

NOTED MUSICIAN OF MONTREAL

Advise The Use Of "FRUIT-A-TIVES", The Famous Fruit Medicine.

MR. ROSENBERG
589 Casgrain St., Montreal.
April 20th, 1915.

"In my opinion, no other medicine in the world is so curative for Constipation and Indigestion as 'Fruit-a-tives'. I was a sufferer from these complaints for five years, and my sedentary occupation, Music, brought about a kind of Intestinal Paralysis—with nasty Headaches, belching gas, drowsiness after eating, and Pain in the Back. I tried pills and medicines of physicians, but nothing helped me. Then I was induced to try 'Fruit-a-tives', and now for six months I have been entirely well. I advise any one who suffers from that horrible trouble—Chronic Constipation with the resultant indigestion, to try 'Fruit-a-tives', and you will be agreeably surprised at the great benefit you will receive".—A. ROSENBERG.

NATIONAL SERVICE AND RECRUITING

to be rejected after being carried on the pay roll for two years at an expense of a hundred million dollars—at which rate, we repeat, Premier Borden would have had to wait a year and a half to make good his boast of sending five hundred thousand fighting men to the front. What happened to throw this chill into recruiting?

It is an open secret. The recruiting sergeant in the big cities were allowed to lecture at the street corners as usual, just for the advertising there was in it—a sort of guarantee of good faith on the part of the government—but quietly, almost covertly, orders were sent around to the recruiting offices in the smaller communities, where recruiting was going on briskly, to slow up. As all these officers were paid by the government, they naturally eased up when told to do so from Ottawa. The slump in recruiting took effect at once. One gallant colonel who was getting twelve dollars a day for drumming up recruits contemplated an attack on a town which was virgin territory. He had gone so far as to hire a brass band to inflame public sentiment, when he received a peremptory telegram from Ottawa not to get so gay. Similar incidents occurred all over Canada. Great care was taken that battalions then recruiting should not reach full strength. Some of them had a hard time to keep under the required number, but always, when in sight of the amount, they would trade a hundred recruits or more to some other battalion that was just starting.

It follows, of course, that National Registration is another bluff. The Hon. Frank Oliver pretty well explained that little game a fortnight ago when he showed that in all the belligerent countries except Canada national service, as it is called, means one of two things, compulsory military service or compulsory industrial service. Primarily, of course, it means compulsory military service, and only after the call in that direction have been satisfied does it mean industrial service. But in Canada it means neither. If the questions on the registration card mean anything they mean that Director Bennett is snooping round to find out how many men are available for work in the munition factories. As the Imperial Munitions Board is now advertising, by way of making a noise, for men for whom there are no jobs, it would seem that the munition factories are, for the time, glutted and that Director Bennett's inquest is superfluous.

However, it may come in handy later on—that is to say, if the workingman is willing to tear up his home by the roots and go where the government orders him, in order to make money for the shell profiteers. Incidentally Finance Minister White asked for and got another war appropriation of five hundred million dollars this session and no one said him nay which was, of course, the right and loyal thing to do. This half billion appropriation is the largest yet and, with the other appropriations of 1914, 1915 and 1916, makes over a billion dollars in war appropriations during the three years. This is a huge sum. Counting in our other obligations our national debt is now nearly two billion dollars, and it will take some taxing to meet interest charges and current expenditures.

This may lead the workingman to ask why the munition industry is not nationalized, so that the billion dollars worth of munitions Canada will have made up to the end of 1917 may offset the billion dollars of debt we have contracted in the same period. A foolish question? The government, has given the munition profiteers nothing more than a love tap in the way of taxes, and it has no intention of nationalizing the industry. Which means that if the workingman, smoked out by the registration cards, shifts from one part of Canada to the other he does it less to help Canada out of a hole than to make some rich shell maker richer.—H. F. Gadsby.

2,000,000 Belgians Depend on us for Bread!

Since shortly after the German invasion, the Belgians have depended for food entirely on the "Commission for Relief in Belgium". Their own store of food, even if not destroyed or pillaged, would last only three weeks—they have had no chance to raise more—and the ruthless Germans refuse to supply them!

Backed by the

so generously contributed in the British Empire and the United States, the neutral Belgian Relief Commission has imported enough wheat, flour and other foods to feed the whole nation so far. The great majority of the 7,000,000 Belgians left in the country have been able to pay for their daily allowance of bread—but a steadily growing number have no money left.

Unless we are willing to let these hundreds of thousands of women, children and old men starve, they must be fed at the expense of the Belgian Relief Fund. To make this possible someone must contribute nearly $3,000,000 a month—every month—all this winter!

No people under the Allied Flag are as well able to contribute generously as we Canadians! No cause has ever been more deserving of help! In the name of Justice and Humanity—for the sake of our own self-respect—let us give all we can to help our martyred Allies!

Dr. Price's CREAM BAKING POWDER

There is no alum in Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder. The names of its ingredients, printed on the label of every can, show it to be made from Cream of Tartar, which comes from grapes.

No alum baking powder or food containing alum is permitted to be sold in many countries. To avoid alum read the label and use only baking powder made from cream of tartar.

The Case of A.B. Smith Retailer.

A. B. SMITH has a dry goods store in a certain Canadian city.

He does a good business, but wants to do more. He believes that Advertising in his local newspaper is the way to get more business. So he advertises—every now and then.

This is where our friend Smith is wrong—in advertising every now and then. He should advertise regularly—as frequently as his local newspaper is published.

Smith says he wants to advertise regularly, but he can't always find the time to prepare advertisements, which is true, for he is his own buyer, sales-manager, director of store service, credit man and half-a-dozen other things.

What Smith should do is this: If he is located in one of the smaller cities, in which there are no advertising agencies giving a local copy service, and he has no one among his own staff qualified by instinct or experience to write the daily announcements, he should go to the publisher of the newspaper in which he means to advertise, requesting his help. In nine cases out of ten, the publisher, through his advertising manager, will be only too glad to give Smith the assistance desired.

If Smith is located in one of the larger cities he should secure the services of a recognized advertising agency which will take over the work of preparing his advertisements.

In this way Smith can be sure of having his advertisements prepared regularly and intelligently, with no more trouble to him than the supplying of the information required by the writer of the advertisements.

So Smith can do more business, and more business means a larger income for himself, to say nothing of other gains that go hand in hand with the doing of bigger business.

This man Smith---do you know him?
Are YOU Smith?

If you are doing a local business talk over your advertising problems with the Advertising Department of this newspaper.
If you are doing a provincial or national business it would be well for you to have the counsel and assistance of a good advertising agency. A list of these will be furnished, without cost or obligation, by the Secretary of Canadian Press Association, Room 503, Lansden Building, Toronto.
