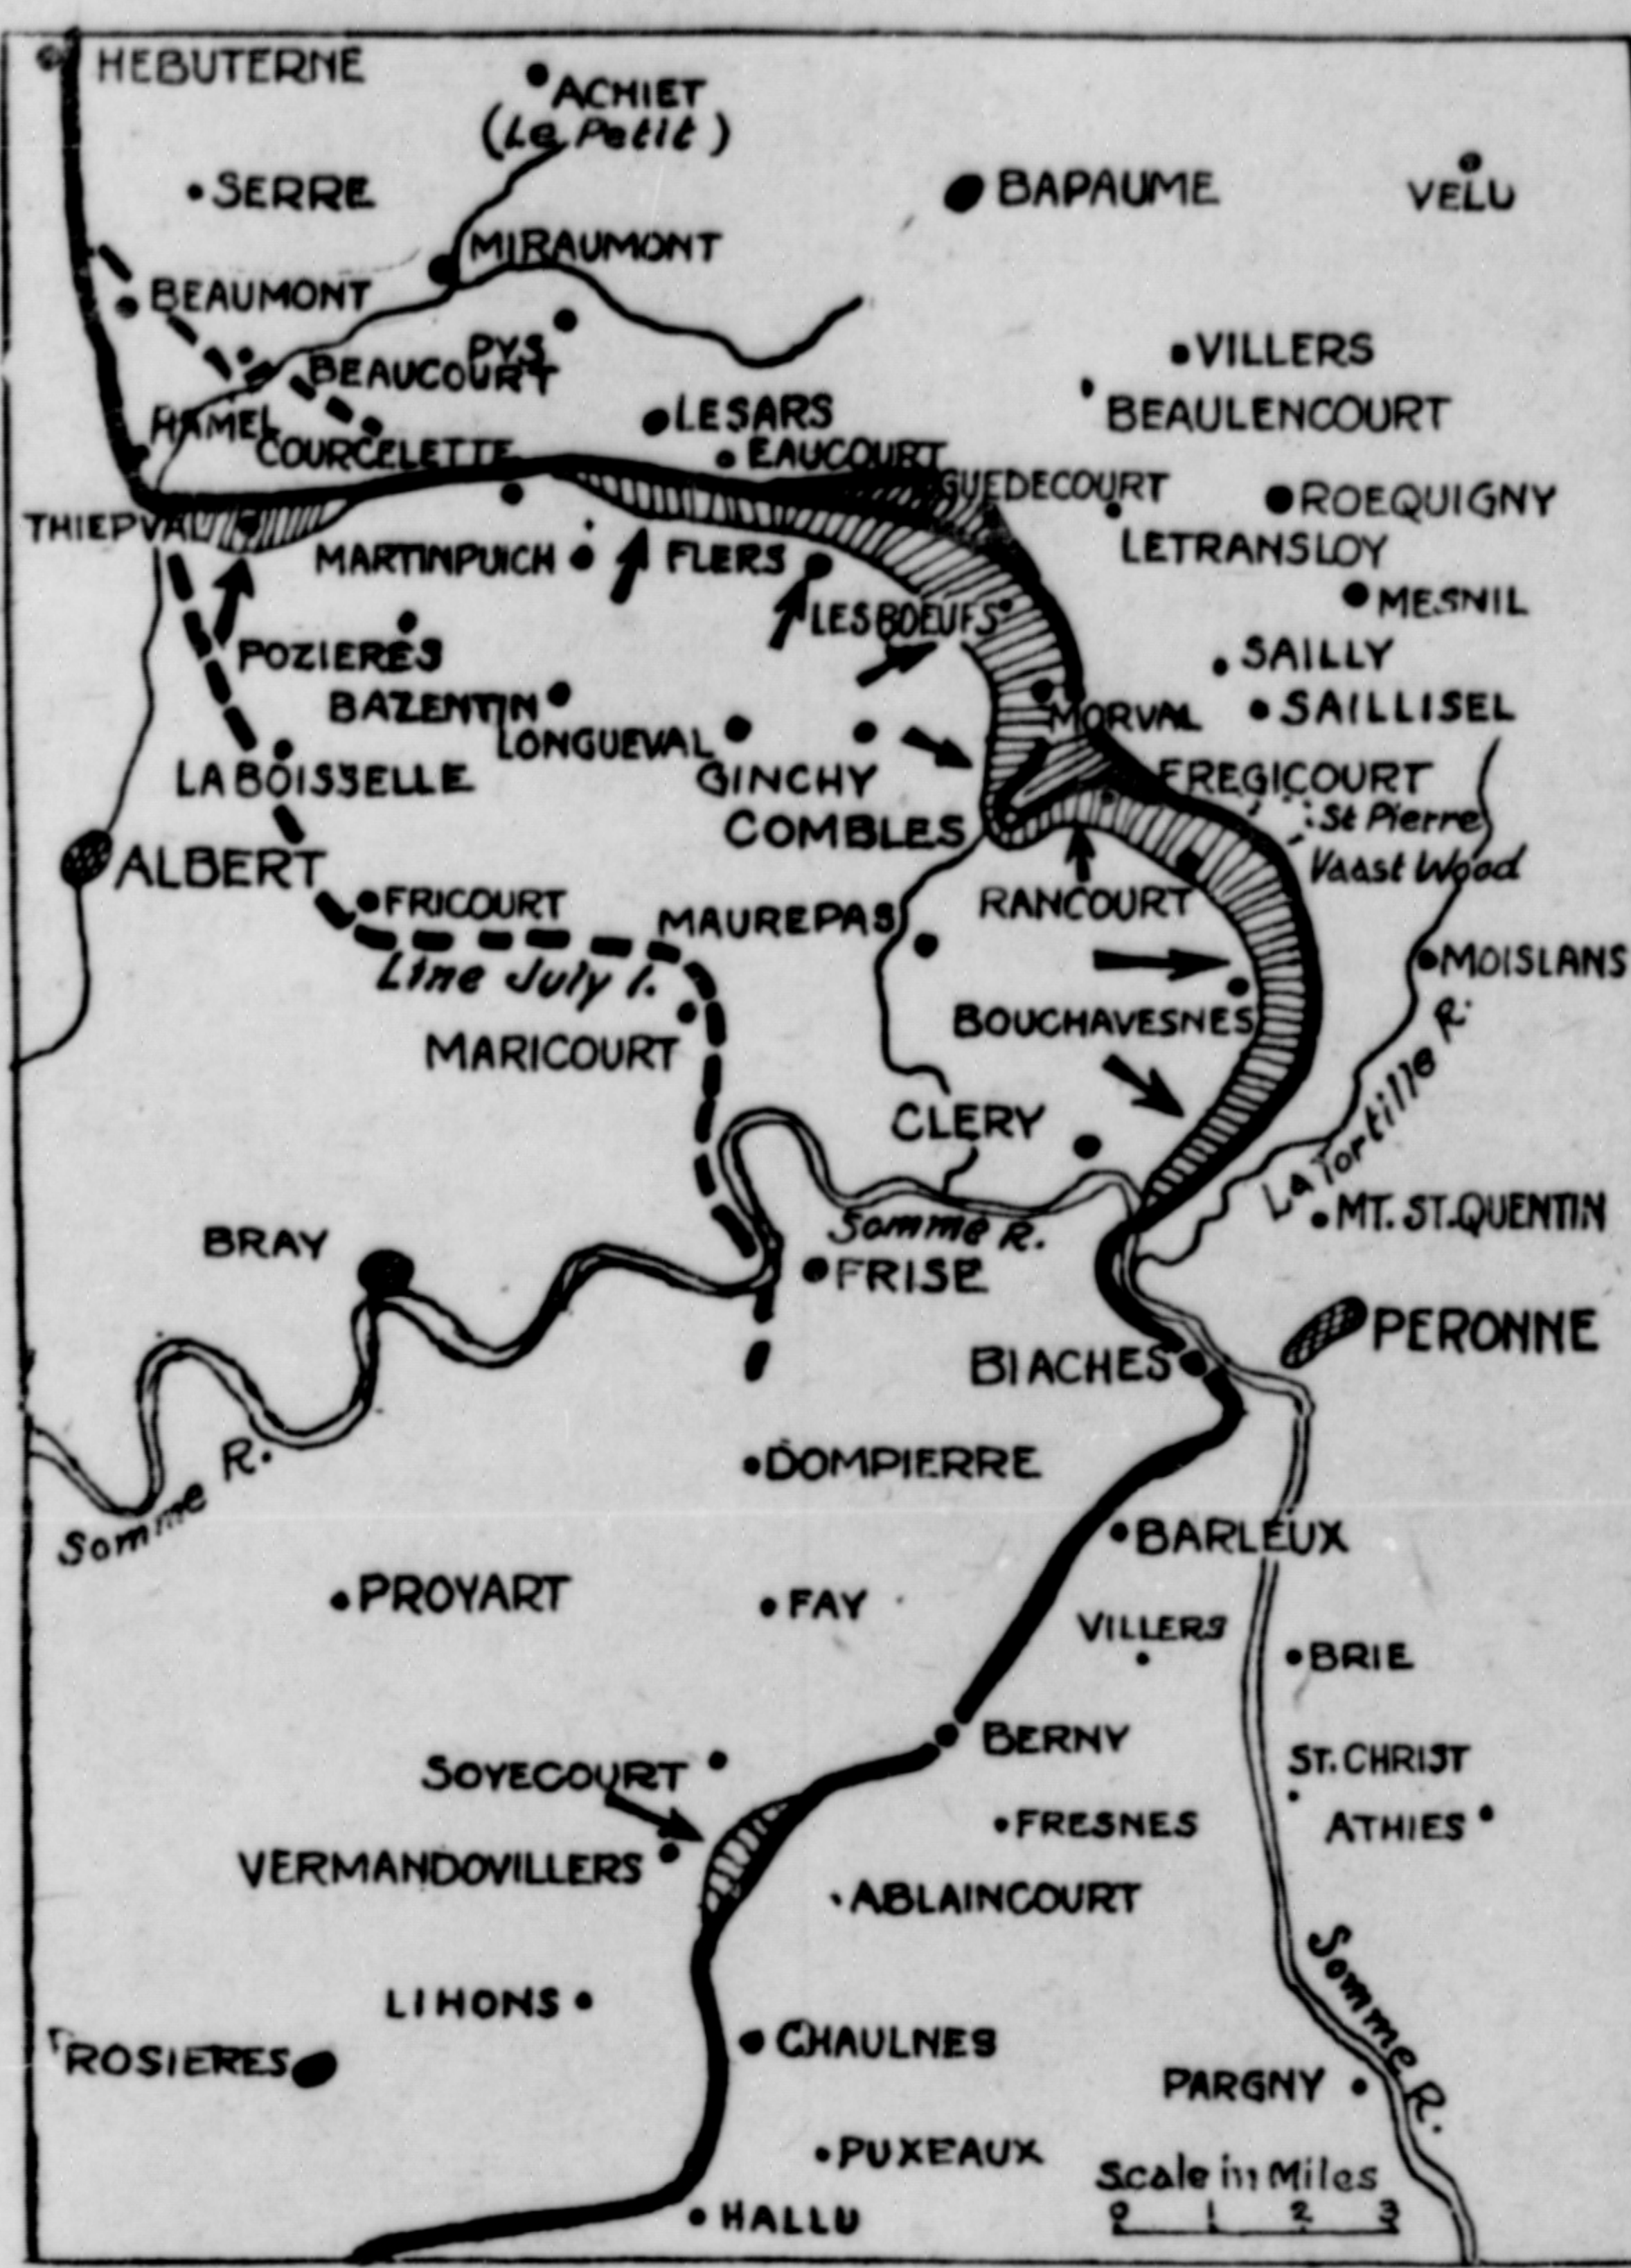

On McCutcheon's Drug Store window there is a splendid panoramic photograph of the Railroaders' Battalion at Valcartier Camp, in which the faces of many Prince Rupert old timers are clearly to be discerned. In the foreground are Angus Stewart, "Tony" McHugh, L. J. Conkey, J. B. L. Macdonald, Hugh McLeod and others equally well known. They are a hardy looking battalion who should give a good account of themselves in helping out the transportation end of the Allies' campaign.

This is clearly shown by this map of the Somme front where the Allies are accelerating their advance. The shaded portions of the map show the advances made on fourteen miles of this front in the recent fighting.

MRS. DE MUSSY WAS DOUBLY BEREAVED

Mrs. De Mussy, who is residing in Paris, has written to Rev. Father Bunoz telling of the death of her husband, Captain De Mussy was killed while leading a charge against Fort Douaumont, on the Verdun front about the end of May. Mrs. De Mussy has suffered a double bereavement as her little baby, born after she returned to live in France, died just a month before the gallant captain gave his life for France. The women of France are bearing much of the sorrow of this terrible conflict and Mrs. De Mussy has suffered more than most. The deepest sympathy of her many friends in Prince Rupert will go out to her in her double bereavement.

MITCHELL ALBERT LOOKS FOR BIG RUSSIAN TRADE

Mitchell Albert, who has just returned from the south, confirms the report that he will leave for Russia in the spring with the intention of embarking upon railway construction. Mr. Albert looks for a largely increased business between this continent and Russia as he expects extensive development in that country after the war. He looks for an enormously increased demand for machinery of all kinds, particularly harvesting machinery. He thinks Canada ought to get busy now to secure a large share of this trade which will otherwise go to the United States. Prince Rupert is the logical shipping point to Vladivostok, being two days nearer that port than any of the ports in the south, and he is of the opinion that now is the time to get busy in this direction.

SWEDEN LAUNCHES FIRST STONE SHIP

London, Oct. 5.—A new type of ship, said to be the first stone vessel ever floated, has arrived at Christiania. The ship, which resembles a large barge, is constructed entirely of concrete, with the exception of the ribs, which are of steel.

It is claimed that this hull will resist damage better than steel, iron or wood, and is consequently safer. The practical application of the idea dates back only a few months ago, but it at once attracted much attention, and M. Bostrom, the minister of marine, and one of Sweden's largest shipowners, immediately ordered a lighter of some thousand tons displacement.

It is proposed to construct concrete ships of from 15,000 to 20,000 tons displacement, to be used as railway ferries between Goteborg and England. The inventor, M. Nicolai Fougner, an engineer, claims to be able to construct any size demanded.

These concrete ships can be sailed or engine like other vessels, and experts consider that a new epoch in shipbuilding has arrived.

Captain Whitten, of the Cold Storage fleet, has gone to England to bring his family over here.

"PADDY" SULLIVAN GOT FOOT CRUSHED

"Paddy" Sullivan, who returned yesterday from England, where he went on active service, had the misfortune to seriously injure his left foot while in training and no one is more disappointed that he has missed his opportunity to get a shot at the Huns than is this Rupert pioneer. Mr. Sullivan has seen active service in Egypt and in South Africa and, though he carries the active service button for this war, his one regret is that he took no really active part in it.
