The mysterious piece of bride's cake received by Chief Vickers lately turns out to have been from Jack Hutchins, late Provincial constable at Granby. Jack is now apparently taken in charge himself.

At the Westholme tonight will be screened a virile drama of Kentucky mountain life entitled "Fighting Blood." It is a drama of out-of-doors. The interest of the spectator is gripped from start to finish by the preacher who quells for a time his desire to fight, and when he at last does cut loose, his "Fighting Blood" is shown to good advantage. Mut and Jeff are there too, and the orchestral programme is something fine.

way with no interference from the Borden Government, although the sugar refiners' sources of supply remained unaltered by the war.

Bread started to behave badly and that would have been a very serious matter indeed. The people realized that the Borden Government wouldn't do anything about it, except perhaps to let the Hon. Mr. Crothers play battledore with it, so they took it in hand themselves. The housewives started baking their own bread and the boycotted bakers soon came to time. The bakers came to time first and the millers next. When the bakers got mad enough the price of flour took a tumble, thus showing that all things work together for good when they are not allowed to work together against the best interests of the consumer. But no thanks is due to the Borden Government for the reduced price of bread. It did not lift a finger to help.

Owing to the splendid inaction of the Borden Government butter continues to have its own way—which indicates not that the butter is strong but that the Borden Government is weak. The Hon. Martin Burrell has it in mind to be known as Butter's Best Friend. At all events he won't listen to any proposals to let oleomargarine in. The Hon. Martin Burrell is a better friend to butter than he is to the common people. Speaking of Martin Burrell, there is his famous apple policy by and through which it is possible for Ontario people in an apple country like Western Ontario to get Ontario apples for five cents a piece, which is just what a prime California orange and an Oregon apple costs after paying freight from the Pacific coast, and three and three-quarters more than a banana costs after paying its way from the West Indies.

By means of this enlightened policy Ontario people are asked to eat British Columbia apples and no doubt British Columbia people are asked to eat Ontario ones. The longest way round is the shortest way home. Now that England has put an embargo on Canadian apples, the Canadian people may be able this fall to get Canadian apples at a more reasonable price—say two for five cents. But the Canadian consumer can thank the war for it, not the Borden government. According to the Borden government all the home market deserves is the high prices and the scrubs.

Space lacks here to tell how bacon has soared until now it is as high a moral plane as Mr. J. W. Flavelle. Also how the egg remains high—and strong, while homemade cheese keeps right up with the dearest foreign brands. Not to string it out too long—how about potatoes? In Canada potatoes are five dollars a bag. In war-stricken England, on short rations as she is, potatoes are a dollar and a quarter a bag. Such are the benefits Canada derives from the Borden government. Never was Canada so dear to her people as she is now.—H. F. Gadsby.
