THE GERMAN RETREAT

War Correspondents' Headquarters in France, March 5.—The German withdrawal and the British advance to the southwest of Bapaume still continues. Tuesday night the German troops abandoned Gommecourt and the British took possession without a fight. It was here on July 1st of last year that waves of London men assaulted an almost impregnable position and by the highest valor and sacrifice broke and held their lines until forced back by massed gunfire which threatened them with annihilation. Many British dead lay there, and the place will be haunted forever by the memory of their loss and great endurance.

Last night the gates were open. The German troops had stolen away in the dusk, leaving nothing behind but refuse of trench life. In order to keep the way open for their withdrawal strong posts of Germans with machine guns held out in the wedge just south of Rossignol Wood and in Biezewood which lies to the west of Bucquoy. These rear-guard posts, numbering an officer or two and anything between fifty and sixty men, with machine guns, and probably telephones keeping them in touch with the main army, chosen for their tried courage and intelligence, stay behind with orders to hold on to the last possible moment. They are doing so with determined spirit.

Are Wise to Tricks.

All tricks of war are being used to check and kill the British patrols. In addition to telephone wires attached to explosives, German helmets have been left about with bombs concealed in them so as to explode on being touched, and there are other devices of this kind which are ingenious but hardly worth the trouble.

German snipers and machine-guns give the British greater trouble, but they are being routed out from their hiding-places. There was a lot of them in the ruins of Pulpisieux, but last night, after sharp fighting and a grim man-hunt among the broken brickwork, they were destroyed, and the British line now runs well beyond it to Gommecourt on the left and down to Iries on the right.

The Germans have destroyed Iries Church tower, as they have destroyed the Church of Achiet-Le-Petit and the famous clock tower of Bapaume. This is to get rid of positions of observation which might be useful to the British in their advance. Heavy shell fire has been concentrated by the Germans on Iries and they are also barraging high explosives upon it.

The latest village to fall into our hands is Thillois, north of Ligny Thillois and just south of Bapaume. The Germans are now retiring to Loupard Wood, Achiet-Le-Petit and Bucquoy, strongly defended for the time being by a thick belt of wire.

Some of the German dead among the rear guard appears to have been equipped for three or four weeks, another indication, as figured by their officers, that the retirement movement may extend over thirty days and that the desire is to delay any extensive British forward movement during that time.
