NEW BRUNSWICK ELECTION

As in other parts of Canada the tide of Liberalism has swept over New Brunswick. The fair province by the sea has been in the hands of the Conservative party for the last nine years or so. That they were no longer required to administer the affairs of the people was shown very plainly at this election. The parliamentary representation of New Brunswick was in some respects similar to that of British Columbia before this last election. The Liberals in the house were very few in New Brunswick, while in British Columbia we had none. According to our advices, on the first day's voting the Liberals gained twenty seats. There are only forty-eight constituencies altogether. When we see the Liberal principles being voted for by the majority of the electorate in such widely separated provinces, where conditions are so dissimilar, the question naturally arises in our minds, "Is not Toryism becoming obsolete?" Toryism, the chief principle of which is Privilege for the class as against the mass. The time is long past when the English speaking peoples forgot that their kings at one time claimed to rule by virtue of their Divine right. The Divine right of the land-owning aristocracy to make the laws of the land, usually to suit themselves, has been successfully challenged in the old country. But the old idea dies hard.

It is the distinguishing mark of the Conservative party. To rule over a free people, not for the benefit of that people, but for the benefit of their party, that is what the Conservatives have done in the past, and if they ever go back into power, that is what they will do again. But will they ever go back to power? It seems that nowadays the "proletariat" as the official Socialists delight to call us, have begun to learn their power. They recognize that the country gets that government which it asks for, and this time they have asked for something better than they had before. And they have got it. The people at large realize that this old class prejudice and exclusiveness has got to be broken down. Every man should have the right of an equal opportunity to realize that which is in him to the fullest extent.

Before the Diet, all men are equal, or at least so we are taught. Before the Germans, all men have an equal chance. But before a Conservative government, no sir. Not unless you belong to our party. It would seem from recent events the electorate is beginning to see that, they, and they alone have the power to finally get rid of this relic from the feudal age. During the next few years, we may look for very great changes. Many things which have been advocated for years, have been accomplished during the upheaval caused by the war. The final scrapping of the idea of privilege for the few at the expense of the many will be one of the biggest strides in our social progress.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

Trench raids are said to be a Canadian invention and the whole British army has fallen in love with them. The enemy does not like them a little bit. He never knows what to expect and his uncertainty is getting on his nerves.

British ships going and coming at New York to and from European ports and American ships making transatlantic voyages trusting to British protection must be a galling spectacle to those Americans who, fondly believed that "Old Glory" really stood for something.

An American correspondent writing from France says that the idea of the American army taking over a sector of the western battlefield is absurd. He says that France is as full of the troops as it can stand, and that if Washington wants to help the Entente Powers in the field, the only way to do so is to dispatch men across Siberia to take over a part of the Russian line.

Beware of the Cold Storage Egg! In his work on food and dietetics Doctor Robert Hutchison says, "the absence of carbohydrates prevents eggs from being in any sense a complete food." This refers to the fresh egg—the egg with a clean bill of health. What would Doctor Hutchison say of the modern cold storage egg? At present prices two eggs cost ten cents—and the egg is not a complete food! Something must be eaten with it to supply the needed carbohydrates. Two Shredded Wheat Biscuits, with cream or milk, make a complete, perfect meal at a cost of four or five cents. WESTHOLME THEATRE

In the Westholme tonight in "The Honorable Friend," Hayakawa is seen as a young Japanese gardener working for a wealthy and unscrupulous Japanese curio dealer. The old man is desirous of a bride and sends Hayakawa's picture as his own to Japan, and Hayakawa is sent to the dock to marry the Japanese girl, having been told that she is to be his own wife. When he brings her before the old curio dealer, and learns that she is to be taken away from him, there is something doing. How affairs are finally adjusted and the old man receives his just deserts, and the two lovers are re-united, is presented in a most dramatic manner.
