THE TREND OF EVENTS

At the present moment the American people seem to be of one voice in their hostility to Germany. Demands for an open declaration of war are being heard from various parts of the country. The language being used at the public war meetings all over the United States indicates the state of mind of the majority of the people. Were there only small isolated outbursts here and there, it might be taken no notice of, but when influential citizens of New York speak of war to crowded audiences such as happened last week, that state of mind which precedes a popular war will be recognized. The trouble in Congress over the armed neutrality bill has caused the American people to feel, as they have given no indication previously of feeling, that their national honor has been hurt. And the movement toward active hostilities seems to be moving in an inexorable procession.

The United States were always good friends with Germany. Nowhere had the Germans better friends. Yet the German government deliberately deceived them, insulted them, blew up their factories, sunk their ships, murdered their citizens. And yet they had friends. The boundless forbearance found in the United States has been mistaken for weakness. The German idea was that the United States would not fight. They could be scorned and insulted with impunity, but at last, the friends of Germany in the United States have discovered that the repeated treachery and ingratitude of Germany is too much to be borne always. Magnanimity in nations is well, but there comes a time for a righteous anger, being displayed. The friends of Germany are now friends no longer. Germany has deliberately estranged her best friends, with that lack of political wisdom, which has always characterized the German. That they should deliberately invite their most powerful friends to become their enemy seems to be the height of madness. The more especially under the present circumstances.

When final disaster overtakes the German Empire, what the people will say to their erstwhile rulers, who have led them to their ruin, time will show. History shows in what rude and arbitrary fashion the populace dealt with their rulers in previous times, when a nation was brought to ruin.

Revolutions accompanied by much bloodshed have happened before, and when the German people learn by what means their name has been caused to stink in the nostrils of the whole civilized world there will assuredly be a day of reckoning.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

The Toronto Mail and Empire recently demanded that the Canadian government deal in a direct way with speculators in foods and declared that the people looked to the government and to nobody else to remedy the trouble. It asks for instant action, not long-range negotiation. If investigators are put on the job they might start work with a perusal of the annual statements of some of the big products companies. One large flour concern boasted of a more profitable year in 1916 than ever before in its history. It paid fat bonuses to its shareholders. This is no time for super-profits. This is war-time, a time of stress without precedent in the annals of the whole world, a time of sacrifice for everybody.

Well-informed American newspapers and thinking Americans generally frankly admit that the main bulwark of their country is Britain's seapower. If that bulwark were beaten down the Allies would be defeated on all fronts and nothing could save the United States from a German invasion. Our neighbor's navy would be out-shipped, out-gunned and out-manned. There is practically no army.

Professor Stephen Leacock, of Montreal, recently uttered the following warning in an address before the Housewives' League of that city: "We are in sight of a terrible food famine, such as the world has never seen. We must take steps betimes if we wish to avoid national and world-wide disaster. We must at all costs increase our food supply."

It may be that Professor Leacock is putting too much sombre coloring on his picture, but it would be well, nevertheless, to Twenty-Five Cents a Day spent for the right kind of food will keep a man in good health, fit for any task. Two Shredded Wheat Biscuits, served with hot milk, make a complete, perfect meal at a cost of four or five cents—a meal that supplies in digestible form every element needed to build new tissue and furnish heat and energy for the human body. At twenty-five cents a day for three meals there is a margin of ten cents for fruit or green vegetables. Such a diet means a clean stomach, healthy liver, active bowels. For breakfast with milk or cream. Made in Canada.

take no chances. If the outlook is as serious as he says it is—and undoubtedly it is serious—it will not be long before we have a food controller in Canada.

Gardening, once a hobby, has become a business proposition. The man who has an available backyard and does not cultivate it this coming season is wasting money. No great skill is required to turn a small plot of land into money in the bank. A little application of the first principles, a little spare time spent in healthy outdoor exercise and a small outlay of cash means a surprising return of good eatables fresh for the pot.

GETTING BACK WHAT WAS ALIENATED

Victoria, March 13.—Preparatory to what is considered a move on the part of the government to cancel a large part of the coal and petroleum land locations, a bill has been introduced in the house by the minister of lands amending the Coal and Petroleum act by the insertion of a clause empowering the lieutenant-governor-in-council by notice signed by the minister and published in the official Gazette to cancel any reservations on sixty days notice. The amendment also gives the minister the power to place coal and petroleum lands upon reserve.

2,000,000 Belgians Depend on us for Bread!

Since shortly after the German invasion, the Belgians have depended for food entirely on the "Commission for Relief in Belgium". Their own store of food, even if not destroyed or pillaged, would last only three weeks—they have had no chance to raise more—and the ruthless Germans refuse to supply them!

Belgian Relief Fund

so generously contributed in the British Empire and the United States, the neutral Belgian Relief Commission has imported enough wheat, flour and other foods to feed the whole nation so far. The great majority of the 7,000,000 Belgians left in the country have been able to pay for their daily allowance of bread—but a steadily growing number have no money left.

Unless we are willing to let these hundreds of thousands of women, children and old men starve, they must be fed at the expense of the Belgian Relief Fund. To make this possible someone must contribute nearly $3,000,000 a month—every month—all this winter!

No people under the Allied flag are as well able to contribute generously as we Canadians! No cause has ever been more deserving of help! In the name of Justice and Humanity—for the sake of our own self-respect—let us give all we can to help our martyred Allies!
