THE P. G. E.

In a striking indictment of the men responsible for plunging this province into its present position as regards railway obligations, the minister of railways, the Hon. John Oliver, had somewhat to say to the members of the late government. The minister offered a convincing case for a thorough enquiry into the Pacific Great Eastern Railway Company and the relations of the company with the province.

The main facts of the case are well known. They appeared in the official returns and in admissions drawn from the late government last session. But when the investigation gets under way, there is no doubt that it will elicit evidence as yet not made public, which will justify far more than has ever been said or written about the unwisdom of the late government's railway policy. The two succeeding premiers of the late government were accused, and particularly Mr. Bowser, of collusion with the heads of the Pacific Great Eastern in the illegal payment out of the proceeds of the sale of the guaranteed bonds. It is interesting to note that the entire cost of constructing the road has thus far been borne by the province. All the monies raised by the sale of the guaranteed bonds, exceeding twenty millions, have been handed over to the company. And this includes an overpayment of $5,-700,000 in defiance of the statute.

The promoters were permitted to divide the capital stock of $24,000,000 among themselves without putting up a cent for it, which is another
