TIMELY SUGGESTIONS ON NATIONAL SERVICE

are not making all the sacrifices. This frame of mind on the part of Canada's young manhood should ultimately compel the government to put in operation that moral compulsion which was mentioned a little while ago. What form should this moral compulsion take? A good example—that is the answer. What does the good example consist of? Well the government might lay its cards on the table—take the public into its confidence—show where it has gone wrong and where it intends to do better. Recruits will not be falling over each other to enlist until the government makes it clear that the square deal is to be its policy henceforward.

How can the government demonstrate that the square deal for the brave men who go to the front to get shot at and for the loved ones they leave behind them is the future policy? By deeds, of course. Actions, as we all know, speak louder than words.

The very first thing the government might do is to make a plain statement of the shell contracts since the beginning of the war, the prices paid, and the profits in 1915, as compared with the profits now. This statement should include not only the amounts paid to Canadian munition manufacturers for Canadian war material, but the amount paid to Canadian manufacturers by the Imperial Munitions Board

THE ANSWER IS WEAR RUBBERS

Many People Will Don Goloshes Early This Season to Combat the High Cost of Leather Foot-wear

"Buy rubbers," says the shoe-man, the dealer who plays fair with his customers.

Leather is up and shoes are up to such an extent that the buying of a pair of shoes is almost on a level with the acquiring of a new suit or coat. Shoes must be worn, but the economical person will don rubbers as soon as the weather gets the least bit "damp under foot"; not only for the protection to the health that the rubbers afford, but to save the costly shoes he or she wears.

There was never a problem in economics that was not solved sooner or later, and rubbers and overshoes seem to be the answer to the augmented price of shoes this winter.

on behalf of the British War Office. Moreover, the War Purchasing Committee of which the Minister of Militia, Mr. Kemp, is the chairman, should come forward with a complete statement of its transactions since it took over the business of buying supplies. If these statements were supplemented by a hint that the government intended to go after excessive war profits, a great deal harder than it has been doing, it would enhance the moral compulsion of the thing about one hundred per cent.

Some such statement as this ought to be forthcoming. It is asking a great deal of the public to go on believing that all is right as right can be when the facts are systematically concealed. A frank, honest balance sheet of war expenditures would be readily understood by the Canadian people and they would soon let Sir Thomas White know whether or not to take a little more out of the profiteers.

Another guarantee of good faith on the part of the Borden government would be to make an example of one of their cold storage supporters, one of those fellows who, under the pretext of heavy exports to feed the soldiers abroad—at the top price by the way—take advantage of this over-worked excuse to squeeze the people at home for the last dollar. This fellow is a disgrace whatever way you look at him. If he takes the customary profits of peace pears and full harvests, instead of taking his medicine with the rest of us, then he is a poor patriot. If he takes double and triple profits, as he generally does, then he is a robber. It would help recruiting a great deal if the government would hold one of these land pirates up to public execration, unmask his methods, and punish him accordingly. Not sudden death—we are not spiteful—something slow and lingering. For example, he might be forced to eat all the eggs he has kept in jail for more than a year. This would make a fine busy hell for him for the remainder of his natural life. Prospective recruits would feel much better for it. They could leave their wives and mothers behind in the assurance that they would not be gouged for every dollar of patriotic fund or separation allowance to keep from starving.

Another act of grace on the part of the Borden government would be to say to all the non-combatant officers in handsome uniforms in the Pay and Records Office, at London, "It's your turn at the front. Fight or go home." The same thing could be said to the stay-at-home brigadiers on this side of the water. There are enough urgers in Canada, husky fellows who keep egging the rest of the people on, to make a couple of regiments. Everybody would be glad to see them get their chance in the fighting line. Another regiment might consist entirely of the honorary colonels, with which Sir Sam has bestrewed this happy country.

Joking aside, the government would do well to get after the four-flushers who strut around in khaki, but have no intention of getting nearer the front than Piccadilly or the Strand. Make them wear the red and gold and feathers of the ante-bellum days. That would cure their prancing. Let khaki be the real distinction. These morning glories who take no risks should be placarded some way or other. If they were, recruiting would get a big boost among real soldiers.

Another thing that would help recruiting would be fair treatment for Major General Lessard—a man's size job at the front for which this fine soldier has been yearning ever since the war started. The government probably thinks it would have too good an effect in Quebec, where it has no real desire to recruit for fear of offending its Nationalist allies.—H. F. GADSBY.

2,000,000 Belgians Depend on us for Bread!

Since shortly after the German invasion, the Belgians have depended for food entirely on the "Commission for Relief in Belgium". Their own store of food, even if not destroyed or pillaged, would last only three weeks—they have had no chance to raise more—and the ruthless Germans refuse to supply them!

Backed by the so generously contributed in the British Empire and the United States, the neutral Belgian Relief Commission has imported enough wheat, flour and other foods to feed the whole nation so far. The great majority of the 7,000,000 Belgians left in the country have been able to pay for their daily allowance of bread—but a steadily growing number have no money left.

Unless we are willing to let these hundreds of thousands of women, children and old men starve, they must be fed at the expense of the Belgian Relief Fund. To make this possible someone must contribute nearly $3,000,000 a month—every month—all this winter!

No people under the Allied Flags are as well able to contribute generously as we Canadians! No cause has ever been more deserving of help! In the name of Justice and Humanity—for the sake of our own self-respect—let us give all we can to help our martyred Allies!

The Poor Man's University

"JONES knows more about motor cars than any other man I know," said a man to his friend. "He has obtained his knowledge chiefly from motor car advertisements, and the catalogues and booklets circulated through them."

"All I know about photography," declared a well-known amateur, "I have learned from the men who advertise cameras, plates, papers and films."

Advertisements have been well called "The Poor Man's University," but other than poor men have been schooled thereby.

Much of what the average individual knows concerning personal and domestic hygiene, modern office methods, books and authors, electricity, precious stones, investments, and almost everything else, he has learned from advertisements.

Advertisements have stimulated our intelligence, added enormously to our knowledge, and given us aspirations which have raised us to higher levels of thinking and living. Advertising is indeed "The Poor Man's University."

If you are doing a local business talk over your advertising problems with the Advertising Department of this newspaper.
If you are doing a provincial or national business it would be well for you to have the counsel and assistance of a good advertising agency. A list of these will be furnished, without cost or obligation, by the Secretary of Canadian Press Association, Room 563, Lumsden Building, Toronto.
