THE PRESIDENCY

At the time of writing, it seems certain that Woodrow Wilson will be the President of the United States for another term of four years. It has been one of the most remarkable presidential contests ever held, in fact, the most remarkable, as it has had an international bearing. Every country in Europe has anxiously watched the outcome and the probability is that each is satisfied, more or less. The satisfactory part of it is that the outside world knows pretty closely what will be the policy of the United States for the next few years, while there was a good deal of uncertainty about Mr. Hughes, as he had never made any very clear statement of his plans. His friends seemed to content themselves with the reiteration of their belief that he would be a better man for the job than Mr. Wilson. The public kept the politicians guessing right up to the close of the polls and twenty-four hours after the close of the polls they are still guessing.

If Mr. Wilson is the victor, and it seems certain that he is, since he requires only eight electoral votes out of twenty-seven, the result is largely a personal triumph for the past president. He will have been successful in drawing to his support about a million and a half votes which, in the ordinary course of events, should have gone to the Republicans.

There is little doubt that the fact that Woodrow Wilson has been successful in keeping the United States out of the European conflagration had not a little to do with the result. The war has brought tremendous prosperity to the people of the United States, and the party in power, rightly or wrongly, is usually given a certain amount of credit for industrial well-being. The policy of letting "well enough" alone appeals to the majority of people. There is also little doubt that the vast majority of the labor vote went to Mr. Wilson as a result of the recent passing of the eight hour day for railroad men.

There is no denying the fact that, in Canada, President Wilson, since the outbreak of the war, has been regarded as much too lenient in his interpretation of international law, as regards the submarine activities of Germany, and there was a pretty general feeling that Mr. Hughes would prove a stronger man in this respect. Still, it is realized that President Wilson has found himself in a very difficult position, with big possibilities of domestic complications. He has done his duty, as he saw it, and, after all, his first duty is to the United States of America.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

There was not a great deal of general interest here in the presidential election, the general opinion being that it mattered little who was elected, but those who had a financial interest in the result had an exciting time for twenty-four hours or more, and, whichever way their sympathies lay, they had a real good run for their money.

Throughout the presidential campaign the United States press seemed to be absolutely puzzled as to the outcome, though of course each party paper claimed victory for its candidate and after the results began to come in press reports and opinions were so mixed up with actual figures that it was hard to tell which way it was going.

Constantine seems to be a back number as a king now and the Allies are evidently doing just as they please in Greece, even to commandeering Tino's submarines, destroyers, etc. The Greek king's protests of sympathy one day and neutrality the next brought about the only possible result.

The Everett battle put the Somme and Rumanian fronts quite in the shade in the Washington newspapers early this week.

Bowser says he will resign just as soon as the official certificates from London arrive. If the certificates take as long to come as the results of the soldiers' voting did, Bowser may be premier for two weeks yet.

"PEG O' THE RING" AT WESTHOLME TONIGHT

"Peg O' The Ring," the great circus serial, will be screened at the Westholme tonight only, as there is such a great demand for this famous film that it must be rushed to Vancouver on the next boat. This is undoubtedly one of the finest pictures ever screened and, with such stars as Grace Cunard, Francis Ford and Eddie Polo in the leading parts, the acting leaves nothing to be desired.

Along with this big feature tonight will be presented "A Youth of Fortune," a great five-act society drama, featuring Carter De Haven, who is new to Prince Rupert audiences. It is a Lasky film and nothing more need be said.

On Friday only, Mr. and Mrs. Sessue Hayakawa, the famous Japanese actors, will be presented in "Alien Souls."
